Two Nova Scotians Doing Fine After Heart Operations

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two Nova Scotians—a young housewife and a teen-age boy—were reported Wednesday to be "coming along fine" in their recovery from delicate heart operations performed recently.

Both patients, 23-year-old Mrs. Bessie Legge and Michael Chiasson, 15, were flown to Philadelphia and its famed Bailey Clinic of Hahnemann Hospital late last month.

Although they live only seven miles apart in Nova Scotia Mrs. Legge in Sydney and the boy in New Waterford—they had never met until friends and neighbors, chipping in to separate good-will funds, sent them here. Michael was accompanied by his mother. Mrs. Legge came on her own, but has since been joined by her husband, an unemployed steelworker.

MAY RETURN SOON

Dr. Charles P. Bailey, head of the clinic, operated on Mrs. Legge June 28. Michael underwent surgery July 5.

Mrs. Legge, released from the hospital several day ago, is due back soon for a final checkup with Dr. Bailey, a Hahnemann spokesman said. And she may then be told that she can go home.

Michael is still in the hospital, and it has not yet been determined when he'll leave. It has been suggested that the two patients might return to Nova Scotia together, but no definite plans to that end have been made.

Meanwhile, Michael a sports fan, especially keen on baseball, is receiving a raft of get-well messages from others who share his enthusiasms. Members of the Philadelphia Phillies National League club have written to him, and want to entertain him at Connie Mack Stadium before he returns home. He'll be sent autographed baseballs, among other things, for his collection of sports treasures.

son coming to his home and stating that Mrs. O'Connor had told him that O'Connor had killed William MacKenzie. He related that O'Connor had called at his home about seven o'clock that same evening and had stayed only about ten minutes during which time very little conversation had passed between them. He said that both O'Connor and his wife lived at the residence of William MacKenzie.

Harry Stewart said that he was employed by County Construction Ltd. and on the 18th day of June was working with Elmer O'Connor on a job at Kinkora. They left the job at noon along with Alfred Moore and before coming to Charlottetown, called at the liquor store at Borden where a purchase of liquor was made. He thought that O'Connor had purchased two pints. They drove to Charlottetown where they got a taxi to Stewart's home in Whim Road.

O'Connor and Moore hired the taxi to take them to Cardigan where more liquor was purchased. They came back but left Mr. Stewart's residence about 5:30 p. m. Mr. Moore's evidence was similar to that given by Stewart.

Joseph Vuzzo a welder from Montague said he was approached Saturday evening about six o'clock by Elmer O'Connor who asked him to drive him to Glen Martin. At first Vuzzo refused, telling him that he did not have the time. O'Connor then told Vuzzo that he had been drinking and was afraid that the police would pick him up. He also offered to pay Vuzzo for the trip.

Vuzzo said he then took O'Connor to Alfred Moore's residence. The Moores' said they didn't want to have O'Connor at their home and asked Vuzzo if he thought that Elmer was fit to drive his truck which was in the yard. Vuzzo expressed the opinion that he was not fit to drive, but when the Moores' said they wanted O'Connor to go home Vuzzo gave the truck a push with his own truck but it would not start. Vuzzo left O'Connor on the road with the truck still unstarted.

MRS. O'CONNOR'S EVIDENCE

Mrs. Elmer O'Connor, still showing the effects of a blow which she said had been delivered by her husband to the side of her face, told of her husband's home-coming about 7:15 on the evening of June 18. She said that he had been working at Kinkora all week.

He immediately began to abuse her verbally about going with other men and she started to make her way out of the house hoping, she said, that he would forget about it after a while. She said that she knew he was drinking and this was a common occurence when he was under the influence of liquor.

O'Connor grabbed his wife in the porch before she got out the door and gave her the blow which she indicated by rubbing the side of her face. Her uncle, William MacKenzie, w hearing the altercation, ca to the assistance of his niece, only to be thrown out the door after which O'Connor began beating the elder man with his fists. Mrs. O'Connor said that in an effort to make her husband let go of her uncle she struck her mate on the back of the head with an axe. O'Connor without stopping the fight turned to her to say "Put that axe down or I'll split you open."

William MacKenzie was able to extricate himself from O'Connor and ran to the wood pile where he seized a stake about four feet long and about 2 1-2 inches in diameter. He made for O'Connor with it but O'Connor took it from him. Mrs. O'Connor then started for Mr. Neil MacPherson's home and as she went she could see her husband beating her uncle with the stake. When questioned as to how Elmer and her uncle got along, Mrs. O'Connor stated that they got along O.K. but the uncle did not like to see her husband beating her.

Three police officers gave evidence. They were Const. Roland Pettit who described the condition of the MacKenzie home and the taking of the injured man to hospital; Const. Gordon Humphrey who showed pictures regarding the findings at the MacKenzie home and a series of technical photos indicating the injury to the deceased's skull and Const. William Wilson who told of stopping Elmer O'Connor on the highway after he had found him to be driving at an excessive speed. Const. Wilson said that he found O'Connor's hands were covered with blood and that a good deal of blood was flowing down the back of his suit from a cut on the back of his head. O'Connor told the policeman that he was rushing to get to the hospital. After issuing him with a warrant to appear on a charge of driving with faulty brakes, he allowed him to go on.

Coroner L. E. Prowse who presided at the inquest told the jury that there should be little doubt in their minds as to how the deceased came to his death. He said that the skull fractures and their resultant injury to the brain were certainly the cause. Mr. John P. Nicholson appeared for the Crown.

