NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 27.
It is feared fifteen persons were drowned by the disaster to the ferry boat which collided with a ship at anchor in the Mersey yesterday.

OLDHAM, Nov. 27.
Six hundred operatives have resumed work at the reduced wages, and others will probably follow.

ROME, Nov. 27.
The newspapers report several assassinations in the Provinces. It is not known whether they were political or not.

PESTH, Nov. 27.
Last night, while M. Tisza, Hungarian Prime Minister, was entertaining Andrassy and a number of the members of the delegation, a bombshell exploded in an alley between the fortress and theatre, and the minister's palace. An examination of the fragments showed the bomb to have been charged with dynamite. The windows of the palace were shattered, but nobody was hurt. There is no clue to the perpetrators. Great excitement prevails.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 27.
It is expected, on the Czar's return, a decision will be reached concerning the proposed changes in high administration and diplomatic posts. There is no foundation for the rumor that the London and Vienna Ambassadors will exchange places. The foregoing probably indicates the approaching retirement of Gortschakoff.

There is no foundation for the statement that Russia will accept the declaration of the Porte, acknowledging the validity of the unmodified portion of the Treaty of San Stefano in lieu of the treaty.

LAHORE, Nov. 25.
Gen. Roberts reached Fort Mahood Azim, near Kurum fort, without opposition.

LONDON, Nov. 27.
A despatch to the "Standard" says, Fort Mahood Azim, otherwise called Kharum Fort, was occupied by the British forces yesterday; The Afghan garrison fled to Piewar at the northern extremity of the Khurum valley; where they are expected to resist any further advance of General Roberts. One dismantled gun was found in the fort.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 27, 1878.

Secretary of War McCrary takes occasion in his annual report—which was read and discussed at the last Cabinet meeting—to ventilate his pet hobby of educating the rank and file of the Army, and of establishing schools for the soldiers for that purpose. Other interesting passages in his report are those in which he asks Congress to legalize his action in furnishing supplies to the yellow fever sufferers and to reimburse the Army for those supplies, and asks for the passage of a bill giving a pension to the widow of Lieut. Benner, who died while in charge of the yellow fever relief boat. It would seem that such a bill could scarcely meet wit opposition from any source. Mrs. Benner is not entitled to a pension under the law, as her husband did not die while performing military duty; but he was engaged in a common cause of humanity, which not one man in a thousand would have undertaken voluntarily, but which all appreciate and applauded. Surely the widow and fatherless children of such a hero should be cared for in their helplessness. Their dead loved one must needs have been one who would have shielded them from all danger and hardship had he lived; but, having given his life for thousands of his fellow-beings, the least a grateful people can do is to care for the dear ones left.

The President and Cabinet are now meeting nearly every day to confer together concerning the President's annual message and the recommendations to be made to Congress in the various Department reports. The message is to contain a full history of what is known as the President's Southern Policy, mention of specie payment resumption, silver money and the fishery award, to which latter subject the report of Secretary of State Evarts is chiefly confined.

A notable wedding occurred here last week—the most interesting one that has delighted our public for many a day. The bride was Admiral Radford's daughter, the young lady who so nearly met her death last year by being thrown from a horse while riding with an equestrian party; and the groom was Hiadamer de Meisser, the second Secretary of the Russian Legation. The peculiar feature of the wedding was, that two marriage ceremonies were necessary, one according to the creed of the Greek Church and the other the Episcopal service. As a member of the former Church, the groom was required to partake of the sacrament as near the wedding day as possible, and, therefore, went to New York to communion the Sunday before his marriage, and Father Byerning accompanied him back to this city to officiate at the marriage service, which was read in Russian instead of Greek. The service has never been performed here before, and was, accordingly, of the greatest interest to the favored few who were admitted—for it was not an ostentatious affair. There is no Greek Church here, and this service was, therefore, performed at Admiral Radford's house. An altar was arranged, and one curious scene in the course of the service was, when the bride and groom marched round the altar, each holding on end of the priests robe. The bride and each bridesmaid at one time carried a lighted candle. For awhile the bride had to stand alone on a piece of pink satin, and again two of the groomsmen held crowns over the heads of the happy pair. This unique ceremony occupied over an hour's time, and when it was ended the half married couple proceeded at once to the Church of the Ascension, where the beautiful Episcopal service was read in the presence of a host of friends and relatives. The first ceremony was only witnessed by the bride's relatives and a few intimate friends and members of the diplomatic corps.

Mr. Cartwright's Neglect.

