The Carnival in Aid of the Poor.

The Carnival on Saturday night was equal, if not superior, to the one on Thursday. A large number appeared in new costumes, some of which were very beautiful, and some very ridiculous. The Rink presented its gayest appearance, and the Band of the 82nd Battalion lent additional charms to the scene, by discoursing sweet and lively music. Among those who took part on Saturday night, and who were not present on Thursday, were Mr. W. H. Mitchell, of Summerside, whose representation of a "Huguenot" was good. Mr. J. W. McLeod, who represented "Incroyable," excellent; Mr. L. W. Watson, who carried out the character of "Punch," without his dog or "Judy," admirably; and Master Frank Churchill who appeared as a first class "Snow Bird." The ladies were dressed with the attractiveness and good taste of the first Carnival. Among the best impersonations were "Queen Titania," by Miss Luty Rogers of Summerside, and "The little old woman who lived in a shoe," by Miss Dixon. The following is the revised list, with new characters added:—

The Dublin Conspirators on Trial.

Dublin, Feb. 5.

On Saturday, at the trial of Carey and others for conspiracy and murder, Detective Fitzsimmonds testified that on searching the house of the prisoner Carey, he found a rifle and two bowie knives. The doctors who dressed the wounds of Lord Cavendish and Mr. Burke, testified that these knives fitted into the wounds neatly.

Three of the prisoners on trial have been identified as seen in the Phœnix Park at the time of the murder. Brady, the driver of the car in which the assassin rode has also been identified.

Steamship Foundered.

London, Feb. 5.

Personal—Gossip.

The Governor-General was received at Ottawa by Sir John, Sir Leonard Tilley, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Hector Langevin and other Ministers.

It is said to be probable that in the House of Commons, Mr. Charles Tupper, Pictou, will move the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Mr. John Colohan and his wife, 301 E. Forty-first street, New York, were both cured, he of a severe sprain and his wife of rheumatism, by one bottle of St. Jacobs Oil.

A Nevada penitentiary convict says that he was sent to prison for being dishonest, and is kept there at work cutting out pieces of paste-board to put between the soles of shoes in place of honest leather.

Mr. Adam Rusk of the Penna. R. R. Co., resident at Centerville, N. J., says:—"I was cured of severe rheumatism of many years standing by the use of St. Jacobs Oil.

M. Fallieres, while speaking in the French Deputies, on the 30th ult., in defence of M. Fabre's Bill, proscribing pretenders to the throne, was compelled to stop in consequence of feeling ill, and the sitting was suspended. After the sitting M. Fallieres fainted. It is feared he will have an attack of congestion of the brain. The debate was adjourned till Thursday. M. Fallieres' fainting was caused by weakness owing to want of sleep. No serious results are apprehended.

Dr. Heinrich Maron, who is described as one of the ablest and best known journalists in Berlin, shot his wife on December 28th, with a revolver, and then put an end to his own life with the same weapon. It is supposed that this murder and suicide were committed by mutual agreement between husband and wife. Dr. Maron had fallen into a desponding state of mind from the combined effects of adverse circumstances and overburdening cares; while his wife suffered from an incurable bodily ailment. Dr. Maron was distinguished as a political economist, and accompanied the commercial mission which, under Count Eulenburg, went to China about twenty years ago.

A new object of taxation has been found. Mr. F. Spence, at Shaftesbury Hall, has singled out the bachelor for that felicity. The scheme is not original; the reasons given for it are: bachelors are charged with being wanting in manhood and altogether contemptible creatures. Would a tax, prohibitory or otherwise, change their natures? Bachelors have been taxed before now; Mr. Spence thinks they ought to be taxed again. "Some young men," Mr Spence said, "are too niggardly to get married, fearing the expense." And herein they show their prudence. What has Mr. Spence to say in reply to Malthus? He is an enemy to civilization who tells the young men that they may rush headlong into matrimony without counting the cost. There was a time in the history of Rome when the resort to rigorous measures to compel people to enter into matrimony was not without justification; but then society was in a state of dissolution, and universal depravity prevailed. By way of antidote, the government, in the time of Cæsar, put a premium on marriage. With us the opposite danger is visible; and the needful thing is to avoid premature and improvident marriages. But there is little danger that Mr. Spence will be taken for an oracle; and the untaxed bachelor will be able to keep his head erect for some time to come.

Mr. T. Atkinson, Lynchburg, Va., says; "Having been a periodical sufferer from rheumatism for many years, and having tried many different remedies, at last I resorted to St. Jacobs Oil, and found relief and benefit by the first application.
