

MT Stop Application Turned Over to Police

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

When the application of Island Motor Transport to stop their buses on Central Street four times a day for 10 minutes came under discussion at a meeting of the Summerside Town Council Monday, Councilor G. F. A. Millson said, "if you stop there (Central Street) other people are going to stop there and it is going to cause a traffic problem."

Mayor W. E. Jenkins said the problem should be "left to the police from now on to look after it."

The council passed a new by-law which in effect gives the town control over traffic and pedestrian signals and the revenue resulting from violations will go to the town council.

Alberton Fire Chief Urges Clean-Up

ALBERTON — Alberton Fire Chief Herbert Levitt said yesterday the last three fire calls have been five fire calls with two in one day.

Very little material damage resulted from these fires "nevertheless had they not been discovered in time the loss of a home would have been a certainty," he said.

The firemen had been called to the same house previously for a fire and the owner warned of the hazard at that time. "This is not an exceptional case" as the fire department records also show it is not unusual to have more than one fire call from the same household due to faulty fuses, it was learned.

"These five fires as well as all others could have been avoided," the fire chief contended. "The firemen request that everyone check their stove pipes and chimneys and during cold weather take extra precautions in lighting and sloking furnaces and stoves."

"During the Christmas season it is hoped that everyone in the Alberton area will take the advice of the provincial fire marshal in regards to the necessary precautions concerning Christmas trees lights and wiring," he concluded.

OREGON

In the U.S. Pacific Northwest. Winds up to 100 miles an hour battered Colorado.

Flood waters and a shattered dike on the raging El River near Fortuna in northwestern California caused more than 2,000 residents to higher ground Monday night.

A weather bureau official said the El River flooding was so bad "it could be expected to happen once in 1,000 years."

The El flows through sparsely-populated forest country. It rises in the mountains in the area is Eureka, population 20,000.

MINIMAL FLEE FLOODS

Deer, rabbits and thousands of field mice joined man in the flight from the flooding.

Overflowing creeks isolated Covelo, Calif., a town of 2,000 people about 150 miles north of San Francisco. But, before its phones went dead, the town reported plenty of supplies on hand.

Continuing heavy rains spawned floods that closed a 200-mile stretch of U.S. Highway 101 from Orono, Calif., into Oregon. Clogged passes in the Oregon Cascade Mountains blocked South Pacific Coast trains for at least the next 24 hours, an official said.

"There is an excellent chance," California Governor Edmund G. Brown said at a press conference on Tuesday, "that the weather bureau agreed, predicting more heavy rains and gale winds by midweek followed by intermittent rains Tuesday."

Brown described the storm as "detrimental in the Pacific Valley" and said the storm wrecking northern California might be "the worst of all time."
