MONCTON — Two appointments in the stores department of the Canadian National Railways were announced today by P. F. Padberg, general storekeeper for the Atlantic Region. J. L. A. Melanson, storekeeper for Prince Edward Island at Charlottetown, became storekeeper of the CNR's big new work equipment shops at Moncton. He is succeeded at Charlottetown by E.A. Doucette. Born at Moncton, Mr. Melanson joined the railway in 1940 as a messenger and enlisted in the Canadian Army shortly afterwards. He returned to the stores department in 1945 as issuer and later served as checker. He was appointed assistant storekeeper in 1951 and storekeeper at Charlottetown in 1957. Entering the stores department as messenger in 1937, Mr. Doucette enlisted with the first army tank brigade shortly after the outbreak of the Second World War. He resumed work with the railway at Moncton upon demobilization in 1946 as issuer and was appointed assistant storekeeper in 1953.

ALL AGREED ON PLAN

All provinces agreed to participate in the program last winter, and all but Prince Edward Island are understood to have actually participated. Before a municipality could get any federal money, its proposed project had to be approved by the provincial government.

The program, initially designed to run from Dec. 1 to April 30 but extended by a month during the course of the winter, covered construction and major reconstruction of streets, sidewalks, municipal roads, water, sewage and storm sewage facilities. It did not include buildings and municipal parks and playgrounds. Those engaged on these projects had to be persons otherwise unemployed and normally seeking work during the winter months. A number of provinces added additional incentives by paying a portion of the payroll costs not covered by the federal government's 50 per cent. Manitoba paid 30 per cent and Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta 25 per cent.

TO CHOOSE NEW LEADER

VANCOUVER (CP)—A spokesman for the national Social Credit League said Monday night the party will hold a convention in Ottawa July 10-21 next year to choose a new national leader. George Half, public Relations officer for the league, said former national leader Solon Low, defeated in his bid for re-election at the 1958 general election, has no intention of standing again for the top party post.

Tie Vote

(Continued from page 1) united team" with the federal Conservative government. Local issues were secondary to those involving the federal government. It was obvious federal Conservatives felt their popularity was at stake from the intense campaigning done by the four members of parliament, including Fisheries Minister J. Angus MacLean. IN POWER SINCE 1925 Liberals dominated the government from 1900 until 1912 when the Conservatives won 27 of the 30 seats. The PCs were re-elected in 1915, but lost in 1919. From then until 1935 the government changed every election. In the 1935 election Liberals swept all 30 seats. They have held power ever since. The Conservatives never gaining more than 10 seats in opposition. In the 1955 general election Liberals outpolled the PCs 44,918 to 35,775 in the popular vote. Because of the island's unique voting system some property owners, veterans and clergymen could vote as many as 30 times for assemblyman and councillor candidates. The distinction ends with their election and they are equal in the bi-cameral legislature. The Conservatives called on the voters to replace the Liberal government with one that would cooperate fully with Ottawa. The Liberal government, said the PCs, had reacted with hostility to the government of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, "the most just and generous" in Canadian history.

ASK NEW MANDATE

Liberal speakers asked for a new mandate for the Matheson government. It had done more in six years than had been accomplished in the previous 60, they said. Premier Matheson said PC cries that his government was old and tired did not jibe with the facts. The average age of his government was 32, the Conservatives were older on the average, he said. Liberal speakers emphasized that the Matheson government came into being in 1953. The result set a precedent in the election of 1931. The Progressive Conservatives were elected in the island a year after the federal government. The Liberals returned to power here in 1935 and the Conservatives had not held more than 10 seats again until Tuesday night.

The attack reportedly occurred last Saturday night in the vicinity of Chestnut Street where the victim is said to live. The accused is represented by John Holmes who requested the remand. Other cases on the docket were all listed in the heading of "drunk and incapable" with 6 people appearing. One female and a male first offender were fined $5 and 4 with four men fined $10 each.