Relative to Mr. Tilley's mission to England, and the unsatisfactory state in which his "predecessor" has left the Finance Department, the Montreal Evening Post (Grit) says: "No doubt Mr. Cartwright has left the Finance Department in an unsatisfactory condition. Some provision should have been made to meet coming engagements. Money has to be paid in January, and it was not prudent of Mr. Cartwright to allow September to pass without having made any provision to meet his engagements. This plea that the Reformers did not expect to be beaten is not enough. Whether they were beaten or not, that was no reason why the Finance Minister should not have made preparations to meet his engagements. But we cannot entertain the charges that Mr. Cartwright purposely neglected to do this in order to embarrass the incoming Administration. Mr. Cartwright did not, we believe, expect that the Reformers would have been beaten. There was neglect on his part, no doubt; neglect, too, which approached the culpable, but we do not believe that it was done to throw obstacles in the way of the Conservatives, because he did not expect the Conservatives would win."

Bank Returns.

The Canada Gazette of Saturday brings us the bank returns for October. They cannot be said to reveal any improvement in business, as we have at first sight a decrease of $1,408,073 in liabilities, and of $1,781,566 in assets, though circulation shows an increase of $562,888; the item, however, remains $1,526,000 below the figures for the corresponding month last year, and $1,585,000 below those in October, 1876. Deposits are unfavorable all over. Government deposits have decreased no less than $919,790, much the greater part being in those of the Provincial Governments. Private deposits also have fallen off; there is a decrease of $456,492 in those payable on demand, and of $83,857 in those payable at notice. The amounts due to other banks have decreased—those due to banks in Canada by $248,775, and those to banks in the United Kingdom and foreign countries by $262,134. On the other side of the account we find a decrease of $275,598 in the amount due to banks in Canada, and of $195,196 in those due by banks or agencies in the United Kingdom or foreign countries—thus leaving their relative liabilities much as before. The total amount under discount, in the shape of loans to governments, corporations, on bank stock and bonds, over-due debts and notes current has decreased $614,533 during the month, of which decrease $80,601 is to be found in notes current, and $183,200 in loans on bank stock. The amount of notes current is $6,350,000 less than in the corresponding month last year, and $6,888,000 less than in October, 1877. The amount of over-due notes unsecured has decreased $42,088, and is $581,000 less than in the corresponding month last year. The amount of specie held has increased $118,000, and that of Dominion notes $103,000. It is thus evident that business is not extending; but also that the position of the banks is strengthening, and that they are likely to be in a good position to meet any emergencies should they arise.

Miscellaneous News.

The Mayor of Ottawa has issued a proclamation for a holiday on the arrival of the Marquis

Mr. Shea, Premier of Newfoundland, was married at Quebec, on the 26th inst., to Mrs. Hill, widow of that city.

A private letter from Emerson states it is expected that the Pembina branch will be completed to St. Boisface in two weeks' time.

Miss Machin, late matron general of the Montreal Hospital, has been appointed superintendent and matron of St. Bartholomew's, London, England.

The Minister of Inland Revenue contemplates reducing the number of districts for the inspection of weights and measures to get rid of a number of inspectors.

Mr. McDougall is still at Ottawa awaiting the return of some of the Ministers. In response to inquiries made, he stated that it has not been finally decided that he is to take the Speakership of the Commons.

The Vice-Regal visit engrosses the attention of the entire community of Montreal. The party will arrive there to-day at noon. The military will probably receive them at the depot in a body. The ball takes place on Friday night. There will probably be a review of the volunteer forces on Saturday and a levee in the evening.

Mr. W. H. Walker, of Ottawa, manager of the Dominion Plumbago Company, whose mines and works are near Ottawa, has received the decoration of Knight of the Legion of Honor from the French Government because of his having developed a new enterprise in a new country, surpassing in results those of the old communities and whose products stand first in every class at the exposition. Her Majesty has suspended the rule, forbidding British subjects to receive foreign decorations, in Mr. Walker's case.

Says the Detroit "Free Press":—"Lord Lorne will rule over a Dominion that has some aspirations to becoming a great country yet. The introduction of the National Policy, or 'Canada for the Canadians' idea, shows that the people of the Dominion feel quite independent, and imagine they can go alone without help from any one. Canada is no doubt doing as well as could be expected. Its commercial marine is increasing at the rate of 50,000 tons per annum, and now ranks fifth among the nations, surpassing that of France, Spain, or Germany, and nearly equalling that of Norway and Italy. In railway mileage Canada ranks eighth, having 5,700 miles of railway, or one mile to each 690 persons, while Great Britain has only one mile to every 1,860. The Canadian fisheries, not including Newfoundland, which does not yet form a part of the Dominion, employ some 1,400 vessels, 22,000 boats, over 52,000 men, and over $3,500,000 of capital."
