

The Search for the Green

Hello Again! Today's article will offer you a list of upcoming or various deadlines for both graduate and undergraduate levels. Please drop by the self-serve vertical file system for the details of these awards.

If you need any help regarding applications, then visit me during my office hours. Also, I remind you to send your earnings verification forms to your home province so that you will be processed for those bursary cheques. If you are considering appealing your loan this year, then I am available to assist you. It is a simple process and is more paper shuffling than anything else.

Have a great Remembrance Day weekend, and remember the Search for the Green begins with you.

by Laurie Murphy
Financial Aid Advisor
Tuesday - Friday
(1:30 - 3:30pm.)

Graduate:

- Canada Council - Aid to Artists
- Canadian Federation of University Women
- Canadian Home Economics Association
- Fellowships in the Practice of Ministries
- Fisheries and Oceans Scholarship
- French Language Bursary Program
- Fonds: F.C.A.R.
- I.O.D.E.
- National Research Council
- Frank Knox Memorial Scholarships - Harvard
- National University of Singapore Research Scholarship
- Mellon Fellowships in the Humanities
- Social Science and Fellowships
- Research Communication
- International Relations

Undergraduate:

- Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada - various
- Children of War Dean (Education Assistance) Act
- Department of Agriculture PEI (for study at NSAC)
- Orville Erickson Memorial Scholarship Fund: Wildlife
- Imperial Oil Higher Education Awards
- Provincial IODE Scholarship Program (Business)
- Harvey Moore Wildlife Fund Scholarship
- Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada
- PetroCanada Awards For Native Students
- Pillsbury Undergraduate Scholarship Program (Business/Commerce, Food Science, and Agricultural Science)
- University of Ottawa Undergraduate Research Scholarships-Science

FLASHBACK FROM '82

Cont. from Page 10

the thin man

Pop-Tarts

By Tom G. Killorn

I was flossing my teeth the other day when I noticed a song playing on the radio. This song was something called "Physical", a wonderful hymn which I am sure is responsible for the demise of many brain cells across North America each evening. This ode to the mating process is by none other than Olivia Newton John, who appears now to openly aspire to being the Linda Lovelace of Pop music. With her new found sensuality it would not surprise me to see Miss John start to plug certain aids probably called Australian Fly (Help down under from down under), in the back of magazines.

Along with Olivia there is another rock dynamo on the horizon. His mane is Billy Squier and as a rock lyricist he easily out distances such contemporaries as Springsteen or Seger. Mr. Squier is of course the creator of one of the most eloquent pop songs to come down the pike in a long time. This song is called "The Stroke" and even though it was rumoured at first to be about rowing it is probably of a more personal nature. I would casually estimate that a song of such sweeping magnitude took Mr. Squier about five to six months; (Good things do take time.)

Despite the enormous contributions of William to modern pop music even he has been upstaged lately by the J. Geils Band. This group who were at their peak in the early seventies have made a quality return to the music scene with such awesome hit singles as "Love Stinks", and their latest smash "Centerfold". The latter is a true smoker with the heart tugging phrase, "My heart runs cold/ my baby she's a centerfold." Most of the time I am a hard bitten realist but it's pretty hard to argue with beautiful sentiment like that.

With the help of these three virtuoso pop acts and other talented rockers such as Journey and Van Halen it is more than evident that rock and roll has never been stronger. There is only one thing troubling about this pop utopia. What if Gloria Gaynor and the Village People return to spoil the party?