There was no official confirmation. MPs DISTURBED Prospects that the armed forces might be stripped of their brass in this time of crisis deeply disturbed members of Parliament. Socialists vainly demanded an immediate government denial of the reports of the resignations, saying a denial was necessary to preserve Indian morale. Menon told Parliament he had discussed the situation with Nehru but declined to elaborate. There was no comment from the three service chiefs: Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, chief of staff of the army; Vice-Admiral R. D. Katari, the navy chief of staff; and Air Vice-Marshal S. Mukherji, air force chief. SOURCE OF STORM The storm blew up from a dispatch in the British-owned newspaper Statesman of Calcutta and New Delhi. The statement said Thimayya had decided to resign and the navy and air force chiefs probably would do likewise. It described the basic issue as a complaint that officers were being promoted without regard to the recommendations of service boards. But it said there were also differences, temperamental and personal, between the defence minister and Thimayya, who has the reputation of being the most popular man in the Indian army.

Weather Is Poor For Harvesting

With only 137 hours of sunshine reported by the weather observer at the Experimental Farm, the month of August was not comparable to the making of hay and harvesting of grain by the farmers of Prince Edward Island. The lowest on record was in 1951 when only 128 were recorded. Over the past 50 year period the average has been 231 hours. Total precipitation for the month was 2.87 inches. There were 22 days with rain and 20 days with some sunshine. The average temperature for the month was about normal.

Ike-MacMillan Meet Is Seen Hope To End Pistol Pointing

By TOM OCHILTREE LONDON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan are counting on the president's exchange of visits with Nikita S. Khrushchev to remove the pistol pointing at West Berlin. If the Soviet premier will remove the threat the two Western leaders will offer to hold a series of East-West summit meetings. This was reported by high diplomatic sources Tuesday night to have been the main strategy decision reached in the Eisenhower-Macmillan talks. The president, the diplomats said, resisted Macmillan's strong bid for an early summit meeting, and insisted that any decision on such a meeting must await the outcome of his talks with Khrushchev. Macmillan was said finally to have agreed. These things settled, the president spent the day working on accumulated Washington business. He also engaged in a little putting practice on the lawn at Windsor House, the United States ambassador's residence in Regent's Park. Mrs. Nehru extended an invitation for Eisenhower to visit India soon. The president said he would like to go, but did not know when he could fit a visit in. During their discussions Eisenhower and Macmillan reached different appraisals of the Big Four foreign ministers' conference which dragged on for 10 weeks in Geneva this summer, the diplomatic sources said. MACMILLAN VIEW Macmillan took the view that the Geneva talks harrowed East-West differences on Berlin to a point where a summit meeting was desirable. Eisenhower took this view: The Soviet Union still kept a sword over West Berlin. He has repeatedly insisted that the never would negotiate under threats, and doubted the wisdom of a top-level meeting that seemed foredoomed to failure. It seemed evident that Eisenhower and Macmillan would regard Khrushchev's visit to the United States as a success if it did no more than end the Soviet threat to West Berlin. Then not only one but a series of summit meetings would become possible, probably with foreign ministers' conferences sandwiched between. Eisenhower received the impression that British pressure for a summit conference was not as great now as it was a few months ago. The president and prime minister, assisted by State Secretary Herter and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, hammered out positions on these problems: Disarmament — They agreed to push for the revival of general disarmament talks in a new 10-power body on which Western and Communist countries would have equal representation. Suspension of nuclear tests — It was felt that ultimately the U.S., Britain and the Soviet Union would agree on this matter. Lack of information hampered an analysis of what was going on in Asia. Note was taken of incursion of Chinese Communist troops into India border areas and of the Red uprising in Laos. Both Eisenhower and Macmillan intend to support the Laotian government. And both plan to avoid any political embarrassment for Prime Minister Nehru by making an open offer to aid the Indians.

Queens MP Hails Election Result

Heath Macquarrie, M.P. for Queens, who was an active campaigner for the provincial Conservatives, last night hailed the election results as an overwhelming endorsement of the Diefenbaker Government. The Queens M.P. noted that federal issues had taken a prominent part in the campaign, and the record of the Dominion government had been widely discussed during the hustings.
