

EXAMINER. 30, 1881.

of John Morris, Esq.

probable, that anyone who saw him on the streets, in the midst of the rain, hale and sturdy, entertained a thought that before another morn Mr. Morris would be visited by death. Yet it was even so. On going to bed last night his breathing was rather heavy. Miss Morris shortly after visited him, in his room; and finding that he was somewhat worse, applied a little turpentine to his chest. This did not produce the expected relief; and the old gentleman soon after got up, dressed himself, and sat on the sofa. As he did not get better, Dr. Hobkirk was sent for at about half-past twelve. About two minutes after the doctor reached him, his spirit passed away.

John Morris was a native of Ireland, educated (we believe) in Dublin. He came to this Island nearly fifty years ago as a bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Cambridge. He was the soul of honesty, and was almost as punctual in business, as the sun in his daily course. He was appointed Justice of the Peace, at a time when that title was an honorable one, indicative of respectability and the regard of his fellows, and he performed the responsible duties of the position with scrupulous care. For several of the stormiest years in our Island history he filled the important office of High Sheriff of Queen's County. Of late years, he has lived in retirement, and has been noted for his robust, active and cheerful old age.

Dominion Day.

To-morrow, being Dominion Day, will be observed as a general holiday by the people of this Province. A large number of picnics and excursions will take place, and every opportunity is offered to those who wish to spend the day pleasantly. Among the attractions is the

which is to be held under the auspices of the Catholic congregation of that parish. We have no doubt it will be attended by a large number from Charlottetown, and that it will be a grand success (for trains, etc., see advertisement in another column.) There will also be a public under the auspices of the ladies of the Presbyterian Church at that place. The object of the tea is a good one, and we would advise all who wish to spend a sociable day to attend. A base-ball match between Rotchford's Square Club, of this city, and Crapaud Club will take place on the grounds. (The "Heather Belle" leaves this city for the grounds at 8 o'clock. The sporting attractions of the day will be the horse

RACES AT SUMMERSIDE

Driving Park, which is under excellent management. The races, four in number, are well filled, and we need only mention that "Lady Bagnall," "Wild Harry," and a well-known trotting stallion from this city will take part in the "free for all" to ensure a good race. But besides this, there will be one of the liveliest "four year old" races ever witnessed on the Island. In it Mr. J. McLean's well known trotter, Mr. R. Crabb's "Don Carlos," Mr. Read's "River Queen," and Mr. Irving's "Bush" will take part. The race will be a most exciting one, as it is said all the loose cash in New London will be placed on "River Queen" as winner, while every spare dime that Souris can boast of will back the representative of the east. The other races on the programme will also be hotly contested.

EXCURSIONS.

A good excursion is advertised by the Steam Navigation Company, to Pictou and back on the St. Lawrence. Those who attend can't fail to spend a delightful day in charge of the gentlemanly officers of the steamer. Excursions are also advertised from all points of the P. E. Island Railway. (For particulars see advertisement in another column.)

THE SEASIDE.

Those who wish to spend a pleasant day at the North Shore can visit the Seaside and the Lorne hotels. Trains for the purpose can be obtained from Messrs. Stumbles, Worth and Millner.

The Editor of the Patriot, is very like Bob Acres in one particular. He does not see any harm in doing what is wrong, but his conscience (?) is generally hurt at being found out. To denounce a "No-Popery howl" publicly while he is privately doing all he can in a sly way to swell the chorus is just the kind of thing that he has often done and is now doing. That a determined attempt has been made, in an underhanded way, to incite sectarian feeling on the ground than an unfair proportion of the attendants at the Asylum were Roman Catholics, is so well known in this community that the Patriot's protestations only show how unreliable the organ is. In answer to a direct enquiry from a correspondent we gave the names and creeds of the employees at the Hospital. The result has been to spoil the Patriot's game, and he utters a scream "Like the wolf's long howl on Onalaska's shore."

Charlottetown Woollen Factory.

WORK BEGUN—A VISIT TO THE SCENE OF OPERATIONS—A GOOD SITE AND FAIR PROSPECTS FOR A LIVELY TRADE.

A year or two ago, when congratulating Prince County on its two fine Cloth Factories, we expressed our regret that Queen's County, wealthy as it is, did not possess even one equally good cloth factory. We regret no longer. On the contrary, we have very great pleasure in reporting that the reanimated enterprise of this city has, at last, given us as fine a one as need be desired. Last winter, six gentlemen became incorporated as "The Charlottetown Woollen Company," and so vigorously have they pushed forward their undertaking, that the Factory is now in operation. The writer had yesterday the pleasure of inspecting the first web—a strong, well finished piece of cloth, that would, if made up into a suit and worn, do no discredit to any gentleman in the Province. The Company have their city office, on the North side of Queen square, in the store lately occupied by Mr. Albert Simpson, the business manager being Mr. W. H. Gordon, well known as the former agent in Charlottetown of the Mill Valley Cloth Mills. Here the wool is purchased and the cloth is sold.

The Factory is situate in Spring Park, pretty close to the spring. It is a large and very suitable building of four flats. The machinery with which it is fitted up is of the latest invention, and the best description that could be obtained in Worcester, Mass. The engine which drives it is horizontal acting, about twenty-five horsepower, and works with such perfect smoothness that the noise it makes is not much louder than the ticking of a watch, while of vibration there is none whatever.

The dye-house, to which the wool is first conveyed, is in a wing on the ground floor. It contains three "dye vats," one of which will hold six hundred pounds of wool. The water and dye in these vats is heated by means of exhaust steam from the boiler.

