

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JANUARY 15, 1891.

One of the Missionaries.

MR. CHOQUETTE, M. P. for Montmagny, was one of the gentlemen who accompanied the Leader of the Opposition on his tour through the Maritime Provinces.

Now, here is a short extract from the Montreal Witness:

"Mr. Choquette, M. P. for Montmagny, was the other day reported as having said: 'Next year we will go straight for Annexation.' This morning he called at the Witness office and made an explanation."

Men are known by their companions. "Birds of a feather flock together." We may now know why Mr. Choquette, M. P., is one of the standard bearers for Mr. Laurier, and why he follows so closely the movements of his leader, and why he is so active in the propagation of the gospel of Unrestricted Reciprocity.

They introduced him to their friends here, helped him to quietly and effectively propagate his views: and then, they posed before the public as patriots and loyalists par excellence!

Notes and Comments.

The American Banker states that the "business men and bankers all over the country have now about finished the annual overhauling of their accounts."

At a meeting of the Board of Trade held last evening, a resolution was passed to the effect that telegrams be sent urging the Government to keep the Stanley on the route for freight and passengers as long as possible and to instruct Captain Finlayson not to lay the ship up even though she may be compelled to stop running for a few days.

The Presbyterian Witness, of Halifax, remarks: We sympathize with our P. E. Island friends in the extreme difficulty of making connection with the mainland.

The Minister of Finance said in the course of a recent interview with the correspondent of the Empire—referring to certain false statements made by the Globe: "As to what was swallowed up in the year's operations, a perusal of the public accounts, soon to be published, will show that the ordinary expenditures of the year were met out of revenue, and a surplus of over $3,000,000 was left, and that this surplus, added to the surplus of the late loan and the temporary loan made in London last year, has sufficed to redeem about $4,500,000 of matured debt and to meet the capital expenditure on public works, leaving the net debt at the end of the year practically the same as it was on June 30th, 1889."

The following is the statement of revenue and expenditure on account of the consolidated fund for the six months up to December 31:

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Includes Revenue for December, Customs, Excise, Post Office, Public Works, etc.

office and miscellaneous, and a decrease in excise and public works, the net decrease being $73,000. The net debt on December 31 was $234,131,520, a decrease of $355,376 in the month. Twelve months ago the debt was $234,528,123. The capital expenditure for the six months was $2,408,273, as against $3,107,087 twelve months ago.

Commenting upon the life and character of Abraham Lincoln, in the "Editor's Study" in Harper's Magazine for February, William Dean Howells says: "If America means anything at all, it means the sufficiency of the common, the insufficiency of the uncommon. It is the affirmation in political terms of the Christian ideal, which when we shall affirm it in economical and social terms will make us the perfect state; and Lincoln was the earliest, it is not yet the only American, to realize in his office the divine purport of the mandate, 'Is any first among you? Let him be your servant?'"

The Educational Monthly says: It may be truthfully said that the habits of Canadians of the next generation with regard to the use of intoxicating drinks are being in a large degree determined in the homes and the schools of the country to-day. Happily a goodly number of the children in the schools are being properly instructed through the use of the Temperance Textbook in the schools. These are being led to see what folly it is, even from the purely physiological point of view, for one to put an enemy into his own mouth to steal away his brains.

- C. R.—John H. McLean. F. C. R.—Rev. W. H. Spencer. R. S.—N. J. Macdonald. F. S.—J. M. Martin, M. D. Chap.—J. M. Aitken. Physician—Dr. J. M. Martin. Treasurer—D. A. Martin. S. W.—C. D. Poole. J. W.—W. W. Macdonald. S. B.—L. McLean. J. B.—J. T. Robison. C. D. H. C. R.—J. T. Robison. Jan. 14, 1891.

HURT BY A HORSE.—A young man named Frank Creehan, in the employ of the Water Commissioners, is now in the Charlottetown Hospital undergoing treatment for injuries received in the City stables last evening. It appears that while Creehan was removing the harness from the Waterworks horse he slipped upon the icy floor of the stable and fell almost under the animal's feet. The stable being dark at the time, Creehan not having lighted the gas, the horse became alarmed, and struck at the fallen man, injuring him severely about the head and face. Creehan's moans attracted the attention of a man in an adjoining stable, who gave the alarm. Some men in the engine room ran out to see what was the matter and, after lighting the gas, saw poor Creehan lying insensible in a pool of blood almost under the horse's feet. They at once carried him into the engine room and sent for Drs. Kelly and McLeod, who did all in their power for him there, after which he was removed to the Hospital. To-day we are glad to hear Creehan is much improved.

THE TROUBLESOME HANGNAIL.—The small and almost imperceptible hangnail often involves the owner of the hand which bears it in an endless amount of annoyance and vexation. It is the general rule, manœuvre to the contrary notwithstanding, that the nails that are the least attended to are better than those that are continually doctored. The man who cuts a hangnail in nine cases out of ten lays the way for a much more vigorous successor. Satisfactory results are almost always obtained by adopting the habit of pushing the skin back from the nail after washing the hands. The dry end of the towel should be taken, and the skin pressed back wherever it overruns the nail. This breaks its adhesiveness to the nail and makes hangnails impossible. Where the skin is allowed to grow fast to the nail trouble invariably results, because the nail in growing out pulls the skin with it, and when it breaks from the tension the hangnail is formed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Correction. SIR,—My report published in yesterday's EXAMINER of the meeting held in Ward Five should read: "The motion for the nomination of Mr. Philip Large was carried," instead of was lost. GEORGE MCCOUREY.

Letter From Councillor Large. SIR,—I desire to inform the electors of Ward Five that I have decided not to run for City Councillor at the forthcoming Civic Election. PHILIP LARGE. Jan. 15th, 1891.

A Denial. MR. EDITOR,—As a number of my friends have concluded the conclusion of your criticism of "Society as it is in Charlottetown," to be an insinuation that I am the author of the pamphlet, I beg most emphatically to deny such a charge, and hereby defy any person to prove such a base accusation. THEO. L. CHAPPELLE. Jan. 14, 1891.

"Society." SIR,—Here is an idea which suggested itself to me after reading your review of "Society." It is this: that while the author attacks every church in the city, he has nothing evil to say against any chapel. Whoever the author is, there is no doubt that he unites three characteristics. He is 1. A Socialist. 2. An Oddfellow. 3. An unmitigated liar. NEMO.
