Trouble Everywhere.

There's trouble in the dwelling, Trouble on the street,
There's trouble in the bosom Of every one we meet.
Morning, noon, and midnight There's trouble in the air; And oh! there's no denying There's trouble everywhere.

There's trouble in the garden, Beside the sweetest rose, Beside the fairest lily, The thorn of trouble grows; There's trouble on the ocean;
There's trouble on the land;
And when the sunshine's brightest There's trouble close at hand.

From troubles that pursue us We never can escape;
They're sure to overtake us
In some peculiar shape;
To circle slowly round us,
Or seize us unaware; Trouble's sure to find us, for There's trouble everywhere.

But after storms of trouble, How blessed is the calm!
And after wounds of warfare, How soothing is the balm!
And when from tribulations Our spirits find release, If but for one brief moment We know the joy of peace.

So trouble has its mission, As through the world it goes,
A message unto mortals,
In every breeze that blows:
It moves the stagnant waters;
It stirs the pulse of health;
Gives courage to the hero;
To every labourer wealth.

This trouble that inclines us To brave the daring deeds;
This trouble that prepares us To feel another's needs; Each heart must bear its burden Of suffering and of care, For man is born to trouble,
And he finds it—everywhere.

Young Men.
You are wanted from the street corner, From the idler's promenade, from the place where loafers gather. There is a prize offered you; why not seek it? There are crowns for every honorable head that will push through the opposition and conflict to success. Thousands of young men are idling away golden opportunities which if employed would bring success and position to themselves and honor to their relatives and friends.

Truth, virtue and a manly life calls for champions; and if you enlist in the ranks and push for the goal you will find unmeasured reward. The field for usefulness is wide and broad, and to be really useful in this life it is necessary for us to make the most of ourselves and the opportunities before us.

Up, then, young man, and gird yourself for the work of improvement, self-culture, advancement and a life of usefulness. You can offer no valid excuse for not making the effort. Your advancement and success do not depend upon wealth, birth, nor social position.

The thousands of unpainted cottages that dot hill and vale of our land have sent forth the men who have shaped the destiny of our country. Look at our great men of to-day and look up their pedigree, and you will find that nine out of every ten were reared under humble circumstances. They come from the ranks of the poor, and this very fact was the great leverage that brought out and developed their superior qualities. Let no young man feel discouraged because he is poor. If you would track the proudest achievements of our best men, just follow their life, look through its winding pathway, from their present positions of honor, and invariably it leads back to the modest, dim-lighted cottage of poverty. Had every want of these same men been gratified from their youth the world would never have heard of them.

We enjoy the blessings of life just in proportion to the effort necessary to secure them; and if we put forth great effort in the direction of securing these golden prizes, then the enjoyment of their possession will be great.

The One Thing to Take.
"Darling," he whispered as the clock sadly struck two, and he still sat there trying to impress her with his love, "there is one thing I so much desire. Would you let me take something that would be eternally sweet to my remembrance?"

"I don't know," she coyly replied, making a move as though to fall on his thirty cent shirt front, "but there is one thing you could take that will fill my happy cup to overflowing."

"What is it, loved one?" he asked, getting ready to catch her; but only a cold answer came, that sounded like the bottom of a coal box in December.

"You might take your leave."

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites

FOR WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN.
Where the digestive powers are feeble and the ordinary food does not seem to nourish the child, this acts both as food and medicine, giving flesh and strength at once, and is almost as palatable as milk. Take no other.

"As good as new," are the words used by a lady, who was at one time given up by the most eminent physicians, and left to die. Reduced to a mere skeleton, pale and haggard, not able to leave her bed, from all those diseases peculiar to suffering females, such as displacement, leucorrhoea, indigestion, etc., she began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and also using the local treatments recommended by him, and is now, she says, "as good as new." Price reduced to $1. By druggists.

He Had to Do So.
Among the people sitting on the City Hall steps a few days ago were a young fellow who had a wide awake look and a girl in a pink dress who insisted on holding his hand and leaning over on his shoulder.
Two or three gentlemen observed the situation and halted for a second look.
Their smiles were noticed by the young man, and he released himself and came over to them and said:

"Gentlemen, let me explain. Did either one of you ever live in the country?"

"No," they replied in chorus.

"Then you don't understand the country girl. She requires to be loved after a certain fashion. She wants a practical realization of the fact that you love her. I might tell her how much I adore her, beginning now and talking until dark, but she wouldn't realize it a tenth part as much as if I put my arm around her waist and let her head drop on my shoulder. The one is talk—the other is love."

"Exactly—that's so," remarked the gentlemen.

"When a city girl is in love she conceals the fact, or tries to. The country girl is only too proud to give it away. You saw us squeezing hands. You've got to squeeze a country girl's hand about so often or she'll imagine you have got mad about something."

"Exactly—that's so," observed his auditors.

"You may have noticed that I fed her crackers and she fed me cheese. It must have looked very silly to you, but that's another phase of courtship. If you'd claw off, the girl would imagine you felt above her. I tell you, gentlemen, I've been courting country girls for the last ten years, and I'm giving you a solid pointer that there is only one correct way, and this is it."

"Exactly—that's so," replied the gentlemen in chorus, and they lifted their hats to the girl and walked off.

Rules for Making Good Butter and Cheese.

The Michigan Dairymen's Association presents the following rules for dairymen who deliver milk to cheese factories or creameries:—

Cows must have an abundance of good wholesome food, pure and not too cold water, to which they can have access at all times.

Cows must not be overheated, or unduly excited or worried at any time.

The udder and teats should be thoroughly cleaned before milking, by washing if needed, and the teats should not be wet during the process of milking.

Kindness and gentleness should be used at all times. Cows should not be excited by loud talk or other noises.

Cows should be milked by the same milkster, and as quickly as possible, and good, pure water and salt placed in easy access.

During cold weather, cows should be comfortably housed, their stalls well cleaned and littered, and an abundance of good and not too cold water accessible.

Milk, if kept over night, should be placed in a tank surrounded by cold water or ice.

If the milk is for butter or cream for the creamery or market, cool the creamer to about 40 or 45 degrees before turning the milk into it. Put the milk in the creamer as soon as drawn. It should remain from 12 to twenty-four hours for complete separation.

If the milk is for cheese, aerate it well, thoroughly stirring and cooling to 75 degrees before starting to factory.

Milk should never be allowed to stand where it is subjected to foul odors of any kind.

Nothing but bright, absolutely clean tin pails should be used in handling milk.

Milk must never be allowed to stand in cans after being returned to the farm, and they should be thoroughly washed in warm water and then scalded with water boiling hot, and thoroughly soaped with salt at least twice a week. Soap, soda, or other alkalies, should not be used to clean cans or pails.

Late Even in Death.

"What's this newspaper article about the late John Smith?" inquired old Mr.
Badger. "Is he our John?"

"Guess he is."

"Well, well! he allers was slower'n molasses in January. He never was on time in all his life, and they used to say he wasn't to his own wedding till the day after the ceremony, and now the day after he's dead they call him 'the late John Smith.' It beats all how those newspapers do learn so much about people."
