Mr. Riley has held this position for a goodly number of seasons and has a host of friends in Georgetown. Captain William Sigworth of Newport was a visitor to Georgetown during the week, en route to his home from Charlottetown. The genial captain has many friends here, who are always glad to welcome him. While in Georgetown he was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hemphill. The lobster fishing season of 1952 got away to an auspicious start at 12:00 o'clock noon on Wednesday, April 30th. This is the first year the new date for running the lines has been in effect and judging from comments and results the change is all for the better. The heavy fog which shrouded the coast in the early part of the forenoon, had lifted during the morning and the sea was calm. Many fishermen succeeded in placing several boat loads of traps in the water and some good catches may be expected before the week is out. The bait situation is good, as there were some herring caught locally and several craft unloaded cargoes of herring from the Magdalen Islands.

There is plenty snow here yet despite the call of Spring. In Canavoy on April 24th, there was about five feet of snow on that winding road and many feet of it in the woods.

There have been practically no trout taken from the streams here yet owing to so much surface water running. It keeps the streams muddy all the way to the lake.

Some of the women and girls from here are scheduled to work in the fish packing plant at Souris this spring and summer, and it is understood a truck will pick them up each morning and return them to their homes in the evening daily.

That fine old property at St. Peter's Harbor known to many as Ernest McEwen's old farm and old timers as the fine estate of the late E. A. IN MEMORIAM

MRS. HENRY D. WHITE

Quietly and peacefully on March 3rd, 1952, there passed away at Hampshire, one of its oldest and finest citizens, Mrs. Henry D. White, at the age of 85. Owing to failing health she had been a semi-invalid for several years but remained highly interested in her church and community.

Her first husband, Edward Gill of Stanhope, predeceased her many years ago, as did their daughter Bertha, Mrs. Sylvester, and son Ernest. She married Henry D. White of Bonshaw and a few years later moved to Hampshire where Mr. White predeceased her some twenty years ago. By her second marriage she became the step-mother of three children, Fiddessa, Hettie, and Levi, who have predeceased her, and the mother of two sons, Donald of Hunter River and Chester of Hampshire, also one daughter Gladys, Mrs. Lorne Smith of Kingston.

She also made a loving home for her step-daughter Viola, Mrs. Earl Anderson of Dunstaffnage, who came to reside with them at an early age following the death of her mother Fiddessa. After the death of her husband, Mrs. White continued to reside with her son Chester and his wife and family, who tenderly cared for her in her declining years. She leaves to cherish her memory, besides her children, Derrill, Chester, and Gladys, fourteen grandchildren, seven step-grand-
