Road Safety

MILES in the U.S. has dropped from 9.8 in 1946, when the president's first highway safety conference was held, to 6.5 in 1954. HIGHER THAN U.S. RATE - In Canada the death rate per 100,000 miles was 10.8 in 1953, 4 per cent higher than the U.S. rate for the same year.

Recommendations on how to tackle the problem came thick and fast. The All Canada Insurance Federation, representing 246 companies transacting all classes of insurance other than life, offered four suggestions:

- 1. Driving should be a required part of the high school curriculum;
2. An adequate and uniform initial examination for drivers' licenses;
3. Drivers' records should be scanned constantly to segregate the accident-prone and those who fail to obey highway laws;
4. More highway patrols with instructions to enforce the law vigorously.

LACK OF UNIFORMITY - The conference's enforcement committee said there is ambiguity and lack of uniformity in traffic laws and their enforcement, resulting in resentment and confusion on the part of drivers. Attorney-General Robert Bonner of British Columbia, committee chairman, said the group might draft model highway legislation which could be shown the provinces as an example of good traffic regulations or draw up a highway safety code.

The committee's recommendations, along with those of the other committees, will be presented to the conference Thursday.

Returns From Extended Trip

Returning last week from a visit which took him to Los Angeles, Mr. Charles H. Black, who left here on March 2 completed the entire trip by air, with stop-overs visiting relatives at various points along the way. Actual flying time was 18 hours each way. Mr. Black first stopped off at Ottawa where he visited his sons Fred and Harold, and his daughter (Dorothy), Mrs. John Silvester. Here he was the guest of Neil A. Matheson, M.P. at the unveiling of a bust memorial to Miss Agnes MacBlack, the first woman to hold a seat in the Dominion parliament.

At Toronto Mr. Black visited his brother Dr. W. A. Black and was present when 28 students in Theology at Emmanuel College (United Church of Canada) graduated and renewed his acquaintance with Hon. L. B. Pearson, Chancellor of the College, whom he had met previously in Ottawa. Among the members of this graduating class in Theology was Bryer Robert Jones, B.A., of Southampton, which Mr. Black then flew to Chicago, where he visited his daughter Mrs. Dr. Hillis O. Folkins (Margaret) and her family. While here he called at headquarters of Rotary International situated at Evanston, Ill. He is a guest of the Kiwanis Club in Chicago on two occasions. At Los Angeles he was the guest of his brother Dr. Harold Garnet Black, who visited the Island in 1941 following the conferring of the degree LL.D. on him at Mount Allison University.

Although Mr. Black visited a great many places of interest in California, including churches and radio studios where he was permitted to go behind the scenes and watch productions, his most impressive experience was a visit to the Majestic Hall of the Crucifixion on the crest of Mount Forest Lawn where there is enshrined America's largest religious painting, "The Crucifixion," by the famous Polish artist Jan Styka. This unforgettable work of art is 195 long and 45 ft. wide, and is permanently hung in the hall, which was built for the purpose.

While returning home the plane in which Mr. Black was travelling ran into a dust storm over Arizona with the wind velocity registering 150 miles per hour. The plane was forced to an altitude of 12,300 feet to get above the storm but no discomfort was in evidence owing to provision being made to overcome the natural drawbacks to regular breathing.

Mr. MacLennan attended Prince of Wales College, Mount Allison University and finally Pine Hill. For the past two years he has been a student minister at Rockingham, N.S. He will be licensed at Trinity Church on Tuesday evening and will be ordained as a minister of the United Church of Canada at the Maritime Conference at Sackville, N.B., on June 12. Mr. MacLennan is married to the former Margaret MacLennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. MacLennan, Weymouth Street, City. They have two young children.

against the female sex, for the character of the nurses before Florence Nightingale left much to be desired in the way of morals and general conduct. "They could hardly be trusted to carry out the simplest medical duties," he said. "Doctors laughed at Miss Nightingale and called her a 'bird'; civil servants in the War Office surrounded her with red tape and most people thought her a bit queer because she attacked the primitive methods of caring for the sick which then prevailed. She might well deserve the title 'the lady with the blow torch' for her dogged persistence and effort in cutting through the prejudices and the red tape of the experts and authorities of the day."

