

NEW DISARMAMENT PLAN HEARD

Declares Russia Greater Threat Than Ever Before

By HAROLD SIEVE

PARIS (Reuters)—Defence ministers of the Atlantic alliance were told Monday that the Soviet Union has more submarines than all the rest of the world put together—the greatest submarine fleet ever known.

This statement, by U.S. Admiral Jerauld Wright, North Atlantic Treaty Organization Atlantic commander, was the second reminder by NATO's military chiefs to their political leaders that the Soviet union has powerful teeth behind her "Geneva smile"—and is sharpening them all the time.

Wright's briefing for the ministers followed an earlier discussion of Soviet military potential by Gen. Sir John Whiteley, chairman of the NATO military standing group, who declared that the Russian military threat was greater than it had ever been before.

Officers, giving the meeting details of Soviet potential at sea, said the strength of the Soviet submarine fleet today is far greater than that of the German navy in 1939.

BIGGEST IN WORLD

The officer said the Soviet submarine fleet, the most powerful the world had ever known, comprises more underwater vessels than all the nations of the world put together could muster.

He added that while part of NATO's naval forces are in reserve, the Soviet units are always fully manned and ready for sea at any moment.

Wright said he envisaged no possible reductions in NATO's naval forces as any levelling-off would mean that the balance would go increasingly in the favor of Soviet strength.

The three-day meeting has been planned to provide the defence ministers, in a U.N. Canada's Ralph Campney, with a full picture of the East-West military lineup. DOESN'T WANT WAR

Gen. Whiteley told the ministers he does not believe the Soviet Union wants war and will seek to avoid one as long as there is an adequate deterrent in the West.

But he said Russia has achieved spectacular success with jet fighters and bombers, with nuclear weapons and with submarines.

Inquest Ordered In Shooting of Child

INVERNESS, N. S. (CP)—An inquest will be held today into the death of Mary Celine Maclellan, 10, of nearby Centreville, who died Saturday from effects of a bullet wound below the heart.

Police said the child was struck by a .22 calibre rifle bullet during a game of cowboys and Indians. The gun was held by a brother who believed the gun wasn't loaded.

Farm House & Buildings Burned At Wheatley River

The house and farm buildings of Mr. Walter Ling Wheatley River, were completely destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon, causing a loss estimated in the vicinity of $11,000 partially covered by insurance.

Mr. Ling, who with his wife and eleven-year old daughter, Donna occupied the dwelling were at home when the child noticed smoke coming from the barn. The fire gained headway, quickly catching the pump house and thus depriving them of the only water supply.

The Ling farm is not very near any of the neighbors and it was some time before help arrived but willing hands were able to do little to stop the spread of the flames.

The dwelling which was in the path of the wind blowing from the barn, caught and efforts were concentrated in removing the articles of furniture. Most of this was saved.

In the barn was this year's crop of hay, a potato sprayer and a cream separator. The grain had not yet been threshed and no livestock were inside at the time.

Martin Gives Canada's View

NEW YORK, (CP)—Canada Monday suggested world disarmament might be achieved more quickly by international control of the development of future intercontinental weapons of destruction.

Health Minister Martin, Canadian delegate on the five-power United Nations sub-committee on disarmament, said it would be easier for a country to discuss limitation of armaments still being developed than those in existence.

He also told the annual dinner of the National Conference of Christians and Jews that he is more hopeful than at any time in the last 10 years that an effective system will be devised to control existing armaments.

Mr. Martin said past disarmament conferences have wrestled with the problem of achieving a mutually-agreed reduction in already existing armaments.

FINANCIAL BURDEN

"One of the major aims of a disarmament conference should be to reduce the crippling financial burden imposed on all nations of the world. Perhaps the time has come to consider carefully whether this aim cannot be more effectively realized by concentrating our efforts more on the armaments of the future than on present armaments."

Scientific developments showed there was reasonable certainty of a completely new weapons system for intercontinental warfare.

"If the present armament race is maintained this will involve all nations in vast new expenditures on defence against intercontinental ballistic missiles," Mr. Martin said.

