Battle Of Britain Sunday Observed At S'side

Yesterday was Battle of Britain Sunday, a day set aside in remembrance of the glorious deeds and heroic efforts of a handful of men who, on the eve of what might have been Britain's defeat, turned aside the thrust of Hitler's most powerful weapon—the Luftwaffe in the gloomy days of 1940 when the eyes of the world were focussed on a tottering empire.

The R. A. F., in a sudden blaze of courage, took to the air and hurled itself against the large German air force. Although almost hopelessly outnumbered, this small group of fliers delivered the fatal blow to Nazi air power.

The Battle of Britain holds special significance for Canadians. In August 1940 a squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force for the first time flew in action against an enemy, won its first victories and suffered its first casualties. It is fitting that this battle in which that force first "won its spurs" should be remembered with pride.

In Summerside yesterday Battle of Britain Sunday was fittingly observed with appropriate services in St. Paul's Church conducted by Padre J. P. O'Hanley and in the Presbyterian Church by Padre George Fee. The weather, which was threatening all during the early part of the day, cleared in time and at the conclusion of the church services the parade of R. C. A. F. personnel, under the command of Wing Commander L. C. Dilworth, D. F. C., and headed by the Canadian Legion Band formed up on Central Street and marched to the Memorial Square where the commanding officer of the station, Wing Commander D. A. Willis, D.F.C., who was accompanied by His Honor Lt.-Governor T. W. L. Prowse delivered an impressive address.

Wing Commander Willis said that "the outward form of the commemoration comprises church parades and services and the laying of wreaths at cenotaphs. The real aspects embrace, first, remembrance of all Canadian air crew who have given their lives in the cause of their country, secondly, remembrance of those who survived exposure to extreme danger but whose courage and example are none the less in survival. Thirdly, thanksgiving that our cause has so far triumphed and the rededication of ourselves to the end that our endeavors of the future will be commensurate with the best traditions of the service and thus reflect credit upon our land and its people. Each year we recall at this time the words of the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, who assumed the responsibilities of Prime Minister of Britain after the fall of France in 1940 when he said, "Let us brace ourselves to our duties and so bear ourselves that, if the British Empire and its Commonwealth last a thousand years, men will say, this was their finest hour."

At the conclusion of his address, wreaths were laid at the base of the cenotaph by Lt. Governor Prowse and the commanding officer. This was followed by the Last Post, the two minutes silence, Reveille, God Save The King and the fly past.

After all the distinguished guests had left the platform the parade, with the band leading, proceeded north on Spring Street, to Pleasant Street and down Summer Street where the salute was taken at the Town Hall by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.—S.

Labor Congress Makes New Demands

HALIFAX, Sept. 16—(CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada wound up its annual convention Saturday after laying down policy for 500,000 workers in a wide field of social, economic and political matters.

The weekly convention saw Canada's biggest labor body press new demands on Government, administrator blows to its left-wing minority and open a split in the six-month-old program of co-operation with other major labor bodies.

Highlights of the week: 1. A call upon the Federal Government for direct price controls, accompanied by a rollback of prices, subsidies on consumer necessities and a 10-per-cent sales tax.

2. An amendment to all its affiliated unions to go after a new found of wage increases to keep up with the rising cost of living.

3. Demands for federally-subsidized housing, on a low-rental basis, and for a contributory, government-aided national health insurance scheme.

4. Disbarment of some Communist suspects as delegates at the convention, along with continuance of a suspension—tantamount to expulsion—of the left-wing Vancouver civic workers' union.

5. Decision to back away from the existing co-operative setup between the T.L.C. and the three other big central labor bodies.

The decision on labor co-operation, achieved after a series of sharp scraps, undoubtedly will have repercussions in Vancouver this week at the annual convention of the Canadian Congress of Labor, Canada's second-biggest union body with 350,000 members.

