Eruption Of Volcano In Philippines Brings Death To Large Number

MANILA, Dec. 5 (Wednesday) — (AP) — Officials of Camiguin Island today expressed fear that as many as 2,000 persons may have died in Tuesday's massive eruption of Hibok Hibok volcano.

Philippines News Service correspondents at Mambajao, northernmost city of devastated Camiguin Island, reported that the officials' fears of a tremendous death toll mounted as hundreds remained missing nearly 24 hours after the eruption.

However, the Red Cross report of known dead remained at 141 early today.

MANILA, Dec. 5 (Wednesday) — (AP) — At least 141 Filipinos perished Tuesday in the violent eruption of Hibok Hibok volcano. Rescue workers feared hundreds more may be buried under ashes and lava.

As relief sped by air and sea to the scene 245 miles southeast of Manila, a seismologist there said he had "no confidence" that the killer volcano was subsiding.

All Philippines naval ships south of Manila were ordered to the scene to aid in the evacuation of the 45,000 inhabitants of Camiguin Island, on which the 5,620-foot volcano is located.

The Red Cross said the death toll was growing by the hour. So great was the heat from the lava that rescue workers so far had dug in only the outer fringes of the disaster zone.

Poisonous fumes still poured from fissures, making rescue work perilous. More than six square miles on the volcano's slope was blanketed by ash and lava minutes after the volcano let go with a thunderous roar. A tower of smoke and flame billowed three miles high over the summit. The villagers, wise to the angry ways of Hibok Hibok, this time had no warning. Usually there are advance rumblings or earth shocks that give villagers on the slopes time to run for the coast.

That was one reason why it was feared the casualty figure would rise much higher. Already the total was more than double the toll of 66 taken in the last violent eruption there Sept. 15, 1950.

The destructive habits of Hibok Hibok led to belief that there may be more eruptions. In both the 1948 and 1950 disasters there were a series of eruptions that ran for several days.

Reports from the Southern Philippines said the towering cloud of smoke and ashes shooting up from Hibok Hibok could be seen 40 miles away. A ship captain in those waters said the cloud mushroomed skyward much like the cloud of an atomic bomb explosion.

Bus Plows Into Group Marching Along Street

Agricultural Conference Is Told Bright Skies Ahead

CHATHAM, England, Dec. 4 (CP) — A two-decker suburban bus plowed into a marching squad of royal marine cadets tonight and killed 23 boys. Police described it as the worst road accident in Britain's history.

The cadets, from 10 to 14 years old, were on their way through dimly-lit streets to a boxing match in the navy barracks of this Royal Navy arsenal. Nineteen boys were injured.

The driver of the bus, a man of 40 years' experience, was to have received a medal tomorrow for 25 years' safe driving.

OTTAWA, Dec. 4 (CP) — Federal agricultural experts today forecast heavy demand for Canadian farm products and "firm" prices for such foods as wheat, beef, eggs, milk and other dairy products in 1952.

In reports delivered before the annual federal-provincial agricultural conference, the 100-odd delegates were told:

1. Milk production next year probably won't be sufficient to meet all demand. Fluid milk prices are expected to be higher, and prices of manufactured milk products may remain at the 1951 level.

2. Beef prices likely will be about the same as they are in the United States, but hog prices may come down with increased production predicted.

3. Canadians may buy more horsemeat in 1952 if beef prices remain high.

4. Egg production is expected to increase, but there is a strong demand both in Canada and abroad for supplies, softening the production impact on prices.

5. Butter production may be down, and "it would seem therefore that prices should remain firm."

6. The world demand for wheat is expected to remain strong through the coming year.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner opened the conference on an optimistic note, warning that there will be no peace until food problems in the Far East are overcome.

Can Boost Production Canada, he said, can boost her food production, but her farmers must be assured that they will get a reasonable return for their product.

She would be able to help the Far Eastern situation by shipping more products to her traditional markets in the United States and the United Kingdom, thus leaving such countries as Australia free to ship to Asiatic ports.

Cease-Fire Talks Bog Down In Words

News In Brief

MUNSAN, Korea, Dec. 5 (Wednesday) — (CP) — Korean cease-fire talks were bogged down today in a welter of words with foggy meanings.

The main problem facing Allied negotiators was to get a clear understanding of what the Communists were proposing in the way of machinery to supervise any truce in Korea.

The original Communist proposals for truce "watchdog teams" brought a 21-point request from the Allies Monday for clarification. The Communists sent back a nine-point reply Tuesday.

But it still did not clear things up, and U. N. truce delegates came up with 18 additional requests for clarification. Communist replies were promised by 11 a. m. today (9 p. m. EST) Tuesday when a United Nations officer will call on the Red cease-fire negotiators.

Once these replies are in, the negotiators will hold a sub-committee meeting.

