Leaders In Home Ridings On Eve Of Quebec Voting

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's first full election campaign in 27 years drew to a close Tuesday with Premier Jean Lesage and Daniel Johnson, Union Nationale leader, touring their home ridings.

The Quebec electorate was to choose today between the 27-month-old Liberal government and the Union Nationale which Mr. Johnson has led for 13 months.

Mr. Lesage surprised the province Sept. 19 in calling the snap election. And over the last few days of the campaign hung the shadow of Canada's first television debate between two party leaders.

Both parties expressed satisfaction with the performances of their leaders in the 15-minute encounter Sunday night, carried by the French-language TV network of the CBC. A simultaneous translation was carried on English-language radio stations in Montreal, Ottawa, Quebec City and Sherbrooke.

What effect the debate will have on the outcome may never be accurately measured.

There are 270,301 eligible voters this year compared with 268,439 in 1960, the year the Liberals came to power.

STAYED AT HOME

Mr. Lesage Tuesday campaigned mainly in Quebec West where he has represented since 1960. Mr. Johnson was in the Eastern Townships riding of Bagot. He has been his member since 1946.

Both Liberal and Union Nationale parties have a full slate of 95 candidates in the running.

L'Action Provinciale, a party formed to fight state ownership of electricity, is running 10 candidates. Its leader, Hertele La Rose, is a candidate in the Montreal Laurier against Rene Levesque, natural resources minister and principal exponent in the cabinet of expropriation of power companies.

Standing in the legislative assembly after the 1960 election was Liberals 52, Union Nationale 42, Independent 10, total 95.

At dissolution it was Liberals 54, Union Nationale 40, independent one.

Premier Lesage, 30, said the election was called to obtain "a decisive mandate" to take over 11 private power companies and place them under the publicly-owned Quebec Hydro.

Mr. Johnson, 47, elected Union Nationale leader in September, 1961, said the electricity issue was a "non-issue" to hit the government's failure.

After a party caucus the Union Nationale came out for the takeover of two small companies and proposed a referendum on the fate of the others by June 30, 1963.

Montreal Welcomes World Fair Decision

MONTREAL (CP) — Lucien Saulnier, chairman of Montreal's executive committee, heard the city had been chosen as site of the 1967 World's Fair.

Mr. Drapreau is a member of the Canadian delegation which presented Canada's brief for the International Bureau of Exhibitions in Paris.

The bureau announced its decision Tuesday.

Mr. Saulnier said it may be 30 days before a federal-provincial-municipal committee decides on the exact site in the Montreal area.

Pierre Sevigny, associate deputy minister and federal representative on the fair delegation, said six or seven possible sites in Montreal area are being considered.

In his bid to the bureau, Mayor Drapreau said the fair will be located on 500 acres close to harbors, expressways and railway facilities.

Cost of the fair will be split three ways: the federal government paying $20,000,000, Quebec $15,000,000 and Montreal $5,000,000.

Profits will be divided proportionately.

Mayor Drapreau's proposed theme of the fair is Man and his World.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he welcomed the decision. "This will be an unusually great event in Canadian history," he told reporters after a morning cabinet meeting.

Emergency Planning Talks Set

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal-provincial conference on emergency planning will be held in Ottawa Dec. 3, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced Tuesday in the Commons.

Defence Minister Harkness will act as chairman of the conference, at which all provincial governments are expected to be represented by cabinet ministers.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that such conferences in the past have proved "most useful" as a means of planning and coordinating civil defence measures.

Mr. Drapreau said the fair will be located on 500 acres close to harbors, expressways and railway facilities.

Cost of the fair will be split three ways: the federal government paying $20,000,000, Quebec $15,000,000 and Montreal $5,000,000.

Mac Explains Reason For Nevada Test

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan told Parliament Tuesday that a surprise British nuclear test in the United States is needed to make a "serious scientific experiment" held there last month.

But the opposition Labour party submitted a censure motion against the government for deciding to hold the underground test in Nevada. It is expected to be debated next week.

Macmillan said it was impossible to give an exact date for the test but it would not be possible to arrange it "within a month of certain date."

Macmillan emphasized that the explosion was in no way the beginning of a new series of tests.

Mayor Whittores Resigns From Controller

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Charles Whittores Tuesday went after Controller Paul Tardif with her fists.

After three hours of verbal wrangling between the two, the controller said Tuesday that the mayor "launched a series of wild blows" at him during a closed meeting of board of control.

RURAL BEAUTIFICATION AWARDS PRESENTED

Among those who received awards at last night's 17th annual dinner of the Rural Beautification Society were Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Stewart, Kingston. They were the winners of first place in the farm home improvement competition, third year, in the province. Here S.S. Carson, centre, manager of the T. Eaton Company's Charlottetown branch, presents a chest of silverware to Mr. and Mrs. Stewart. He also gave them a cheque for $25. (See story on page 3).

