MISCELLANEOUS.
QUEEN VICTORIA'S CHILDREN.—The whole household is up betimes; the young people breakfast at eight and dine alone.
During the forenoon they keep to their books. Then the boys are drilled in military exercise, while the girls, we suppose, practise callisthenics. By this time dinner is ready; and when its tolls are surmounted, the children go to the riding-school, from which they proceed, the princesses to drawing and music, and the princes to a carpenter's shop, where they they hammer, and saw, and turn till they are tired; after which they occasionally spend some time in a laboratory fitted up for their particular use. The school is now ended; and while the girls go out to play or ride, the boys go out to walk, play, ride or shoot till ten-time. Then come the preparations for the lesson tomorrow, and then to bed.—Such according to the English papers, is the daily life of the Queen's children, and when we add that, morning and evening, they are trained in the truths of religion, we believe, that we have before us the fact that the first family in the empire is regulated in a fashion, which if they were for a good many other families if they would but imitate.—Toronto Globe.

Chinese Potatoes.—The Chinese potato, so much talked about, ought to be mealy, because it comes from the floury land.

Barbarous Comundrum.—When does a man shave with a silver razor?—When he cuts off his heirs with a shilling.

Spinsters.—There are old maids amongst all classes, for all classes require them. Indeed it would be a poor world without them, and children in general would be but poorly reared, if they had only their mothers to look after them. Maiden aunts, and maiden nurses, and maiden friends, are indispensable and they belong to no particular class, but to all, as do all bachelors. They are divine ordinations.

Miss Tulp, in speaking of old bachelors, says they are frozen-out old gardeners in the flower-bed of Love. As they are useless as weeds, they should be served in the same manner—choked!

Rogers, said Cook one day in the much money into your epistolary compositions?—"I find not the least difficulty in that," replied Sam, "for I always write with a steel pen!"

Connabul Comundrum.—When is a man shaved by proxy?—When his wife goes a shopping in his absence.
Did You Ever?—We often hear of a man "being in advance of his age," but who ever heard of a woman being in the same predicament?

A TRIFLE AND THE GALLOW.—There is a kind of saying which alleges that it is not easy to cheat the gallow of its own. When the late deceased villain of ticket-of-leave men is receiving so many illustrations the following case occurs to our recollection.—In 1833, at the Kingston circus at Jobergh, a man of the name of Brady, or O'Brady was tried, along with two companions, for some evidence, the charge against Brady was deriving a shepherd in a rut which occurred at St.
Boswell's Fair a month or two before. From another of these was not clearly brought home, and they were sentenced to transportation for life, while Wilson, their companion was found guilty, and was not cleared on this occasion, for him an acquittal was secured at Jobergh. Brady was sent to the Australian penal settlement; but, after being kept there a year or two, his desperate endeavour to escape, and his conduct in the penal establishment, was such that he was When once more at liberty, he had not been long without acquiring fresh guilt upon his head, as he was found to be one of the parties who attacked and plundered the gold extract between the diggings and Melbourne. During his trial a person who had seen him at the Court-house at Jobergh in 1843, and by some other concurrent circumstances, satisfied himself that Brady was the same man in all the transaction. The gallow, however, was not cleared on this occasion, for he and his desperate associates in the gold robbery were hanged at Melbourne.

SETTLING A DUEL.—Two officers having asked King Gustavus's permission to fight a duel, he consented, and, having intimated to them his intention of witnessing the combat, at the appointed hour appeared on the ground. Then, turning to the officers who were about to engage, he said, "Now, gentlemen, fight—fight till one of you fall.
And I have brought the provost-marshal with me to behold the survivor." It is remarkable, how suddenly the gentlemen discovered they could reconcile their differences without fighting.

SARAH, dear, said a husband to his wife, "If I were in your place, I would never give you a bit of butter as you do."
"Butter, my dear! I never give if any butter." "No, but you poured about a quart of milk down it this afternoon, and then trotted it on the knee for nearly two hours. If you don't give me a bit of butter, it isn't for the want of churning."

POMPEY says he once worked for a man who raised his wages so high, that he could only reach them once in two years.

Boots made from the skin of the white porpoise are among the latest novelties.
These, with rat-skin gloves, must be nice.

The following advertisement lately appeared in a Jersey paper—"To be sold by private contract, a beautiful rooster, a monkey, a parrot, two spaniels, and a tortoiseshell tom-cat, the property of a lady just married, who has no further use for them."

Wanted.—A supply of "Ottomans, for the repose of the Russians. Those stuffed with a few shillings of lead."

If you put two persons in the same bedroom, one of whom has the tooth-ache and the other is in love, you will find that the person who has the tooth-ache will go to sleep first.

"Don't stand there loafing," said a professor at Union, to three students, standing where they should not."
"We're not loafing," said Nat. "There are ninety three of us, and it takes 'leven to make a ton!"

Query for the House of Assembly—Do some of the members feel girlish when they make a maiden speech?