After the wool is dyed it is raised to the roof, and spread out to dry; when dried it is gathered up, oiled, and put through the picker, a machine something like the drum of a threshing machine; thence it is conveyed to the carding room where there are three machines—called the Aply Feeder Improvement—by means of which it is thoroughly mixed, cleaned and so manipulated that it comes out in a long roll about the thickness of a penhandle, and it is wound up on large spools.

These spools are taken up stairs to the "spinning room." Here there are two "spinning jacks" in operation, and one no yet put up. These Spinning Jacks, art, perhaps, the greatest triumphs of the machinist, so intricate are the works, so precise and true their action. Yet they are evidently but a development of the principle embodied in the old-fashioned spinning wheel, to such a degree that they will, operated by a single hand, spin two hundred and sixty-four threads in the time the spinning wheel takes to spin one thread.

As spun the yarn is wound off on small spools or bobbins, which are conveyed direct to the weaving room on the second flat. Here there are warping and weaving apparatus, and six looms,—three only of which are yet in operation. These looms also are but a splendid development of the old hand loom. With good warp, and operated carefully, they will each weave from thirty to forty yards a day. It is noticeable that if a thread breaks as the "swiftly flying shuttles pass," they will at once stop automatically.

The webs as they come out of the loom are taken to the finishing room on the first flat. Here they are put through a process of fulling and washing; and, after they are dried, they are put through a "teasing machine" which raises the "knapp" or fuzz which covers the surface; then they are put through "the shearer," which shears the "knapp" off; then they are pressed in high screw presses; and then, lastly, they are run through a machine which winds and measures them as they pass through it. From it they are taken ready for the market.

The Factory is under the immediate management and supervision of Mr. W. D. McKay who has shares in the Company and is largely interested in its success. When in full operation it will occupy from twenty to twenty-five hands, and will turn out about a thousand yards per week. One of the shareholders informs us that it is the intention of the Company to manufacture a good article of cloth and nothing but a good article. In carrying out this laudable determination we trust they will be assisted by farmers who will make up their minds to raise no sheep that will not yield good wool, and by a patriotic people, determined to encourage the use of home capital and the development of native skill and industry.

Fowler, the phrenologist, was the victim of a mean trick by a Washington man. The latter had three photographs of himself taken, in one of which he appeared to be dressed as a woman; in another as a well-to-do architect; in the third as a spectacled professor. Then he sent the photographs on to Fowler for phrenological description. He received in a few days three charts. The "architect" was described as an impulsive person, of strong lung power, etc., the "woman" seemed to have less lung power than the architect, and appeared "able to convert nutritious materials into healthy nutriment rapidly and abundantly." As to the "professor," he was described as unfit to marry, being of uncongenial temperament.

Arrangements for the forthcoming exhibition at Halifax are being rapidly completed under the superintendence of Messrs O'Brien, Harris, Raffail, and Griffiths. The Parliament building is being painted and renovated. The Governor-General will be welcomed with an address, and accorded a brilliant reception on his arrival. During his stay there will be a regatta, a review of the troops and man-of-war's men, torpedo experiments, etc.

The United States produced over 300,000,000 bushels of wheat and 900,000,000 bushels of corn in 1880. As against 200,000,000 bushels of wheat and 4,000,000 of corn in 1870.

It is stated as probable that the English Government will withdraw all claims to any suzerainty in the Transvaal.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions or statements of our correspondents.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—I do not know how much disrespect the editor of the Patriot has gained for himself and the sheet over which he presides, through his attempts to create a prejudice against members of the Local Government on the School Question. Contrary to Mr. Lawson's expectations, however, the general run of people are fairly disgusted with his drivelling on this subject; and if he ever hopes to raise himself and the sheet he controls in the estimation of the people, he will abandon such disreputable attacks. All denominations to allow the School Question to rest. Therefore the editor of the Patriot will find himself unable to reopen this School Question, however much he feels inclined to do so.

The editor of the Patriot forgets or seems to forget that the people in country districts manage to hold their annual school examinations quite successfully without the aid of Government members, or such profound scholars as Mr. Lawson. Still the School Law is nowise endangered on account of their absence. How absurd it would be for every country district in the Province to expect members of the Government to be on hand at their school examinations. Yet the Patriot's complaint amounts to just this: "there has been a school examination in every school district in town and country on the Island, during the last day or two, and the members of the local Government have not attended every one of them, as they should have done." In what respect, may I ask, are the city schools entitled to Government patronage, when the members of the Government have public business to attend to? Let Mr. Lawson and his fellow citizens, if they feel so much interest in the city schools, look after them, and then the editor of the Patriot will find better employment than mixing up the city school examinations with party politics.

What country people want, Mr. Editor, is to find the members of the different departments in their places, where the present Government are always found, instead of strutting round the streets, as their predecessors were in the habit of doing.

Yours, &c., BACKWOODSMAN. King's County, June 28th, 1881.

The wool trade in the British Isles is less favorable than when the latest circulars were issued, though the state of the stock does not account for the decline in prices. In the United States prices are good, a fact that the vendors of legs, intended to be seen for that market, pleasantly realize.

It has a long time been a matter of wonderment to us what manner of men it could be Matthew Arnold described as "an exponent of sweetness and light." We've found the fellow at last. He keeps a general shop in a small village, and his window displays, in close contiguity, a choice collection of sugar-plums and tallow candles.

The Montreal "Evening Post" says of the Premier:—"Sir John A. Macdonald must feel flattered with the reception he is meeting in England from all quarters. His physician does not feel alarmed at the state of his health, an announcement which must be gratifying to all parties in Canada. After all, we have but one Sir John Macdonald."