PARIS, Dec. 4 (AP) — Alcoholism in France has tripled since 1945 and the country has more than 1,000,000 alcoholics, the National Assembly was told today during a debate on the public health budget.

OTTAWA, Dec. 4 (CP) — The cost-of-living index climbed 0.8 points during October to a peak 191.2 from 190.4, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

All groups in the index climbed, with the exception of home furnishings and services. The index is based on 1935-39 prices equaling 100.

Higher prices for such food items as potatoes, milk, canned vegetables, corn flakes, cocoa, jam and corn syrup pushed the food sub-group to 250.2 from 249.7.

Meats, particularly pork, were lower, as well as eggs, sugar, oranges and cabbage.

The clothing sub-index increased to 214.6 from 213.8, reflecting higher prices for woollen goods such as men's overcoats and sweaters, women's woollen hosiery, lingerie and rubbers.

An advance in the fuel and light index to 150.8 from 150.2 was recorded.

Rents moved up to 144.8 from 142.7 following a quarterly survey. Advances in the miscellaneous section, advances in cigars and health costs moved the index to 144.9 from 144.3.

Home furnishings declined to 199.9 from 200.1 as the result of lower costs of soap, outweighing small advance in other items.

The Bureau said that since August, 1939, the cost-of-living index increased 89.7 per cent.

Passengers To Be Taxied Over Hillsboro Bridge To Southport Stn. From City

Premier Voices Approval Of C.N.R. Proposal

Commencing today and on a six-day weekly basis the Murray Harbour train will start from and terminate at the Southport Station, it was announced yesterday by officials of the Canadian National Railway. Passengers will be carried to and from the Railway Station at Charlottetown to the Southport terminus by a local taxi service.

There will be no extra charge to the passengers for this service which will be included in the regular ticket fare, it was stated. Taxis for the outgoing Murray Harbour train will leave the Charlottetown railway station at 3:15 p. m., and connect with the train which will be stationed at Southport.

On arrival of the train from Murray Harbour at Southport taxis will meet it and bring the passengers directly in to the Charlottetown Station without extra charge.

Eliminates Longer Trip The inauguration of this improved service will eliminate the long roundabout trip via Mt. Stewart. Any local freight or express will be handled expeditiously by between Charlottetown and Southport.

For some time now no mails have been carried on the Murray Harbour train. Carload freight will be handled as usual around via Mt. Stewart by extra freight and the regular inward bound trains from the east.

The above arrangements for passengers will be in effect until further notice.

A short time ago the Board of Transport Commissioners gave the Railway permission to abandon the Hillsboro Bridge and within the past few days the Railway have removed their rails from this bridge. The present arrangements, however, serve to emphasize the importance of the Hillsboro Bridge in the general scheme of necessary transportation.

In addition to the improvements now being put into effect for passengers on the Murray Harbour branch, the station and track facilities at Southport are being improved.

Facilities At Southport At the present time the station facilities at Southport are not as good as officials desire and immediate steps are being taken to remedy the condition. Mr. C. T. Montgomery, superintendent, said last night that a platform would be ready for the first train arrival this morning.

In addition work will be started today to construct a "runaround" to permit the turning of the diesel engine. At present, and for the first week, the train will simply run straight into the Southport station and the return trip will be started with the engine pushing as far as Lake Verde where it is possible to switch to the front of the train again.

All track has been taken up from the approaches to the Hillsborough Bridge on both sides and work of laying the new track for the run-around will start today. It will have two switches, one at each end to facilitate operations. This work is expected to be completed in a week's time.

50 Boy: In Group

The column of 50 boys, marching to music, was about to swing into the gates of Chatham Barracks at 6 P. M. when the bus bowled them over in the darkness. Police passed emergency calls to the other two towns on the Medway River — Gillingham and Rochester — where life revolves around the navy.

Radio calls brought police and firemen and a telephone roundup of all doctors in the three towns brought immediate aid to the blood-spattered scene.

Doctors worked desperately by the light of head-lamps and flares, giving first aid treatment, then hurrying the worst cases away to local hospitals in convoys of ambulances.

The bodies of the dead and injured were scattered for 50 yards along the road. The bus, smeared with blood and one fender crumpled, careened into a lamppost.

One witness, a navy petty officer, said "I saw many grim things in many places during the war, but this was too much for me. I had to come away."

Others described the scene as being as gory as a battlefield. All around lay broken hand instruments and the bodies of the dead.

The highest previous death toll from a road accident in Britain was nine, when a bus crashed into a building at Holmfirth, Yorkshire, in 1947.

Chatham, a town of about 45,000, is 35 miles southeast of London and is the site of Britain's largest naval arsenal. The two-decker bus was operated by the Chatham and District Traction Company.

A passenger on the upper deck told reporters: "I felt a series of slight bumps. Then the bus careened down the road and stopped. It was a few seconds later that we began to realize what had happened."