"Should we not now explore the possibility of international control of the development of these new agents of destruction—and possibly even international co-operation in peaceful lines? Obviously, it is much easier for any country to discuss objectively the limitation of armaments that it has not yet built than to discuss the destruction of arms already in existence."

Disarmament was an urgent necessity in view of the terrifying capacity of present nuclear weapons. But it would become increasingly urgent as newer and more frightful instruments of destruction were developed.

Mr. Martin said major difficulties still stood in the way of general agreement on a major reduction of armed forces and conventional armaments and the prohibition of atomic weapons.

"The reductions and prohibitions must be so co-ordinated and scheduled that no nation, at any stage in the process, will have genuine cause to fear that its security is endangered. In the course of our sub-committee meetings significant progress has been made towards an agreed position on this most important question of the time table or schedule of reductions and prohibitions."

Former Problem Drinkers Meet

SYDNEY, (CP)—Hundreds of one-time problem drinkers met here from Saturday until Monday for the eighth annual Atlantic Provinces convention of Alcoholics Anonymous.

Registrations numbered nearly 400. Counting the partners of alcoholic wives and husbands, the actual number attending the closed and public meetings was about 600. The manager of this steel city's biggest hotel said it was the largest convention he could remember.

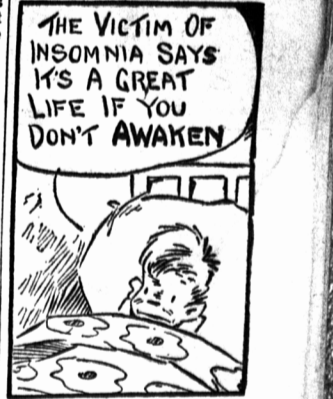

Record Floods

NEW DELHI, (Reuters)—The swollen Jaumna river tore a 60-foot breach in its embankment five miles below New Delhi Monday, flattening crops with its surging waters as the worst floods in the Indian sub-continent's history continued to ravage India and Pakistan.

In New Delhi, the floods subsided six inches, but were still three feet above danger level.

NO RELAXATION

These statements, which have been supported by secret facts and figures, were considered by observers here to be aimed at counterbalancing any public and political relaxation of vigilance which might have been induced by the "Geneva atmosphere."

Wright, whose task is to keep the Atlantic sea lanes open in the event of war, said the Soviet Union is building as fast as her economy will allow an "iron ring" to separate the United States from Europe.

This "iron ring" was made up of submarines, cruisers, destroyer vessels and other ships making it the second biggest navy in the world.

Cardinal MacGuegan Meets Old Friends In Vancouver

When His Eminence Cardinal MacGuegan visited Vancouver recently a pleasant surprise was waiting for him. One of his former classmates at St. Dunstan's University, Mr. A.E.B. Murphy, M.C., a son of the late Senator Murphy of Tignish, was on hand to meet him.

With Mr. Murphy was Mr. John A. Foley of Vancouver. One hundred years old last September, Mr. Foley was born at Waterford and left this Island in 1868. He cheerfully reminded the Cardinal that as a young man he wrote the subject matter for Peter MacGuegan who later became a priest and was an uncle of His Eminence. In his early days, Mr. Foley ran a boxing school in Vancouver and one of his sons, Victor, became very prominent in boxing circles of Western Canada. Mr. Foley claims relationship to practically everybody bearing the name on Prince Edward Island. The Shea family from Waterford, P. E. I.

Civilian Flier Rescued After Ordeal For 10 Days

EDMONTON (CP)—A civilian flier, missing in the Northwest Territories, for 10 days huddled starving and cold beside the body of the pilot on a small section of wing surrounded by water.

Co-pilot Gerhardt (Jerry) Lozie, 27, a former Dutch Navy pilot, was rescued Sunday and taken to hospital in Beaverlodge, Sask.

Three of the men who were aboard the rescue plane told the story of his ordeal when they arrived here Monday.

"We were flying from Stark Lake to Uranium City when we picked up a radio message from Yellowknife (N.W.T.) saying the plane had been spotted by an Associated Airways DC-3," said engineer Lloyd L. Wartes. "When we received the message we were told where it was spotted and found we were only 20 minutes flying time away. We were immediately asked minutes later."

