

THE DAILY EXAMINER. JULY 12, 1884.

The Democratic Candidate.

GOVERNOR CLEVELAND has at last been selected as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency of the United States. He has a good reputation. He was elected Mayor of Buffalo a few years ago, for the special purpose of putting down corruption. So well did he do this duty that he earned the respect and esteem of good men, and was afterwards elected by a splendid majority to be Chief Magistrate of the State. His administration is ranked among the best that New York has ever had; and he will, no doubt, make a better run for the White House than any other man who could have been selected from the Democratic Party. It is, of course, possible that John Kelly, of Tammany Hall, and his followers will bolt; but the Republic, in which the good outnumber the bad, is a big country, and the loss of the support of such men as the Bosses, will in all probability be more than made up by the accession of men of a better class. The value of a stainless character is great; and the people of the United States, having found out to their cost the danger involved in the election of unprincipled men, will probably rally to the support of Cleveland. Cleveland and Hendricks make a very strong ticket, and the contest will be most interesting and exciting.

A Few Points.

- 1. The holding of Conventions is the rule throughout America.
2. The Hon. J. C. Pope introduced into this Island this mode of selecting candidates, and was himself selected by Conventions, though he was Leader of the Party, though he had but a year or two previously been a successful, and not an unsuccessful, candidate.
3. The holding of Conventions gives a good start to canvass; for the necessity of selecting and sending delegates brings the business in a practical shape before the people of all sections of a constituency at the same time.
4. The holding of Conventions fortifies and strengthens the candidate who is selected; for if the Convention be properly appointed and conducted the nominee of the Convention is the nominee of the party by its supporters in all parts of the constituency.
5. The holding of Conventions, has not, hitherto, been the cause of any disagreement; on the contrary, it has invariably promoted harmony and intelligent and united action throughout the ensuing campaign.
6. If Dr. Jenkins has claims on the Party superior to those of the Hon. T. H. Haviland, the Hon. Donald Ferguson, and other gentlemen whose names have been mentioned in connection with the candidature, those claims will surely not be prejudiced by being considered, in a reasonable way, by a Convention of friends and partisans.
7. Looking to its future well being, the Party will not do that which is wise, if they allow the Conventional mode of selecting candidates to be overlooked in this instance; for it may happen, perhaps, on the eve of an important election, that some unmanageable man, who may think he has a "call" to be a candidate, and who cares but to gain his own ends, will cite this precedent and come out in spite of everything, to our confusion and discomfiture.
We offer these few reasons for holding a Convention, to the careful consideration of our correspondent "A Liberal-Conservative," as well as to the consideration of all others who may hold the same views. Other reasons might, of course, be offered.

To show how far the tyranny of exclusiveness is carried in the Mother Country, Mr. Sanford Fleming, in his new book, relates an amusing incident. In one of his excursions from London he was travelling in the same compartment with a lady and gentleman. A spark got into the lady's eye; the gentleman did not know what to do, and the lady suffered much pain. Mr. Fleming, addressing the gentleman, said that if the eye was kept moist the pain would be lessened. The party addressed barely replied. The lady continued in pain. The train stopped for three minutes at Swindon. Mr. Fleming took his flask, made a rush to the refreshment room, carefully washed the cup, filled it with water, and took it to the gentleman and suggested that a handkerchief moistened with cold water should be applied to the eye. His offer was curtly declined. It would be interesting to learn the name and rank of this blooming British cad who thus repulsed one of the most eminent men in America.

We are pleased to observe that two of our young Islanders have distinguished themselves this year by carrying off Academic honors at Laval University, Quebec. Mr. Alfred E. Bourke, son of Capt. James Bourke, of Georgetown, and Mr. A. McDonald, son of Angus McDonald, Esq., (Garahelm), Pisiquid. These two young gentlemen have just carried off the degree of Bachelor in Theology and Canon Law. Out of a large class but a very small number merited these honors. We congratulate our young friends on their success.

Sir Leonard Tilley, we hear, is about to pay a short visit to Scotland, after which he may possibly proceed to the Continent, though we believe his movements are not yet definitely decided upon.

CURRENT NOTES.

A heavy crop of clover kills off the meadow daisies.

The Holstein cow is every year becoming more popular.

The army-worm has appeared in large numbers in several parts of Connecticut.

The Massachusetts legislature has appropriated $36,000 for its agricultural college.

Twenty-five per cent. less area of potatoes has been planted in Maine this year than last.

Potatoes are selling as low as ten cents per bushel in some of the rural districts of Pennsylvania.

It is expected that the flocks of Colorado will number 3,000,000 head after the lambing season shall have passed.

The United States raises forty-eight bushels of grain per head of its population, and consumes forty-one bushels per head.

