These two cases led me to prescribe Tutti-Frutti Gum chewing in a number of cases of Atonic Dyspepsia that came under my care. I have not kept notes of these cases, but in nearly all a cure was effected, and in the few that did not progress to a complete recovery the benefit from the procedure was marked.

You think of Scott's Emulsion as only for those who have consumption or who have inherited a tendency to it. Almost its greatest use is for those whose condition is so impaired as not to be able to get the good they should out of their ordinary food. In nearly every case with these, Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil brings back appetite, stimulates digestion, restores color and plumpness, and controls the diseases of thinness. A Straggler.
General Horace Porter, in The Century, tells an amusing story of the explosion of the Petersburg mine. It seems that a prisoner who had been dug out of the crater was carried to one of the field hospitals. Although his eyes were bunged and his face covered with bruises, he was in a very amiable frame of mind. "After this," he said, "I will be the most unpopular man in my regiment. You see, I appeared to get started a little earlier than the other boys that had taken passage with me aboard that volcano, and as I was comin down I met the rest of 'em a-goin up, and they looked as if they had kind 'o soured on me and yelled after me, 'Straggler!'"

"Yes, poor old Grandfather Scorch is getting very feeble. He has to carry a cane now."—New York Journal.

A Georgia Mule's Queer Appetite.
An old southwest Georgia negro called to one of the laborers in his vineyard: "You, John! Hit's time ter feed dat mule. Give him a couple er fence rails, quick."

"He doesn't eat fence rails, does he?" inquired a bystander.

"Lawd bless you, yes, suh," replied the old man. "Dat des whets his appetite. He use ter b'long ter one er dese officeeekers, en he got so hongry standin hitched in de sun dat he started on fence rails fer a livin, en now he won't tackle grass tell he's done eat up a string er fence, den he eats oats, or grass, fer dessert. W'y, suh," continued the old man, "he got loose de yuther day en took en eat up one whole gable end er Ebenezer chapel, en w'en we run up on him he wuz makin a break fer de pews en de pulpit. Dey wouldn't be much en dat meetin house left of ever he'd got ter de inside er it. Give him dem fence rails, John. He got ter do some hard plowin dis mawnin."—Atlanta Constitution.

Clever Jim.
"I guess Jim can get away for that fishing party all right."

"What makes you think so?"

"I was up to his house last night. His wife used to be an amateur elocutionist before they were married, and he asked her to recite. She'll never refuse him now."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
