BRIGHTON DAIRY IS FIRST PURCHASE

Central Farmers Co-Operative Makes First Expansion Move

Malcolm MacKenzie, president of the Central Farmers Co-operative Association along with William Ball, manager of the Co-op Supermarket in Charlottetown, yesterday announced that as of Dec. 1 the association, look its first step of a large expansion program which has been under consideration for almost two years.

This first step was the purchase of the total assets of the Brighton Dairy located on Green Street from Allie MacIntosh who had been the proprietor of the business for some 17 years.

Under Mr. MacIntosh of the past nine years the dairy had captured the top award for processing milk containing the lowest bacterial count and the highest butterfat content in competition with all similar businesses in the province.

Mr. MacKenzie noted that the move into the fluid milk field, represents the realization of a big ambition of the association's first president Guy Rodd.

Both men said they are anxious to assure the present dairy customers, that under co-op management the same standard of cleanliness will be maintained along with the excellent customer service built up over the years by Mr. MacIntosh.

Currently the plant distributed about 600 to 700 quarts of milk daily along with various quantities of whipping cream, table cream, blend and chocolate milk, all of which will be continued to be manufactured.

STAFF RETAINED

On the subject of the staff for the dairy Mr. Ball stated that the services of Mr. MacIntosh has been retained in the capacity of manager, and all the original plant and delivery employees are to be retained.

Prosperity In Agriculture Seen With Farmers' Unity

GEORGETOWN — Planned prosperity with the central aim of developing agricultural wealth in this province was the theme of a meeting held in St. James Hall here Wednesday night when A. Pickard Machinery Ltd., in co-operation with the resources development council, met with members of the Georgetown Industrial Development Group: farmers from adjacent areas in Kings County and other interested persons.

"With a United Effort Prosperity Must Follow" was the theme of several speakers who addressed the meeting and also of a movie (filmed in Cranpud) which portrayed the clearing of three and a half acres of bush land, which within a day was cultivated and sown in oats.

The film also showed the modern method of sub-soiling land, which is sometimes tilled to a hard, moisture-repellant crust. Land in this condition is unable to store water to any depth and it becomes highly susceptible to drought.

In fields where this crust is present, water runoffs results which take untold amounts of valuable topsoil with them into the many ditches and streams over the Island.

Another film showed the disastrous results of water runoffs and how to prevent this by land conservation and reforestation programs.

Temple MacDonald, president of the Georgetown Industrial Group chaired the meeting.

The first speaker was Donald Gordon of A. Pickard Machinery Ltd., who pointed out the necessity of planning ahead in agriculture and other fields of endeavor. He stressed education of the youth as one stage of successful farm planning and when they have received this education they should be persuaded to continue living on the farm.

The profit motive can be utilized by improving farms, he said, so that where one dollar was previously made, two dollars could be made. A farm youth should be also given an incentive to remain on the farm and one important way of doing this is to make him a partner in the farm operation and ownership.

NECESSITY OF UNITY

Rev. Van de Ven of the St. Dunstan's University Extension Department delivered a thought provoking address which stressed the absolute necessity of unity among farmers so they can speak with one voice in their effort to obtain social justice.

This organization can become a reality by farmers meeting, not only in large groups but, also meeting in small groups on farm homes and discussion their problems, he said in many instances the need to organize and success is long and hard but to those who will put forth the effort, nothing is impossible, he concluded.

J. J. MacDonald, field representative for resources and development, Beaton Downey, assistant manager of the Royal Bank in Charlottetown, and Arthur MacDonald, M.L.A. each addressed the meeting. Mr. Downey explained certain aspects of the Farm Improvement Loan Act.

Also attending the meeting, and answering many questions, were: Don Barlow, agriculture contractor, and Stan Vessey of Central Creameries.

At the conclusion of the main meeting all present were treated to doughnuts and coffee by the ladies.

Following the refreshment break and the showing of the second film the members of the Georgetown Industrial Development Group met with J. J. MacDonald and discussed various aspects of industrial development, particularly as they pertain to the present situation in Georgetown.