ATTORNEY-GENERAL Chooses Select Candidates For Third, Fifth Prince

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

Members of the last Legislature in the Third and Fifth Districts of Prince were nominated last night at a Progressive Conservative party convention to run in the Dec. 10 election.

Dr. Hubert McNeill, provincial minister of health, was nominated as assemblyman and G. Lorne Monley as councillor for the fifth district.

Henry Wedge, minister of welfare and labor, was nominated as assemblyman, and Keith Harrington as councillor for the third district. Mr. Harrington is from Spring Valley. The other three men are from Summerside.

George Key Jr. and George Riley acted as chairmen and co-chairman of the meeting, held in the Elm Street school auditorium.

Each of the four candidates spoke briefly.

Dr. McNeill commented on the wonderful condition of the roads at present. He noted that several new high schools were being built, plus a new vocational school in Summerside and one planned for Charlottetown.

He said if the Conservative party were re-elected, some of their objectives would be to pave another hundred miles in the Fifth District, widen the road to Micochee from Summerside, and build sidewalks for children in school areas. He also said a provincial park in the Summerside area is mooted.

GREATEST ISSUE

Dr. McNeill stated that "I feel the greatest single issue in the forthcoming campaign will be the removing of the Liberal hospital premium plan and the payment of all premiums out of general revenue."

Dr. McNeill said the election, party would be fought on a high plane. He predicted the Conservative party will win with a large majority.

Dr. McNeill also stated that the causeway project he built, "Don't let anyone tell you differently," he said.

Dr. McNeill commented on the government's program of assistance to the mental and retarded persons and of future plans of expansion.

Commenting on the age of members of the parties, he said "the leader of the Opposition stated he wants no one older than himself. We need people older than Mr. Matheson, we need people younger."

The act, the papers relate, "is intended to give the Minister of Health the power to regulate the practice of medicine in the province."

Dr. McNeill said that for this reason the act is in conflict with the human rights act which states that no one shall be discriminated against on the basis of race, religion, or sex.

Bill Provides For Welfare Council

OTTAWA (CP) — The time has come for a fresh look at the problem of public assistance in Canada, aimed at developing a more integrated approach, Health Minister McNeill said Tuesday in the Commons.

Mr. McNeill was introducing second reading of a bill providing for a national council of welfare, a high-level advisory body patterned on the Dominion Council of Health. Like the health council, it would be a federal-provincial organ.

The Commons turned to the welfare bill after concluding clause-by-clause study measure to tighten up the Food and Drug Act with a view to preventing a recurrence of the situations such as the thalidomide tragedy.

The government moved for third and final reading of the food-drug bill Tuesday but failed to obtain the required unanimous consent. It was held over until the next sitting.

Opening debate on the welfare council measure, Mr. McNeill noted that for many years the federal and provincial governments have been sharing the cost of old age assistance, disabled and blind persons allowances, and unemployment assistance.

ASKS RE-EXAMINATION

"We have now clearly reached the point when we must reexamine the mass of welfare bills which have been introduced in the Commons," he said.

Chinese-Russian Relations Cool

LONDON (CP) — Several Communist Chinese ambassadors to Eastern European countries have been "temporarily" recalled to Peking amid increasing chilliness between Red China and the Soviet Union, informed sources here said Tuesday. But the sources stressed an "arm's length" Sino-Soviet relations were expected.

Food's Day Act Aimed At Violating Bill Of Rights

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Hamilton, Ont., bowling alley operators plan to ask the Supreme Court of Canada to rule that the Food's Day Act violates a section of the Canadian Bill of Rights guaranteeing freedom of religion.

Walter Robertson, 34, and Fred Rosentani, 37, operators of the Hamilton Centre Bowl, will ask the court Monday for leave to appeal against their conviction for operating the alley contrary to the act.

Mr. Robertson and Mr. Rosentani, employees of American International Bowling of Canada Limited, were fined $25 and costs last February after being convicted by Magistrate W. R. Morrison. They lost an appeal against their conviction in the Ontario Appeal Court.

The only issue in the appeal case is to be argued for Mr. Robertson and Mr. Rosentani by Toronto lawyer John J. Robinson is the application of the Bill of Rights to the Lord's Day Act.

A Hamilton lawyer permits bowling on Sunday between 1 and 4 p.m. Mr. Robertson and Mr. Rosentani were convicted of opening their bowling alley on Sunday, Jan. 14.

SAYS CONFLICT EXISTS

Documents filed with the court by Mr. Robinson state the question of whether the act violates the Bill of Rights is in conflict with the human rights act which states that no one shall be discriminated against on the basis of race, religion, or sex.

He said that the act is in conflict with the human rights act which states that no one shall be discriminated against on the basis of race, religion, or sex.