RUGBY VS POLITICS

WHANGAREI, N. S.—(CP)—It has been said that rugby football is a religion in New Zealand. When N. J. King, a labor candidate in the recent general election arrived for a meeting at Victoria Valet, near here, at the same time as a rugby match, his audience was precisely nil. He got the same result at another meeting the following Saturday.

Let's Talk It Over

A Prince County Viewpoint

Potato Acreage Reduction

Could Prince Edward Island farmers have known that blight would cause greater loss among their potatoes this year than usual, they probably would not have reduced the acreage so drastically. No one could foresee that blight devastation would carry the reduction program further than was desirable. If the price is high this fall and winter, the farmers stand to lose considerable money. It is perhaps better to have small crops and high prices than large crops and low prices as labor and overhead expenses are lessened and the Farmer's remuneration per hour much higher.

Farmers are a group of people however, who do not pay too much attention to hours of labor. 40-hour weeks are unknown to the man who follows the plough. And the way farmers after a disastrous year pick up their tools with determination and courage the following year should prove an inspiration to the ordinary man faced with defeat.

Bouquet From The Heart

A stranger in Summerside recently got two inaccurate directions and as a result covered quite a number of the town's back streets before arriving at his destination. He was distinctly impressed with the beauty of our little town and remarked that the unnecessary detours were worth the extra time and trouble. Unsolicited compliments of this kind are worth a dozen rosy encomiums delivered by guests of the town who deliver dinner speeches where compliments are as much the regular thing as raisins in a plumb loaf.

Grown Up Boy Scouts

We have never been intimately connected with Boy Scout work but know enough about it to appreciate the value of the skills and attitudes towards life which boy scouts acquire. The "good deed every day" rule was a stroke of genius. Too bad we couldn't start some man-scout organizations. If each person consequently went about doing a good deed for a neighbor at some little sacrifice to himself, every day, or even every week, what an improvement their world would be in this practical hard-headed "so much for so much" world of ours.

Wife Of Equerry To Royal Couple Is Tour "Widow"

LONDON, Sept. 16—(CP)—Amid the excitement of preparing for the Royal tour of Canada, there's at least one Scots lassie who feels a wee bit woe-begone.

She's blue-eyed, 28-year-old Eileen Parker, wife of the equerry-in-waiting to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. While her husband Michael goes to Canada with the Royal party, Eileen has to stay at home and look after the children.

"Of course I'd love to go," she said, "but it's just not possible for members of the Royal entourage to take their families along with them."

Eileen is used to being what you might call a "Royal widow." In the last two years, she's been separated from her husband more often than Princess Elizabeth has been away from Prince Philip. Eileen did not visit Malta, although her husband went with Prince Philip on all his naval assignments.

"It's an erratic life, all right," says the slim, five-foot-three lass from Troon, Ayrshire. "My friends say they don't know how I stand it. But it's just the same as being a service wife, really."

Eileen met her husband while serving in the Women's Royal Naval Service and on many war-scarred dates in Rosyth, Scotland's best-known naval base, her husband-to-be brought along his best and closest friend, then Lieut. Philip Mountbatten.

Festive Week Queen, Princess At Concert

The Island's talented artists, Miss Donald MacLeod, Queen of Festive Week and Miss Ruth Boswell, princess, both of Victoria, captivated an appreciative audience which filled King George Hall, Kensington on Friday evening, Sept. 14th. The artists received an ovation from a delighted audience and had to respond with several encores. Mayor W. H. Darrach, presided.

A one-act drama by Kelvin Playfers received well merited applause. The Misses Jean and Margaret Murray rendered two delightful duets and their young voices blended in perfect harmony. Miss Elizabeth Brookings rendered two delightful solos. The male quartette composed of Rev. L. M. Murray, Fred Parker, Roscoe Walker and W. F. Taylor was one of the highlights of the programme and received generous applause.