France demands of China 250,000,000 francs as an indemnity for the Lang-Son affair. Admiral Courbet is instructed to seize Fouchon Arsenal as a guarantee for the payment of the indemnity.

The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: Welcome and timely rains have ended the drought. The condition of all spring-sown grain has materially improved.

The distress among English agricultural laborers still continuing, Mr. Leopold de Rothschild repeats his generosity of last year, and again remits fifteen per cent. of rents to his Buckinghamshire tenants.

One French wife and several wives in Constantinople are still contesting the will of the Tunisian General, Mahmoud-ben-Ayad, who died four years ago, leaving 300,000,000 francs, showing that Mahmoud had ben-Ayad of a good many people a considerable way.

The London Times ostentatiously announces that the Queen's gracious gift of her little book to the English hospitals is invariably accompanied by "the Royal autograph on the fly-leaf." This warrants the presents to hospitals—there is no place where fly-paper is more useful.

A correspondent who witnessed Ben Butler's triumphant entry into Chicago thus describes the venerable political battering-ram: "He presented a striking likeness to Henry Ward Beecher, especially about the mouth and chin and in the complexion, and with his breath made short by being pushed and hustled and a kind of engaging look about the face, he looked like the well-fed Beecher of to-day. He wore a straw hat with a black band and his old black swallow-tail suit.

Graziers in the State of Texas are seriously alarmed at the fecundity of the prairie dog. These pests thickly inhabit a tract of country 2,000 miles long by 250 miles wide. They eat the grass in summer and the grass roots in winter, so that it is said that a region which a few years ago was the finest grazing ground in America is rapidly becoming a verdureless desert. The Albany, Texas, News says that could they be destroyed instantly, as by a stroke of lightning, the price of land in all the regions described would rise 100 per cent. as soon as the fact was known.

The original estimated cost of the Panama Canal, which De Lesseps expects to finish in 1884, was six hundred million francs. Nearly half the allotted time of seven years has now expired, and not far short of $60,000,000 has been expended. The disposal of the 60,000,000 cubic metres of earth from the hilly sections is proving a difficult problem. Only one-thirtieth of the necessary work has yet been accomplished. Forty-one hospitals have been erected at a cost of over $3,000,000 to accommodate about 400 patients. The most serious obstacle to the completion of the canal is the Chagres River, which is small and sluggish during the dry season, but becomes an almost irresistible torrent at the wet season.

The Montreal Gazette says: The remarks made by Mr. Hugh McLennan at the meeting of the Board of Trade, on the effect of the reductions recently made by the different interests, commencing with the government, connected with the inland transport trade, will be read with pleasure by those concerned in the transportation business of the Dominion. It is the opinion of that gentleman, than whom there are very few more qualified to speak with authority, that very great advantage has resulted from these reductions. The export trade of the port will probably not compare quite favourably with former years, but it will compare favourably with that of other Atlantic ports. Mr. McLennan also regards the outlook for an improvement in the lake navigation business as exceedingly cheering, and attaches great importance to the development of the Northwest and the establishment of the route via Port Arthur.

A series of experiments with dynamite charges against iron targets made at the naval battery at Annapolis, Md., show that nothing can be accomplished with this explosive until a better method of utilizing its force in naval warfare has been discovered. The charges were detonated in actual contact with the face of the plates. Charges of five pounds and ten pounds produced no effects. A twenty pound charge produced an indentation about six inches in diameter and one-tenth of an inch deep. After a thirty pound charge the indentation was three quarters of an inch deep over an area two feet in diameter, and two bolts were broken and the outer plate somewhat bent. After a forty pound charge another bolt was broken and the indent deepened to one and a half inches; the outer plate sprung out two inches at the edges, the backing being uninjured. After a fifty pound charge two more bolts were broken, the indent was three inches deep and two and a half feet in diameter. All the plates were sprung at the edges. One of the timbers of the backing was somewhat splintered. After a seventy-five pound charge the indent was seven and a half inches deep and three feet in diameter; the outer plate was cracked in the vicinity of the indent; all the bolts were badly strained, but were still unbroken. The structure, after 265 pounds of dynamite had been exploded against it in charge as enumerated, was practically uninjured. A modern six-inch breach-loading rifle would have pierced this target through and through at 1,000 yards.

CURRENT NOTES.

Alpin Grant, of Halifax, was in Picton, over Sunday. Mr. Grant commenced life as a printer in the Picton Observer office fifty-three years ago, and is now the oldest Picton printer living, with the exception of Mr. Lawson, of the Yarmouth Herald, father of Mrs. C. B. Robinson, of Picton.—Picton Standard.

