We regret to learn that the Rev. J. W. Godfrey has been compelled to give up work for a time owing to ill health brought on from over work. Mr. Godfrey is one of the curates at the principal church in Sterling, Scotland, which is the centre of many spiritual agencies. At Christmas Mr. Godfrey was taken seriously ill and confined to bed for six weeks. When he became strong enough to go about he was ordered to the South of France. On his way his companion, a young gentleman who accompanied him, was taken ill at Paris with scarlet fever when Mr. Godfrey, an invalid himself, nursed him through his sickness, and this took up so much time that he was only able to spend a week or two in the South of France, before his leave expired. He received an extension of time, but feeling much better he felt it his duty to return to assist his rector and fellow curates during Holy Week. Easter Sunday, with its many services, proved too much for him, and his physician promptly ordered him to stop work of any kind for three months. Mr. Godfrey is now on his way from Scotland and we trust that the beautiful weather we generally have in Prince Edward Island, together with total cessation from work, may justify the opinion of his medical adviser, that he will be fully restored to health again.

SOUSA AND HIS BAND.

The concert in the Exhibition building last evening by Sousa and his band attracted about twelve hundred people to that place. That is about this number attended the concert. The crowd which lined the road adjoining the building must have numbered several hundred more. The greater portion of those present were of course from Charlottetown, but the attendance from other sections of the province was very good indeed. They came by train, carriage and wheel, and all were delighted with what they saw and heard.

Mr. Sousa played an excellent programme. In the various numbers the time was splendid and the instrumentation all that the most captious critic would desire. Indeed the whole band seemed like one vast machine guided by the leader's baton. Every number was rapturously encored, in some instances two and three times. Sousa was very kind in permitting encores, and generally played some familiar air. Several of the selections rendered were compositions of the great leader himself. Perhaps the most taking of these was the grand religious fantasia, "Songs of Grace and Glory," which included the familiar airs Rock of Ages and Nearer My God to Thee. Indeed many of the audience speak of this as the gem of the evening. The closing selection by the band was a potpourri of English, Scotch and Irish airs, ending with the National Anthem.

Sousa is certainly a great leader, and his band is worthy of him. His soloists, too, are good. The soprano, Mrs. Northrop, has a voice of uncommon beauty and purity, and an appearance that is captivating. Her rendition of "Se Saran Rose" last evening was excellent, and in response to a rapturous encore she rendered "Comin' Thro' the Eye" most charmingly. Miss Martina Johnston, the violin soloist, in her selection gave the most unbounded satisfaction. Her tone was sweet and true throughout, and she well deserved the hearty recall. Herr Franz Hell played one of Nessler's compositions on the flageolet, and played it with a taste and expression that called forth the applause of his delighted auditors. He also had to respond to an encore. Mr. Arthur Pryor, the trombone soloist, also played exquisitely, and was encored.

During the evening Mr. Pyke, who is managing Sousa's provincial tour, directed the band whilst his Jubilee ode was rendered. This composition of Mr. Pyke is a gem in its way, and was excellently rendered by the band. Mr. Pyke, it may be stated, is a Haligonian, and a clever one at that. A copy of his composition has been forwarded to Her Majesty the Queen through Sir Charles Tupper.

The two hours occupied in the rendition of the programme passed all too quickly. The gentleman who brought Sousa and his band to Charlottetown deserves the thanks of every lover of music for affording all a chance to hear one of the finest aggregations of the kind before the people today. It is a pity, however, that our people did not appreciate the enterprise in a more substantial manner. There were many vacant chairs, and from a financial standpoint the project must have been a failure.

AGAINST DEPARTMENTAL STORES.—A movement has been started in Toronto to organize the retail trade of the Dominion into an association to work against the growing influence and the extension of departmental stores. The idea is to have the organization extend from P. E. Island to British Columbia. A lively battle of prices with the departmental stores may be expected.

JUBILEE SOUVENIRS.—The publishers of the Montreal Star are bringing out two magnificent Jubilee souvenirs. A grand photographic portrait of Queen Victoria, 22x30, said by everyone who has seen it to be by long odds the finest thing brought out in connection with the Jubilee. The Star has also had executed a grand Canadian Jubilee Medal, beautifully designed and struck. These two souvenirs by the Star will make Canada talked about the world over. Happy indeed should those be who secure these two treasures.

TOOK COUGH MEDICINE.—The little four-year-old daughter of Mr. A. J. Gorham had a rather narrow escape from fatal poisoning Saturday night as the result of taking an overdose of cough medicine. The child got hold of the bottle containing the mixture just before retiring and finding it palatable drank several doses before her mother detected her. Doctors Chandler and White were immediately summoned and worked with the little one until after midnight when she began to revive from the stupor produced by the medicine. The child is now fully recovered.—Moncton Times.

A BEAR KILLED.—A Souris Line Road correspondent writes: Recently his bearship had evinced a keen interest in the carcass of a horse which lay in the vicinity and had made several visits to it. On Saturday last Mr. Gillis set a Queen Anne musket beside the remains and awaited results. About ten o'clock a report was heard and proceeding to the scene of the catastrophe it was found that the bear had received the contents of the gun in the head and lay dead on the ground. The animal was large and in good condition having devoured several sheep and lambs in the neighborhood.

FOOTBALL.—Last night one of the most exciting and interesting games of football played this season took place at Victoria Park. The contestants were Anchors vs. Stars. Both teams lined out at 7. In the first half the score stood: Stars 3, Anchors 0. In the second half, however, the tables were turned. The Anchors began to work like Trojans of old. By skilful play on the part of L. Large, W. McLean and B. Brown the Anchors scored two touch-downs and a tackle in goal, thus making 10 points and defeating the Stars by 7 points. This makes the seventh victory for the Anchors and they may now justly lay claim to the "juvenile" championship of the Island. Capt. P. Brown is to be complimented on having such a grand team.
