Alfred Garneau, the Quebec poet who died in 1904, was for many years chief French translator to the Senate at Ottawa.

The play was under the skilful guidance of Father Denis Gallant and parts were taken by the Misses Elaine Shea, Dara Perry, Irene Gaudet, Judith Arsenault, Mrs. Claude Hogan, Arthur Arsenault, Elmer Gillis, O. J. Bernard, Frankie LeClair and Ray McKin-Prison. The make up artist was Miss Priscilla Gavin who did a splendid job, while the music of Tignish Orchestra was under the direction of Mrs. Frances Fraser with Adrienne Richard, M. LeClair and W. Gaudet, a guarantee of good music with Irish airs predominating. Specialties comprised tap dancing by two lassies Misses MacAlduff and Richard, a duet by Mrs. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Arsenault the Singing Sisters of Tignish. Irish songs by nine convent girls headed by Miss P. Gillis and a step dancing by Anthony Perry, champion of Prince Edward Island.

Mr. J. B. Morrissey as announcer and master of ceremonies thanked the players for their splendid program and complimented them on their performance as well as those who took part in the specialties, and the extra large audience all of which contributed to the great success of the enterprise. The opinion of many who attended was that a repeat performance in the near future would attract another record breaking audience. —A
