SPECTACLES.

Over twenty-five years I have been in the Spectacle business and during that time have fitted hundreds and hundreds of persons. Some had put off getting glasses so long that they could not see a large 4 inch letter A without going within 2 or 3 feet of it, and might have gone blind if they had put off getting glasses much longer. Others have been fitted or rather misfitted, with wrong glasses by travellers, and charged a great deal more than they ought to have been. This year our traveller, Mr. C. H. White, intends calling on parties at their homes in the country, to test eyes and show samples of our goods. Should he call on you I bespeak for him your favorable consideration, and any order you may give him will be filled as soon as possible and guaranteed by me. Glasses can also be exchanged at the store, CAMERON BLOCK City, if after a trial they do not prove as satisfactory as you wish.

E. W. TAYLOR, City

Warning!

I wish to inform the public that several parties are travelling the country using my name and pretending to be selling Spectacles for me. Mr. C. H. White is the only traveller that I employ. He is competent to test eyes and fit Spectacles properly. If any others call and say they are selling for me please ask them to show their licence.

OPTICIAN

CATCHING THE TARPON.

It Involves a Battle Royal Between the Angler and the Monster.

The tarpon is a "top feeder"—that is, he seeks his food near the surface. Those who know him best fish for him with a live mullet, which is not allowed to sink more than two feet below the waves, being sustained by a large "float" or cork. The inner portion of his mouth is bone, and no hook will take secure hold upon it. This being so, it is necessary to allow him partially to swallow the bait, which he will do by the time that he has carried the float whirling along the water for a space of 30 feet. Afterward is the time to swear and pray. The tarpon reel holds 600 feet of line. Not infrequently when he feels the hook the fish will strike the trail for fish water with a seemingly irresistible rush, and keep going. What happens when his 150 pounds of express speed are pitted against the strength of a line that is run out needs not to be told. He simply sails on out to sea, whipping behind him 200 yards of silk, and whether he lives or whether he dies its former owner knows not. He can only go back to port and tell vain tales of the size of the wonder that got away.

But if that splendid rush is deflected, if the fish dives, if the thumb of an old hand be upon the reel, if the man to whom the hand is attached is cool of head and knows enough to give his adversary the butt, a battle royal is on, for verily the combat between a 150 pound man, sound of wind and science, and a 150 pound tarpon, possessed of the temper of the devil, is a grapple of the gods. The crazed fish time and again leaps three, four, five feet from the water and shakes his head like a dog in his effort to dislodge the hook. A momentary slack of the line is fatal, as with the rapidity of lightning the sharp teeth close upon the strands above the snell and they are severed as if with a knife.

But when the terrific struggles have grown fainter, when the steady, deadly strain of the springing rod has sapped the strength of the gallant foeman, when his lithe, powerful body is brought near to the boat's edge, when the cruel gaff has smitten the life from it and its beautiful length lies along the deck, the conqueror feels half jubilant, half remorseful, wholly respectful of the giant whom his prowess has laid low, and confoundedly weary and dry. He looks at the sun, which seems surprisingly low in the heavens. He looks at his watch and refuses to believe that two hours have passed in that desperate wrestle. But unless he be in thorough training and past master of his art, a swollen, aching wrist will tell him for days afterward that in the silver king of the southern seas he was near to meeting his match.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Vest's Favorite Story.

Senator Vest has a favorite story which he has told on the occasion of many a political speech, but, so far as known, never on the floor of the United States senate.

"A temperance lecturer was struggling against odds in Kentucky," says the senator. "He was talking to a not very large audience that had been drawn to the hall by curiosity. The effect of alcohol is to shorten life," said the lecturer.

"An old man at the rear of the hall rose at that juncture and said, 'You're a liar!'"

"Why?" inquired the advocate of Adam's ale.

"'Because, sir, I've been drinking for 75 years and I am 99 and likely to live to be 100. I am strong enough to lick you now if you'll step outside.'"

"'Oh, no doubt, sir. You're an exception, sir. If you keep on drinking'—The lecturer paused.

"'What?' asked the impatient old toper.

"'If you keep on drinking, you'll have to be shot on judgment day.'"—St. Louis Republic.

A Difficult Question.

"It's a hard problem," remarked the man who can't be kept from getting interested in small matters.

"What's a hard problem?"

"This question of refinement. I'd like to see somebody who is able to sit down and figure out just how much fuss a man of wealth can make in his efforts to be exclusive before he becomes ostentatious."—Washington Star.

Puzzled.

"What's the matter, Jack?" asked his uncle. "You look bothered."

"I am," said Jack. "This English language is too much for me. Ma told me to stop in at Mrs. Perkins' as I went by and leave this letter. Now, if I go by, I can't stop in, and if I stop in, why, don't you see, I can't really go by."—Harper's Bazar.

The Chinese emblem of the dragon consists of a five clawed imperial dragon, suspended to a yellow ribbon, and has the following inscription in Chinese characters: "Before it the lion turns pale and the tiger is silent!"

The working life of a London cab horse averages about five years.

Cork Legs.

The peculiarity of a cork leg is that apart from the name there isn't a vestige of cork about it. The origin of the term comes from the fact that nearly all the great manufacturers of such articles used to live in Cork street, Piccadilly, London.—Philadelphia Record.

Deep.

She—Your friend is certainly a handsome fellow and, they say, a very deep one.
He—Any man who was shallow could never hold as much as he does.—Detroit Free Press.
