Golden Days Are Treasured As Harvest End Draws Nigh

We gathered in the apples this morning from our one remaining golden russet tree in the orchard. Golden the day was, the air fresh and clean-washed from the recent showers. The valley basked in the brightness. Engagingly the cattle grazed on the slopes. Alex was with us there, obviously well pleased to be a part of a morning which allowed "all things that love the sun" to be out of doors. A kitten in color reminiscent of a young coon, attended his busy footsteps and the pup also lingered about. A raggedy high-branched tree the russet is, and it was James who must rear a long ladder against it and climb to within reach of top limbs and the choicest fruit there.

"Shake ag' in!" Alex called up with a young laugh to him after a shower of golden apples had fallen.

"And now ag' in!" he chuckled. "Mine goodness!" he observed somewhat breathlessly watching the descent repeated "isn't it funny!"

"The chipmunks must have a contented feeling when they have their stores all gathered and safe," he commented to James when a last basket had been emptied to a barrel in the cellar.

"I guess he would feel relieved, 'at any rate' he said with a grin stepping off briskly to take up other chores.

"Whittled down" toward this work's present close. A nice crop they gather, and in the harvesting since "murder will out" as Mack reported this evening with a young laugh "Granddad" can tell to a row now which of us he can praise or blame for the weeding. What difference does it make if odd plants were left too far apart at the hoeing or too close? In the one instance you get bigger turnips and in the other more, though they are smaller. And doesn't it amount to the same thing in the long run as far as the cattle are concerned? They'll eat them all anyway.

"Rain again" James says now coming in from last chores. In the piggeries these days, the little pigs play roughly as children, nurse intently, or cuddle down to rest cozily by the several dams he has just bedded and fed.

"Yes, rain again, Ellen" he sighs. "It will make the fields fairly damp for the tractors, I'm thinking—at any of the field work."

A pretty day this, mellowly golden. And fragrant with the sweet scents of season, the apples, and the damp of sod and "fall"

Lovely Evening Ceremony Joins New Glasgow Couple

The Christian Church, New Glasgow, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Aug. 27 at seven p.m., when Miss Avonna Irene MacAusland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heber MacAusland became the bride of Mr. David Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Stevenson of New Glasgow.

Rev. Brver Jones, B.A., B.D., performed the double-ring ceremony. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with large baskets of pink and white gladioli and white pom-pom dahlias arranged with asparagus fern. Flood-lights were placed to portray the bridal party during the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle Mr. Elbert Hill, looked a picture of loveliness in a waltz-length gown of white imported Italian lace over white taffeta, with large taffeta bow falling to hem-line. The full skirt and fitted bodice featured a low rounded neckline and sleeves tapering to a point over the hands.

Her fingertip veil was an illusion of net with a crown of net and seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a circlet of pearls, gift of the groom. Her bouquet was of sweetheart roses in cascade style with streamers of white satin caught with rose buds.

Miss Nellie Andrew was the charming bridesmaid in a gown of aqua chiffon over taffeta with a full skirt, waltz length. Mitts and wide brim hat were also of aqua chiffon. She carried a nosegay of white carnations.

Mr. James Stevenson acted as best man. Mr. Angus MacLara and Mr. Barry Stevenson, brother of the groom, capably ushered the guests to the pews marked with white satin bows of ribbon centered with blue bachelor buttons.

Mrs. George Dickieson played the wedding music, and Miss Doris Andrew sang "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register. The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a sheath style gown of royal blue crinkle crepe with matching hat and shoes and white gloves. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a sheath style gown also. It was of embroidered faille in beige color with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. A reception for about fifty guests was held at Shining Waters Lodge. The bride's table centered a three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The toast to the bride was proposed by her uncle, Mr. William MacAusland, and a fittingly responded to by the groom. Mr. James Stevenson read the telegrams and best wishes to the newlyweds.

Leaving the reception for an extended honeymoon trip through the Maritimes, the bride wore a tweed suit with white accessories and a corsage of red roses. Previous to her marriage she was lauded with a shower at Shining Waters Lodge and on their return a miscellaneous shower was held at their home in New Glasgow and another at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trainor, Charlottetown, where they received many beautiful and useful gifts, testifying to the popularity of the young couple.

Stevenson-Houck Ceremony Solemnized At Fort William

Miss Lorraine Houck and Mr. Errol Stevenson were united in marriage at 7 p.m. Saturday, July 18, when Rev. Stephen J. Lockman read the double ring ceremony in Knox United Church. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marie Houck, 418 Central Ave., and the late Mervin Houck. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Stevenson of New Glasgow, P. E. I.

Mrs. Norman Urquhart played the wedding music. The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. A. Legault, wore a waltz length bouffant white organza gown embellished with blue flowers over blue nylon taffeta. The empire bodice was banded in blue nylon which fell in long streamers down the back. A white organza embossed stole, lace mitts and large lace picture hat completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white pom-poms. Her only jewelry was a blue necklace and earrings, a gift of the groom. Maid of honour was Miss Lyla Steele, who chose a waltz length gown of white organza over rose daeson sprigged with roses. The bodice was banded in rose which fell in long streamers in the back. A large rose picture hat and white mitts completed her ensemble. Her bouquet was of pink carnations and white mums. Best man was Mr. Gerald Martyn of Fort William. Ushers were Mr. Mervin Houck, brother of the bride, and Mr. Dale Stevenson of Fort William, a cousin of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Houck chose a beige sheer dress with pink accessories and wore a dark rose carnation corsage. Following the ceremony, a wedding supper for 15 guests was held in the dining room of the Emperor hotel. Later, a reception for 60 guests was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Mallory, 319 Minnie Ave. For travelling, the bride chose a lovely white daeson dress accented with black coin dolls. Her corsage was of white and red carnations. Following their wedding trip, they will make their home at Fort William.

IDA BAILEY ALLEN N.Y. Day-Care Center Feeds 70 Tots Daily Twelve o'clock! Time for luncheon for 70 tots at the Bethany Lenox Hill Day-Care Centre, New York City, for children from 3 to 8 years. Parents, mostly working mothers, bring the children to the Center at 9 a.m. and call for them between 5 and 6 in the afternoon. The cost is from $2 a week up; the income of the working mother determines the price. The program is largely subsidized by the Department of Welfare of the city of New York. Throughout the day, the children follow a light-hearted, gently-disciplined program of creative play games, singing, exercise and fun outdoors in the playgrounds supervised by trained kindergarten, and pleasantly punctuated by fruit juice (with hidden cod liver oil) and crackers at 10 a.m., milk and cookies at 3 p.m. and fruit at 5.

The food is professionally prepared in a central kitchen and transported on rolling wagons to the four Day - Care rooms. The children set the luncheon tables and eat in suitable age groups of 5 to 6, a teacher at each table. The foods are passed. Each child helps himself under supervision. Luncheon over, the youngsters scrape and stack their dishes on trays ready to pack on the rolling wagon for return to the kitchen. Good table manners and neat eating are emphasized. It's surprising how daintily even youngsters under five manager their food. These children receive training in cooperation, self-reliance and courtesy. The country over, the same principles can be applied by mothers in the home training of children, as a bulwark against child delinquency later on and a basis for good citizenship.
