TOO MUCH RESPONSIBILITY.

The Colored Porter and His Excuse For His Educational Shortcomings.

While the colored man at the depot was loading the trunks on the baggage truck a small boy of his own color approached him and said:

"Sam, kin I spoke wid yo' a minit?"

"Boy, who yo' callin Sam?" demanded the man as he dropped a trunk to confront the youngster.

"I'ze callin yo' Sam, of co'se."

"Waal, dar ain't no of co'se to it. My name, sah, are Samuel Brown. If yo' wish to spoke to me, yo' must call me Mistah Brown. Now, what yo' got to say?"

"My sistah sent word to yo', Mistah Brown."

"Oh, den yo' got a sistah?"

"Yes, sah, an she dun tole me to tell yo' somethin'."

"She did, eh? Did yo'r sistah know dat I was Mistah Samuel Brown?"

"Yes, sah."

"An dat I had de responsibility of dis railroad on my shoulders?"

"Yes, sah."

"An she didn't dun write me a note?"

"No, sah. She dun tole me to say it to yo'."

"Boy, don't yo' fool wid a pesson in my posishun. Why didn't yo'r sistah dun write me a note?"

"Kase, sah, yo' couldn't read it if she did."

The man reached out and caught the boy by the arm as if to shake him, but directly a smile broke over his face and he released his grip and said:

"Dat's so, boy, an yo'r sistah can't dun write her own name to save her neck. I'ze got de responsibility of dis railroad on my shoulders an she's got de responsibility of de dressmakin bizness on hers, an we hain't got no time to sagaciate around wid red ink an blue paper. Yo' jes' wait till I percolate dis baggage up to de train an den yo' kin go ahead an disqualify yo'r invidious information."—New York Sunday World.

Of the Modern Duel.

First Second—I think the swords have soaked long enough in the antiseptic compound.

Second Second—I think so. Did you scatter the chloride of lime under the tires?

"Yes, and I burned sulphur in the branches."

"Good. How about the bushes?"

"They have been sprayed with that No. 1 deodorizer. Did you sprinkle the lawn?"

"Yes. I used the camphorated wash."

"Excellent. Shall we start the rotary atmospheric purifier?"

"I think so. One moment—did you kindle the fire under the medicated bath?"

"I did. And I also put the hot water bottles on the portable furnace and set the mustard plaster where it would warm."

"Then I think we are all ready."

"I think so. Messieurs, we are quite ready."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Head For Finance.

"There's no use talking," remarked the curbstone statesman wearily. "It's impossible to make a woman understand even the first principles of finance."

"What's the matter now?" inquired another member of the old guard.

"While I was down town yesterday, it appears, the baby accidentally swallowed a quarter."

"Yes?"

"Yes, sir. And what does my wife do but call in a doctor and pay him $5 for getting that quarter back."—Chicago Times-Herald.

LEADERS OF VALUE

A Welcome Organization.
"A society for the prevention of hereditary diseases"—and may heaven bless the brave young women who organized this body! Members are pledged "not to marry into any family subject to such hereditary diseases as consumption, insanity or an appetite for strong drink." New York has the honor of being the home of this organization.—Union Signal.

The full intensity of living is reached only by the perfectly healthy. Sickness discounts the capacity for enjoyment. If his body is all out of order and run down, he will not be able to enjoy anything, no matter how full of enjoyment it may be for other people. If he is just a little bit out of order, if he "is not sick, but doesn't feel just right" he will only be able to enjoy things in a half-hearted sort of way. The nearer he is to being perfectly well, the nearer will his capacity for his enjoyment be perfect. If this condition doesn't exist, something ought to be done. That means nine cases in ten the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It works directly on the digestive organs, and on the blood and through these on every tissue of the body. It makes the appetite good, digestion and nutrition perfect and supplies rich, red blood to all the tissues, building up solid, healthful flesh. Send 31 cents in one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1908 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

Before it is ready for table use it must be roasted, when it looks like wheat bread, and is both palatable and nutritious. Usually the fruit is cut into three or four slices and roasted or baked in an oven.

Frequently the people of a village join in making a huge oven, in which several hundred breadfruits may be baked at one time. Thus they are all supplied with bread without its costing any of them much labor. Prepared in this way, the bread will keep for weeks.

The breadfruit is in season eight months of the year. When the season finally draws to a close, the last fruits are gathered and made into a sour paste called "mahe". This paste will keep good for months and is made into balls, wrapped in leaves and baked, just as needed.

Bread is not the only product of the breadfruit tree. From it cement, cloth, tinder and lumber are also obtained. A glutinous, milky juice oozes from the trunk of the tree, which makes an excellent cement when boiled with coconut oil. From the fibrous inner bark a kind of coarse cloth is made, and the big leaves make good towels. The lumber is used for building houses and many other purposes. Besides all this the dried blossoms are used as tinder when fires are kindled.—Philadelphia Times.

A SLAVE TO DUTY.

An Elephant That Would Not Neglect a Baby It Was Caring For.

Marie A. Millie, in St. Nicholas, tells a number of "Stories of Elephants." Mrs. Millie says:

Some time before the elephant hunt I have described my husband was at a station in Bengal. His work kept him out nearly all day, and, being ill, I used to lie for hours in a long garden chair on the veranda, too weak to read or enjoy any more exciting amusement than my eyes supplied to me.

We had three elephants for our tents and baggage, and one dear creature used to feed from my hands every day and seemed as gentle as any pet dog or cat.

One of our government chaprasis was particularly devoted to her and invariably shared his meal of fruit or flour cakes with his dumb friend. On a particularly hot day the chaprasi, to my surprise, placed his tiny child of 6 months at the elephant's feet, warning her expressively that the infant was in her charge and was to be cared for till his return. I myself was an eyewitness of her wonderful sagacity. Large banana trees and fig trees grew around, and, to my surprise, the elephant broke off one of the former's spreading leaves, held it like a fan in her trunk and from time to time gracefully waved it over the slumbering child, whether to temper the heat of the atmosphere or to keep off flies, I am unable to say. The gentle way in which she moved her feet over the child and across to each side astounded me. I sent for a white loaf and some oranges, and, calling her by name (she was never chained), tried in vain to tempt her to my side on the low veranda. Nothing would induce her to leave her charge. The warm air and monotonous wave of the swinging fan overpowered me with drowsiness, to which I yielded, and, after a sleep of some duration, I was awakened by quiet, subdued snorts beside me. To my surprise I found that the chaprasi had just returned to his offspring, and the elephant stood near the veranda beside me, patiently waiting and gently asking for the tempting dainties so bravely withstood for over two hours.