Approaching from the north, the rescuers were guided to the downed four-engine York by two DC-3's that were circling the area.

"It was a very shallow lake," said Mr. Wartes. "One reason it was so hard to spot was that coming from the south, only the trailing edge of the wing would be visible."

Lozie told his rescuers that the nights had been "bloody cold." He said he had seen several planes but most of them had flown to the east of the shallow lake, about 110 miles north of Uranium City, where he was found.

"I would have given a million dollars for a plane to spot me," he was quoted as saying when the rescuers arrived. He did not want to leave the pilot's body behind, but there was no room in the Beaver aircraft to carry it.

When Lozie asked "aren't you going to bring Joe?", he was assured that another plane would retrieve the body.

$525,000 Loss In Truro Garage, Apartment Fire

TRURO (CP)—Fire destroyed a brick service station and swept through an adjacent apartment house here Monday causing damage unofficially estimated at $525,000.

Fireman Ronald Conrad of Truro was admitted to hospital with shoulder injuries and cuts when an explosion inside the garage blew out a wall.

H.B. Goodspeed, part owner of the garage operated by Goodspeed and Davidson Ltd., said Monday night it was too early for an official estimate but said his damage would run between $450,000 and $500,000.

He said the building and all stock, including six cars and a truck, was a total loss.

George MacCharles, owner of the apartment building which housed six persons, said his losses would reach $25,000.

Every fireman in the town was called out and an equipment called in from nearby Bible Hill and the Debert army base to fight the two-hour blaze which at one time threatened to spread to the Zion United Baptist church beside the garage.

Two other buildings, housing the paint shop and heavy equipment, were saved.

Fire chief Fred Layton, first to reach the scene, said the fire apparently started in a repair section of the garage.

59 Violent Deaths In Canada Over The Holiday

(By the Canadian Press)

At least 59 persons died violently in Canada during the Thanksgiving holiday as thousands took advantage of the fine and unusually warm weather throughout most of the country to go hunting, fishing.

Quebec led the provinces with 23 deaths, a Canadian Press survey shows.

British Columbia had 15, Alberta and Nova Scotia four each; Manitoba three; New Brunswick two, and Newfoundland one. No deaths were reported in Prince Edward Island.

The count started at 6 p.m. local time.

Up to 9:30 p.m. EST Monday traffic accidents had caused 45 deaths. There were 17 such fatalities in Quebec; 11 in Ontario, four each in British Columbia and Alberta; three in Nova Scotia and two each in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and New Brunswick.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Viscount Alexander said Saturday Britain's plan to reduce her armed forces probably would mean "a cut in the tail and not in the teeth." By that I mean a cut in the administration departments and not in our fighting personnel," he said in an interview here.

FOUR DROWN

Four persons were drowned, two each in Ontario and Quebec. Two others died when run over by trains.

A 10-year-old girl died of a bullet wound at Centreville East.

C. C. L. Decides To Seek Closer Ties With Farmers

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, (CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor decided Monday to seek closer ties with farmers and heard its chief press for the CCL's amalgamation with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

The expected TL-CCL merger, CCL president A. R. Mosher said in his opening speech to the congress annual convention, is "logical and desirable in every respect."

More than 900 delegates, after hearing Mosher, adopted a resolution instructing congress leaders to set up a permanent committee to advise and assist farm organizations "so that a better understanding of our joint problems may be obtained."

The resolution had the concurrence of the CCL executive.

Other developments at the CCL's opening session:

1. Federal Labor Minister Gregg said workers need have no fear that automation will reduce the number of available jobs.
2. Jacob Potofsky, Washington, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (CIO-CCL), said the proposed merger presents a "golden opportunity to bring trade unionists to millions of unorganized workers."
3. A. F. Hartung of Portland, Ore., described the coming amalgamation as offering an "inspiration" for such groups as farmers.
4. The merger agreement—already adopted by the CCL's annual convention—was referred to a CCL committee for study. It is expected to come back to the floor, and to be adopted, on Wednesday.