A strange thing has happened. The Toronto Globe's Ottawa correspondent says that Major Tilton, the new Deputy Minister of Fisheries, is a competent man, and that the appointment is a good one. A physician was sent to diagnose the correspondent, but he could give no satisfactory explanation of the phenomenon.—Hx. Herald.

It is said that two discoveries of large bodies of anthracite coal have been made in northern Mexico. The accounts of these coal beds which have reached San Francisco are extraordinary, and if the experts who are going to examine them should find them as stated the results on manufacturing in San Francisco and vicinity will be very important. It is said that the cost of mining and transporting, with a fair profit, will not exceed $6 per ton.

The question of women voting in church meetings, which aroused such an interesting discussion at the last meeting of the Anglican Synod of Toronto, has been discussed also by the Synod of Fredericton. The question in the past seems to have been with respect to all churches, while that here related to free churches only. The Fredericton Synod voted the proposition down by a vote of nine clergymen and five laymen against thirty-two clergymen and twenty-two laymen.

The New York "Herald" complains that a large part of the American navy was left out over night and was run down and damaged by a British merchant vessel. The complaint is timely. We have thought for some time that the Americans were most recklessly exposing their navy to many unnecessary dangers. They should be very careful not to let it go near the water except in charge of a good reliable boy. It is not in robust health, and might venture too far out and get lost.

General George B. McClellan, Brayton Ives, John C. Barron, Oliver Sumner Teall, E. Harrison Sanford, A. A. Sumner, Thomas Lyons, John J. McCook, George B. Post and others have united in a company to operate probably the largest cattle ranch in the world. It is in Grant County, N. M., and is about forty miles from east to west and sixty from north to south, comprising about 1,500,000 acres of grazing land. There are now some 16,000 head of cattle on the ranch and it is intended to increase the herds to 80,000 cattle.

The newest craze is finger-nail cameo. There is an engraver in Philadelphia who is doing a rushing business cutting miniature portraits on finger-nails. He has recently invented an etching process, by which he can produce an excellent likeness of a person on a nail in less than half an hour. His patrons are mostly young men, who want portraits of their sweethearts. Some of them pay as high as $50 for the job, but a majority are satisfied with cheaper work. The picture will last about four months, that being the average life of a nail.

A pleasant little story is related by a correspondent of an English agricultural journal. A few evenings back a constable at East Renford observed seven wornout horses proceeding to the station from the direction of Doncaster. A cart accompanied them, in which were the carcasses of three dead horses. It was mentioned by a man who was with them that the whole lot was consigned to Hartford, where they were to be converted into meat pies for the London market. One of the animals could only breathe through a tube fixed in his throat.

It is strange what little circumstances often change the course of a man's life and lead to fortune. A gentleman who has known Commodore Garrison for years says when his fine Mississippi river steamer, the Convoy, burned at Memphis with 1,200 tons of cotton and produce on board, the Commodore had set his heart on another famous steamer, and being unable to buy a small share in her held by the barkeeper, after he had secured the refusal of all the others, he left in disgust and went to the Pacific, laying the basis of his fortune at Panama before going to San Francisco.

The richest little girl in the world is the seven-year-old daughter of Captain George H. Perkins, of the navy. She is worth $7,000,000 in her own name, the amount having been left her by her grand-father, William G. Weld, of Boston. Mr. Weld was the father of the little girl's mother, and when he died four heirs, including the child, came into possession of the bulk of the fortune, $28,000,000, which was divided into four portions. The sum of $20,000,000 and a valuable residence in Boston was bequeathed to Mrs. Perkins, and $20,000,000 annually to be used in caring for the little millionaire heiress until she reaches the legal age.

The last Canadian census shows 1,300,000 French-Canadians, and only 881,000 of English origin, giving us a majority of about 400,000. The French Canadian population increases much more rapidly than that of any other origin. We must also count the Scotch, who number themselves among the English. There are 700,000. The united population of the two races give them only a majority of about 200,000 over us, and if we calculate the rapid increase of our population at the same rate as in the past, we have reason to believe that in twenty years we shall have outstripped both English and Scotch, and probably have double the number of the former.—Le Monde.

Sixteen acres of land have been purchased at Valley Stream, Queen's County, N. Y., for $6000, for the Department of the Brooklyn City Water Works, and fifty-two acres at Conseyea's Pond at a cost of $20,000, and the work of securing the additional supply 10,000,000 gallons of water daily for Brooklyn will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. The water will be drawn up from wells, and the contractors are to be paid at the rate of $36,000 for every million gallons furnished. This is a part of the work provided for by the resolution of the Common Council of June 2, which authorized the sum of $440,000 of water bonds to cover the $360,000 to be paid to the contractors, and $80,000 for the cost of land, water rights, connections and houses.
