

OCTOBER IS RESTAURANT MONTH

Big Increase Seen In Habit Of Eating Out By Islanders

"Islanders are eating out more and have more and better places to eat out than ever before," says A. Walther Gaudet, secretary-treasurer of the P.E.I. Tourist Association.

"There's been a tremendous increase in the number of people who have been eating out in the last few years," he says. The main reason for the continuous climb in the industry is the Canadian Restaurant Association promotion work.

October is Restaurant Month across Canada. The CRA month-long promotion project this fall will feature for the first time an "eat out" contest in all member restaurants in Canada.

During the eight years the promotion month has been observed it has paid off in increased year-round sales for restaurants in this province as well as in the rest of Canada.

Membership day in the Maritimes is October 14. That day membership teams of the CRA will make personal calls on food service operators.

While many Canadian restaurants and particularly those in the Maritimes are geared to catering to a seasonal influx of visitors, the CRA is showing just as keen interest in the purpose of encouraging the public of Canada to "eat out" at least as much as is done in other countries.

Until recent years Canadians had not acquired this habit. The annual campaign, however, has been making good headway in recent years.

The Maritimes support many fine eating places—Restaurants that have repeatedly been acclaimed by visitors from other countries.

The present goal of the Canadian Restaurant Association is to make Canadians aware of this and encourage them to make more use of restaurants.

Spuds Are High On Basic Diet

EDMONTON (CP) — Canada's basic diet is "potatoes, home-made bread and maple syrup," according to a current United States publication now on sale in Canadian bookstores.

Postmaster: General William Hamilton quoted from the paperback edition of Round-the-World Cookbook by Myra Waldo, published in 1957 by Bantam, in an address to the Canadian Tourist Association annual meeting.

Mr. Hamilton said it contained only description of Canadian food habits:

Mrs. Priscilla Smith, Stanley, had as her guests over the week-end, Mrs. Jean Taylor, Kensington, Mrs. J.A. Douglas, Norboro, Mrs. Heath Caseley, Kensington, and Mr. and Mrs. R.G. Somers, Summerside.

"Dainty, thin slices of pale white bread would not be appreciated in this hardy country; instead there is a demand for large loaves of home-style bread, hot and delicious. Even city dwellers will not accept anything but the country-style bread."

"PEA SOUP, ALE TOO"

"But there is much more to Canadian food: Such specialties as the famous Canadian pea soup, the locally made cheeses and ales, tourtiere (the national meat pie), and grande-peres (a maple syrup desert).