Police ringed the tragedy area with red hurricane lamps to shut it off from other traffic. When the toll was taken, only 10 boys had escaped injury, and they were in hospital needing treatment for hundreds of motorists in the Medway towns ran a shuttle service to ferry parents to police stations and then on to hospitals.

Police declined to say how fast the bus was going or to theorize why it did not swing around the marching column of boys.

The driver, George Sampson, 52 years old, was taken to his home. He was "in no condition to see anyone," a union official said. Sampson was led away dazed and in tears after the crash.

Quebec's Pulp Wood Cut May Establish Record

By Richard Daignault QUEBEC, Dec. 4 (CP) — Quebec's "buecherons" this year may produce the biggest cut of timber in the province's history to help beat a world shortage of newsprint.

Lands and Forests Department official said preliminary estimates of the 1951 cut indicate it may exceed Quebec's record 1946 figure of 7,491,000 cords of wood cut for consumption by the province's newsprint mills, which produce more than half Canada's total output.

New House-To-House Battle In Suez Streets

By Alex Valentine SUEZ, Egypt, Dec. 4 (Reuters) — A house-to-house battle swept the narrow streets of this troubled canal zone city today as British troops clashed with Egyptians for the second time in 24 hours.

At least 28 Egyptians were killed or wounded as against two British wounded.

Egyptian authorities in Cairo said 15 Egyptians—two of them police and one a woman—died and 29 were wounded.

Three British armored carriers clattered over the cobblestone streets trading shots with Egyptian police and civilians crouching in doorways and around corners.

Terrified bystanders huddled in groups as bullets whined around them. The British vehicles finally worked clear and sped away for their barracks.

Each side accused the other of shooting first. The battle brought the casualty list in Suez for the last 24 hours to about 120 killed or wounded.

British troops sealed off the city with a system of road blocks today in an effort to curb any repetition of last night's fighting. In that fight British officials said 11 Britons were killed against about 12 Egyptians. The Egyptian authorities said 16 Egyptians died. Today's fight began, a British spokesman said, when a force of about 40 Egyptians opened fire on three carriers loaded with troops. The troops flattered themselves on the floor of the open-topped vehicles, easing up cautiously to return fire over the sides. When they pulled out, the street was covered with moaning bodies. Ironically the battle broke out minutes after British commander Brig. William Greenescrees left from truce talks with Egyptian officials. Greenescrees asked the Egyptian governor of the city to take measures to enforce law and order.

OTTAWA, Dec. 4 (CP) — The Canadian government started its St. Lawrence Seaway legislation through parliament today and was quickly told by the Progressive Conservative party that construction of the huge navigation-power project is "long overdue."

Yugoslavia Has Freed Archbishop Stepinac

ROME, Dec. 4 (AP) — Ansa, the Italian news agency, reported from Belgrade that Yugoslavia freed Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac of Zagreb from prison today.

Stepinac, who was arrested by Communist Yugoslavia in 1946 on charges of collaborating with the Nazis and sentenced later to 10 years in prison.

The Ansa dispatch said that "according to usually well informed sources" Stepinac was transferred from his prison cell at Lepoglava to a home near a Carmelite convent at Presovica.

Yugoslav sources at the Vatican said they had not heard such a report, but expressed the hope it was true.

Ansa said its informants reported Stepinac was moved into a renovated house belonging to the archdiocese of Zagreb. The dispatch gave no further details.

British, U. S. Marines In New Raid

TOKYO, Dec. 5 (Wednesday) — (AP) — British and United States marines Monday night for the second time in two days made a daring raid behind Communist lines south of Songjin on the Northeast Korean coast, the U. S. Navy announced today.

Two commandos were wounded in the brief, almost hand-to-hand combat that ensued.

The marines in the spectacular strike left behind an undetermined number of Communist dead along the closely guarded railway line that brings supplies down from Siberia, the navy reported.

While the commandos with blackened faces struck in the darkness, the destroyer Tingey laid down a barrage of five-inch salvos along the railroad tracks.

The marines and British commandos Sunday night landed on the coast near Tanchon, about 25 miles south of Sonjin.

The two raids apparently were designed to cut the Reds' main east-coast supply road connecting Songjin and the big east coast port of Wonsan, far to the south, has been under daily Allied naval bombardment.

Some 30,000 woodcutters are to be nearly finished by January. Equipped with gasoline-powered saws and paid a salary of $7 per cord of wood, the modern Quebec "buecheron" this year earns about $10 a day. He lives in a neat camp. Chefs prepare his food.

The province's big newsprint mills are turning out newsprint at a rate that apparently will exceed their combined capacity of 2,787,856 tons.

A Lands and Forests Department official cited the steadily-mounting newsprint figures of 2,703,000 tons in 1949, 2,750,330 tons last year. He said "every" production points to 1951 production figures in excess of capacity figures.
