THE GREAT OBJECT OF HUMAN LIFE.

Young man, ere you embark on the boisterous sea of human life, look about yourself. Survey well the quicksands, the shoals and the whirlpools around you. Select with great care the voyage in which you propose to embark the capital of mortal life. This is at your disposal. You may launch upon turbid waters, encounter gales, adverse currents, even "sail against wind and tide;" or you may avoid many of the ills of life.

Your course through life will be, in many important particulars, what you choose to make it. You may be distinguished in some department of labour, or you may never be known beyond a small circle of acquaintance. You may be useful, influencing for good thousands around you, and leave your impress upon most over whom you have an influence, or you may curse the world, be as a "plague spot" in society, and remembered only for the mischief done during a course of folly and infamy.

"Lives of great men all remind us
We may make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footsteps in the sands of time."

In a country like ours, the sphere of action is exceedingly wide. The avenues to usefulness and distinction are numerous, and the facilities for acquiring the requisite means of advancement, are within the grasp of every young man in the ordinary walks of life. Raise, then, the standard of attainment high very high. Have lofty aims, and elevating, ennobling aspirations.

Never despair, though obstacles present themselves, and foes to every reform array against you. Disappointment will sometimes meet you; your estimate of your own capabilities may have been faulty, or your selection of an appropriate sphere of action may have been premature, yes press onward,

"With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labour and to wait."

A few irresolute impulses, or a few heartless, pigmy efforts are not sufficient; they will ever insure success. Bring every power of the soul to the enterprise before you; rouse every latent energy; employ every instrumentality within your reach, and

"Trust no future howe'er pleasant!
Let the dead Past bury its dead,
Act out in the living Present,
Heart within, and God o'erdead,"

Never be satisfied with present attainments, much less with that of your predecessors who had been placed in similar circumstances. Aspire to there highest position within your reach, not that which you may be able to effect the greatest possible amount of good among your fellows; one in which you can ameliorate the most of human suffering, or raise fallen and degraded humanity, and place the victim in a sphere of usefulness.

The great mass, it must be admitted, are groveling and sensual to an alarming degree. Many aspire, apparently, to nothing above the gratification of there animal appetites and impuses, or to decorate the body, while the mind—the germ of immortality—is suffered to famish in its destitution. Others sacrifice every thing at the alter of wealth; tax every power of mind and body to hoard up treasures which possess no value and which "perish with the using."

Others still are chasing phantoms which they can never attain; and leading lives of intense anxiety and wretchedness, vainly seeking to satisfy the cravings of immortal mind with enjoyment for which it has no affinity. Shun, therefore O, young man! the vortex in which many have been submerged. Let their wreck serve as a beacon to warn you of danger and destruction. Have a definite object in view, and let your motto be, "Onward and upward."

Remember that you are social beings, that the results of all your acts should not terminate upon yourself, that you have important duties which you owe to those around you; and to society in general.

That there is an abundant opportunity for self-sacrificing labour and untiring zeal all must admit. The community, in many respects, demands a revolution. False views of what constitutes the great object of human life too generally prevail. The clamor of the passions too often stifles the more ennobling and kindlier emotions of Man's nature, and his higher powers are too frequently brought into subjection to his propensities. Indeed, the true philosophy of securing our own happiness and that of those with whom we are connected is rarely understood.

Examine carefully, then, the real condition of society; became acquainted with its evils, and then gird on the armor, and fight valiantly. By your examples show that you seek enjoyment, not in animal indulgencies, but in a higher and purer sphere; one in which mind holds the supremacy and asserts its dignity.

Never be content with what you have acheived, until you are concious of having laboured to the extent of your ability, let you career be such that when called to close the scenes of life, you feel assured that you leave the world in better condition than when you entered upon its labors. Then, long and tenderly will your memory be cherished by those with whom you may have associated.

The cup that is full will hold no more; keep your heart full of good thoughts, that bad ones may not find room to enter.

A SWEEPING PENALTY.—There is in St. Petersburg an old custom requiring every person taken up drunk, male or female, to sweep the streets the next day for a certain number of hours.

An artist painted a cannon so naturally the other day, that when he finished the touch hole it went off.

Saint John Sale Stables.

M. A. CUMMING, Veterinary Surgeon, begs to intimate to parties having HORSES to dispose of, that he is about to open as a Sale Stable, those premises next the Catholic Chapel, head of King's Square, St. John; where Horses will be kept at livery, and bought or sold on commission.

There being no well-understood place in St. John where those having Horses, and those wanting Horses, know where to find each other, M. A. C. flatters himself that a HORSE BAZAAR, or Sale Stable, properly conducted, may in some measure supply a want often felt by the public; while from the knowledge of horses derived from his profession, he may be able at times to give useful advice both to seller and purchaser.

N. B.—Two or three good young Harness Horses wanted; and a STRONG HEAVY PAIR, full mouthed for shipyard work.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF LOSS OF HEALTH, DISORDERED STOMACH, INDIGESTION AND DETERMINATION OF BLOOD TO THE HEAD.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. John Lloyd, of Erwen, near Harlech, Merionethshire.

To Professor HOLLOWAY,

SIR,—I avail myself of the first opportunity of informing you, that, for a very long period, I was afflicted with a dangerous giddiness and frequent swimmings in the head, attended by loss of appetite, disordered stomach, and generally impaired health. Every means had failed to give me any permanent relief, and at length it became so alarming, that I was really afraid of going about without an attendant. In this melancholy condition, I waited personally upon Mr. Hughes, Chemist, Harlech, for the purpose of consulting him as to what I had better do; he kindly recommended your Pills, I tried them without delay, and after taking them for a short time I am happy to bear testimony to their wonderful efficacy. I am now restored to perfect health, and enabled to resume my usual duties. You are at liberty to publish this letter in any way you may think proper.

I am, Sir, your obedient Servant'

MIRACULOUS CURE OF DROPSY.

Extract of a Letter from Edward Rowley, Esq., of India Walk, Tobago, dated April 8th, 1852.

To Professor HOLLOWAY,

DEAR SIR—I deem it a duty I owe to you and the public at large to inform you of a most miraculous recovery from that dreadful disease, DROPSY, and which, under God, was effected by your invaluable Pills. I was tapped five times within eight months, and skilfully treated by two medical practitioners, but could not get cured, until I had recourse to your remedy, and notwithstanding all I had undergone, this miraculous medicine cured me in the course of six weeks. (Signed) EDWARD ROWLEY.

A DANGEROUS LIVER COMPLAINT AND SPASM IN THE STOMACH EFFECTUALLY CURED.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Bostock, Druggist, of Ashton under Lyne, dated July 31, 1852.

To Professor HOLLOWAY,

DEAR SIR—I have much pleasure in handing to you a testimonial of the efficacy of your Medicines. A person in this neighbourhood, with whom I am well acquainted, was affected for a long time with violent spasmodic pains in the stomach and liver, arising from frequent colds, smells of paint, and the effects of a stooping position, which he was obliged to assume in his business. The spasms were of an alarming character, and frequently left him in a weak and debilitated condition. At length he heard of the salutary effects of your invaluable Pills, and was induced to give them a trial. The first dose gave him considerable relief, and by following them up in accordance with your directions, they have acted so wonderfully in cleansing the liver and stomach, and strengthening the digestive organs, that he has been restored to the enjoyment of good health.

I remain, dear Sir, yours faithfully,
(Signed) WILLIAM BOSTOCK.

Further she desires me to say, that she has witnessed their extraordinary virtues in those complaints incidental to children, particularly in cases of Measles and Scarlatina, having effected positive cures of these diseases with no other remedy.