Continuing Dr. MacKinnon said that it was in 1884 that the present Prince Edward Island Hospital School for Nurses was opened. "The beginning was not easy and it took several meetings of interested citizens, much canvassing for fees, and hard work on the part of the officials and staff to complete the various additions which were necessary in the following decade. Like other institutions, this hospital and training school were built on faith, hope, charity and hard work and it is the results of these that make it possible today and provide you with the traditions for your service."

Dr. MacKinnon pointed out that many changes have taken place for the benefit of the nursing profession. "You don't have to spend the most of your day over the wash tub," he continued, "but the need for the same qualities which started the profession is still as strong as ever." "Nurses should not be mere technicians concerned with temperatures, blood counts and the like or perambulating waitresses with thermometers and drinking glasses. Something humane and spiritual must be added to technical competence so that you will always maintain the sense of dedication and service that makes a job a calling and that your patients will in their trouble, look upon you as ministering to them, rather than merely treating them."

In conclusion Dr. MacKinnon said: "The doctors and your patients will expect you to keep up your technical competence. Your training is not over; it must be continued through experience and further study. But you should also maintain an interest in general knowledge so that you will not become technical, narrow, or specialized in your outlook. In medicine as in everything else the best specialist is the one with a good general knowledge to balance his special interest. Never forget that while you are a nurse you are always a woman, and when you deal with cases you deal with humanity. Unfortunately these days too many professions forget too easily the human factor in their work."

He will be licensed at Trinity Church on Tuesday evening and will be ordained as a minister of the United Church of Canada at the Maritime Conference at Sackville, N.B., on June 12.

Square Dance Institute Proves Big Success

Prince Edward Island's first dance institute was held over the weekend, sponsored by the Square Dance Club which directed by Frank L. Kaitman of Newark, New Jersey. About three hundred and fifty persons including Physical Education Directors, teachers, students, instructors and dancers took advantage of the expert tutoring of Frank Kaitman whose wide range of knowledge of the history, origins and music of the various dance patterns thrilled his audience at all the sessions. His expert instruction and his pleasant and danceable calling lived up to the high expectations and the great reputation which he brought to Prince Edward Island. Included in the instruction was a great variety of folk dances, round and couple dances, squares, longways, and old English style quadrille dancing. Don Messer's square dance quartet played for the institute on Friday night and on Saturday night the audience was captivated by the first appearance of a junior band composed of Gary Chipman fiddle, Alan Connolly piano and Colin McMillan guitar. Mr. Kaitman's calling was heard from the crowd and his own comment was "I have called to music played by people who have been playing since before these boys were born, and I find their tempo and clarity compares favorably with most senior bands."

Arrangements for the Institute were under the direction of the Swingers' Square Dance Club; Urban McQuaid, president, J. F. Moore, vice-president, Charles McQuaid secretary.

Entertainment: Mr. and Mrs. Ned Dooley, Mr. and Mrs. John Connolly, Mr. and Mrs. Brighton McDougall, Program Committee; Dr. and Mrs. J. A. MacMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Berrigan and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hayley. Associate instructors were Ivan Berrigan, George Andrew and Dr. J. A. MacMillan.

Mr. McQuaid has announced that the Swingers' Square Dance Club is very grateful to the Department of Physical Fitness and the Centennial committee for their cooperation in holding this Institute. At the same time he announced that the Swingers' Club had made arrangements to have Mr. Kaitman return during the latter part of May, 1956 for a larger Institute. Tentative arrangements have been made to have Miss Olga Kubitzky of Hunter College, New York, return with Mr. Kaitman with her wide knowledge of teaching and planning recreational dance programs.

To Lift Duty On Polish Imports

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has agreed to lift a special 50-per-cent dumping duty on imports from Communist Poland, it was learned Tuesday. The decision was reached after the Communist regime agreed to allow a Canadian customs evaluator into Warsaw to appraise market values of Polish exports. Poland complained that the dumping levy has hindered sales of her goods in this country. But Canadian officials pointed out that they had no choice, since for years no Canadian customs man has been allowed into Poland and what would be a fair market Canada had no way of knowing value on Polish exports for duty purposes. Officials of both countries held talks here recently and struck a bargain: Canada will remove the dumping duty and Poland will allow a customs man into Warsaw.