The members of the jury were as follows: Howard Hobbs (foreman), Gordon MacDonald, Elmer MacDonald, Walter Bears, John Squarebriggs, Tom Davies, Roy Skillicorn.

Place Order For Guided Missile

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Campney disclosed Wednesday night that his department has placed an order for a prototype of a guided missile, presumably the type fired from planes.

He made the disclosure in reply to a question by G. H. Castleden (CCF — Yorkton) during Commons discussion of RCAF estimates.

The minister added the development work on the supersonic CF-105 at the A. V. Roe Co. plant at Malton, Ont., still is in the research stage.

Mr. Campney gave no details of what he described as a "pre-production order for one missile." However, it is believed the order calls for a prototype of an air-to-air guided missile.

P.E.I. Conference W. I. Resolutions

A motion favouring Standard Time for both urban and rural areas was among a number of important resolutions passed at the Prince Edward Island Institutes convention in session last week. It was pointed out that daylight saving time interferes with farm work and tended toward confusion when urban time is one hour ahead of rural time.

A move to adopt an assistance program for one of the underprivileged countries of the world met with unanimous approval. It was brought to the attention of the delegates that three quarters of the world's population is hungry and destitute and that such a project is being carried on by the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada to help the people of Ceylon.

That there is an "unfortunate association" with the name Falconwood and patients who have been discharged from this institution, was the reason given for the introduction of a resolution asking that consideration be given to the changing of the name Falconwood on completion of the new buildings.

Arthritis and Rheumatism

That arthritis and rheumatism totally or partially disables many citizens and that much can be done to alleviate the sufferings and restore by early diagnosis and prompt treatment four out of five of such disabled people was shown in the preamble of a resolution calling for the appointment of a committee from the Island Institutes which would work in co-operation with service clubs, hospital authorities, medical and nursing professions and members of the Prince Edward Island Government for the purpose of establishing a provincial branch of the Arthritic and Rheumatism Society of Canada.

Celebral Palsied Children

The convention went on record regarding support of the Cerebral Palsied Association. It was noted that a new centre had been established at 62 Hillsboro Street where emphasis is being placed on children of a pre-school age in connection with speech therapy. The need for physical and occupational therapists was stressed so that this centre would be able to extend its program by additions to the staff was stressed in another resolution receiving the full support of all delegates.

The need for larger facilities for the housing of the handicraft exhibit was pointed out and the fact that questionable side shows were being held on the Exhibition grounds were two matters which the W. I. executive will bring to the attention of the Exhibition management.

Financial Responsibility

The fact that many accidents which occur in the province involve financial responsibility, and the fact that the numbers of such accidents seem to be on the increase were the reasons advanced for requesting the Provincial Government to enforce and enact legislation providing for a financial responsibility law to protect the public against such operators of motor vehicles.

Words of alarm were expressed at the prevalence and abuse of intoxicating liquor among the youth of the province and a plea to all parents to set an example of Christian sobriety preceded a request to the Provincial Government for a stricter enforcement of the law in this regard.

The standardization of text books was the subject of a resolution which pointed out that children leaving the provinee often experience difficulty in adjusting themselves to the studies of another province.

New Wrinkle In Preventing Highway Deaths

TORONTO (CP)—A new wrinkle in highway-fatality prevention was unrolled Wednesday—a carpet of shrubs.

The American Association of nurserymen said enough shrubs, ribboned along the continent's highways, could cushion ditches so even Cadillacs could topple in unharmed.

"There's nothing like alive bush for a soft landing," said Valleau C. Curtis, chairman of the association's highway planting committee, at its convention Wednesday.

Mr Curtis says a thick belt of shrubs along highways and between highway lanes could save also lives by cutting dow headlight glare; shielding dangerous winds and gusts from light autos; preventing washouts and snow drifts, and brightening the monotony of the super-highway.

Tests have proved the claims indisputable, Mr. Curtis says. During experiments in New Hampshire, cars travelling at 55 miles an hour were deliberately crashed into bushes. He said they were undented.

Admits Raping Two-year-old

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Acting detective Capt. John Showers said late Wednesday Audrey Brandt, 42-year-old Laporte, Iowa, farmhand had admitted raping and beating two-year-old Donna Sue Davis of Sioux City, Iowa. The girl's body was found near there Monday.

Showers said Brandt had made an oral statement admitting he abducted the girl from her crib Sunday night, but said the man claimed he did not kill her.

Brandt was arrested here Tuesday night after a truck driver told police a hitchhiker fitted the description of a man wanted in the case.

The blue-eyed child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Davis of Sioux city, was found in a farm field near South Souix City, Neb., just across the Missouri river from Sioux city.

She had been beaten savagely about the head.

To Survey Wage Situation At N.B. Defence Project

OTTAWA, (CP)—An industrial relations officer of the labor department will make a new wage survey in the Renous, N. B., area, Defence Minister Campney informed the Commons Wednesday.

Defence workers at Renous have protested to the defence department that their wages and working conditions are below the standards set by private employers in the region.

Mr. Campney told G. Roy McWilliam (L-Northumberland - Miramichi) that it is government policy to pay its workers rates prevailing in the area where they are employed.

The industrial relations officer from Fredericton would make a new survey which would take into account new industries and changing conditions in the Renous area.

Mr. Campney said every effort is being made to establish working conditions in line with practices followed by private industry in the area.
