Keene Board Reports Likely Confidential

OTTAWA (CP)—Some of the key reports to the government by the proposed Atomic Development Board likely will be treated as confidential advice, not to be made public. This was indicated in the Commission's report to the House of Commons at the vote of 108 to 6 of a New Democratic Party motion to require public disclosure of all reports and recommendations made by the advisory board. The Liberals sided with Conservatives in turning back the proposal. So did one Social Credit minister but others in his party abstained. Mulroney's Liberals (NDP - Cape Breton South) said in moving the amendment to the bill establishing the board that the reports should be made public. "So the people will know what the board is doing."

Labor Body Submits Board Model

OTTAWA (CP)—The Confederation of National Trade Unions has submitted a Prime Minister Diefenbaker a model for a national economic development board. The labor body said in its annual report to the federal government that the board should include representatives from all sectors of the economy, including capital, labor, consumers, agriculture, the government and various experts. It said the board should have six committees: 1. A committee on economic research to co-ordinate all possible research with the requirements of economic planning. 2. A productivity council to study specific problems of production. 3. A committee of industrial research to lead Canadian producers to specialize in products adaptable to world competition. 4. A committee on combines and cartels to overhaul the present anti-trust legislation. 5. A committee on investment to determine investment needs and possibilities. 6. A committee on foreign trade to consider how to deal with the various trading blocs, including the Common Market, consider longer credit terms for certain countries, and the possible use of a barter as a trading system with some countries short of dollar reserves.

CONTRACT BRIDGE By B. JAY BECKER

bridge book and magazine he could lay his cards on the table. In this hand, their opponents - an owl (sat South) and a pussycat (sat North) - got to six notrump on the bidding sequence shown. The mongoose, doubled when the pussycat bid six notrump. He knew that the double, in a slam contract, called for partner to lead the first suit by his dummy. The mongoose was confident that a heart lead would beat the slam. However, the mule was accustomed to leading the jack of spades with his kind of hand, so he naturally led the jack of spades. He knew he was supposed to lead a heart on the bidding, but being a very stubborn critter, he wouldn't do it. He wanted routine to be surgery by any newfangled conventions, regardless of what anyone said. The owl played low sum the pussycat's hand and the mongoose played low also. (If it were the pussycat's hand, South would have had twelve easy tricks.) The owl won the spade with the king, and being a wise old owl, he knew the mongoose had doubled the slam because he had the A-K-Q of spades and six club tricks, reducing the pussycat's hand to the queen of spades and the A-Q of hearts. The mongoose's last three cards consisted of 10 spades and K-J of hearts. The owl then blinked knowingly and led a spade, and the mongoose's goose was cooked!