The contest sponsored by Schurman's School Parade between Kensington and Sea View schools and conducted by Mr. Ronald Kennedy proved to be most interesting and exciting to the fans of the respective teams.

the Cubs to six hits. The Dodgers got only five but one was Gil Hodges' 38th homer, with one on. Stan Musial paced the Cards to victory with a single, double and triple to boost his league leading average to .367. Gerry Staley registered his 17th tripp.

Warren Spahn won his 21st game for the Braves in the opening. Kenny Raffensberger spun a five-hit shutout to give the Reds an even break.

Cleveland's youthful infield buckled Saturday, preventing the Indians from taking a two-game lead in the American League.

The Indians defeated Washington 4-2 in the first game of a twin bill to pull 1-1-2 games ahead of the New York Yankees, who lost a single game to Detroit 7-4. But the Indians blew the nightcap, 7-6.

The Tigers pounded out four home runs to smash the Yanks. Vic Wertz led the bombardment with a pair. Dick Kryhoski and starting pitcher Marlin Stuart socked the others.

Boston's third-place Red Sox dropped a 3-2 decision to the last-place St. Louis Browns. The Browns scored all their runs in the eighth inning with rookie Bob Nieman singling home the winning run.

Philadelphia Athletics nipped Chicago White Sox 5-4 in 12 innings, with Eddie Joost singing home Bobby Shantz with the payoff counter.

Brooklyn's lead in the National League was cut when the Dodgers took an 11-4 trouncing from Pittsburgh Pirates, while the runner-up New York Giants defeated Chicago Cubs 5-2.

Rookie Johnny Merson led the Pirates to victory, driving home six runs on a triple and three singles. Home runs by Bob Thomson, Willie Mays and Don Mueller led the Giants to victory over Chicago.

In other National League games, St. Louis Cardinals humbled Boston Braves 10-1 and Philadelphia Philis downed Cincinnati 5-2.

N ADVENTUROUS SCOUTS

OSLO—(CP)—A group of 20 Norwegian Boy Scouts report that the Møler Glacier in Western Spitsbergen has receded nearly 2,000 feet since 1938. The Boy Scouts recently returned here after three weeks of exciting adventure in Norway's Arctic outpost.

to the independent stage but gold-haired Julie, whose godfather is Prince Philip and who was born on the day Prince Charles was christened, is the apple of her mother's eye.

Speaking of her introduction to Royal circles, Mrs. Parker said that one of her outstanding memories was her first meeting with the Queen. "She makes you feel you are the only person in the room and puts you instantly at ease. And she does love to meet Scots, it's not just a rumor."

Little did Eileen realize in those wartime days that this charming, easy-mannered naval lieutenant would one day be the husband of Britain's future queen and that most of her married life would be controlled by Royal engagements.

For Eileen, like any other ordinary Scotswoman, would probably never have met the Royal Family on a social basis had it not been for her husband's long-standing friendship with Prince Philip.

Now she must be prepared to go out any time at a moment's notice should the Royal couple decide on a sudden semi-official night out.

This means an extensive and somewhat expensive wardrobe, especially for state balls and other official functions. For these, Eileen prefers net and tulle crinolines of pale pastel shades with off-shoulder necklines and tiny sleeves. "A few really good designs with interchangeable accessories give me the best service," she said.

Mrs. Parker does her own cooking in a 10-roomed Georgian house in London's Kensington district, not far from Hyde Park gate. Compensation for much of her loneliness is provided by her children, Michael Jr., 7 and 2½-year-old Julie. Michael is getting

Debate Future Of Gold Mines

JOHN W. SNYDER

DOUGLAS ABBOTT

Prosperity or perjury for Canada's gold-mining industry hinges on the decisions made by the Board of Governors of the International Monetary Fund now meeting in Washington. On the meeting's agenda is the discussion on the international price of gold which Canada's mines wish to have raised to somewhere near the industrial price or the price that can be obtained on the free market. John W. Snyder, head of the U. S. delegation, has said he doubted that any action would be taken. Minister of Finance Douglas Abbott, chairman of the Board, has refused to state the Canadian position on the question publicly.
