For Business Men

Business Handwriting,

It was a little startling to hear a young man say, no longer ago than last week, when spoken to about careless handwriting, "Oh, it doesn't matter nowadays, as much as it used to, how a man writes. Pen and ink are not in it with the typewriter." It is not necessary to protest against slipshod and illegible handwriting on the part of commercial employees. It is unbusinesslike, in the first place, and is a blot on the qualifications of any man who seeks a commercial position. It is dangerous, too; for we have known a quarrel between partners result from stocksheets being negligently made up in the handwriting of one partner and misunderstood by the other, and it is well known that numerous law suits have arisen from misapprehension of faulty handwriting.

To show how far astray this young man was in his supposition that clear hand writing is no longer deemed necessary by business men, we cite a recent occurrence. One of the large manufacturing concerns in Canada had applications from several persons for a certain position in its employ. A certain man among these being recommended by a friend one of the principals wrote to that friend: The application of your candidate came in yesterday. He unfortunately does not write a very good hand. While the position would not be entirely a clerical one even at the first, and would be decreasingly so with time, good penmanship would be a very attractive qualification to me, for there would be more or less writing, and, as you know, we like things well done. It is a misfortune, I think, that penmanship has so much deteriorated in these latter days. Speaking for myself I am not expected to 'wield the quill' very much nor have I been called upon to do so for a great many years; but when I have occasion or desire to make up a statement or write a letter with my own hand I can still do it at least neatly, which lots of the younger fellows cannot."

Let any young man apply for a position in a bank, and he will find one of the first tests to which he is subjected is that of handwriting. And if his handwriting be poor his other good qualities are sure to be dimmed by that fact. In his admirable inaugural address the other day, the president of the Halifax Bankers' Association mentioned handwriting first in his suggestions to junior clerks. Said Mr. Allan: "you are beginning your business—begin it fair. Be careful of your handwriting, of your figures, of your spelling, of the simple arithmetical rules used in the banks. These are your foundations be careful and lay them well." There can be little doubt that the banker and the manufacturer we have cited represent the average feeling of commercial circles with respect to handwriting. In this very smart age, the boys and girls are faulty in spelling and in handwriting to a degree that did not exist in less "enlightened" times. And the fault is one that should be cured, not condoned.—Monetary Times.

Pay Your Small Bills.

Men who would never think of allowing a note or a large account to stand open are too frequently careless in regard to small accounts. After all, says a writer in one of the trade journals, we are judged by small things, and what good is it if a man meets his bank obligations promptly and he causes a number of people, to whom he owes petty accounts, to go about talking of how hard it is to get him to pay up. Be as particular about the little accounts as the big ones. Do not snub a collector because he calls for a small account when it is due. It is your fault that he has to call. Some people resent either being drawn upon or called upon for a small bill. They forget it is the other man who has to stand the expense and trouble of collecting. Be also as prompt in collecting your own accounts as in paying others. If the losses made each year by small debts, neglected because they are small, could be recovered, there would be hands-me dividends in most business.—Exchange.

Kites rise against, and not with the wind. Even a head wind is better than none. No man ever worked his passage anywhere in a dead calm. Let no man wax pale, therefore, because of opposition. Hardship is the native soil of manhood and self-reliance.—J. Neal.

BRAIN FAG

Is the result of Overwork and an Exhausted Nervous System. Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food creates New Brain and Nerve Tissue.

Business and professional men, accountants, stenographers, teachers, students and all brain workers know only too well what it means to have the brain so tired out that concentration of thought is almost impossible.

One-fifth of all the blood in the human body is found in the brain, and unless the blood is pure and rich the brain becomes exhausted for want of proper nourishment.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food creates new brain and nerve tissue, and produces rich red blood, "the vital fluid" of the body.

All brain workers quickly recognize the merits of this great food cure, and after a few doses enter on their work with new energy and ambition.

Brain fag is unknown to persons whose brain and nerve have been invigorated by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, which is for sale by all dealers at 50c. a box.
