Teaching Dictionary Thoroughly Revised

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Teaching Dictionary, criticized by a Toronto teacher in a recent review, was thoroughly revised before the second edition came out in October, the publisher, Clarke, Irwin and Company Limited, said here.

"Such revisions are standard practice in the preparation of dictionaries and others will be made in subsequent editions of the Canadian Teaching Dictionary," the statement says.

"Their purpose is to meet criticisms of definitions which have appeared after the book has been used by the audience for which it was intended if, in the opinion of the editor, the criticisms are justified."

In a Jan. 8 news story reporting the critical review by teacher J. Edward Parsons, The Canadian Press referred to "spelling errors" in the dictionary and said it is "liberally sprinkled with errors in grammar."

R. W. W. Robertson, editor of Clarke, Irwin, said Thursday the few spelling errors in the school text prepared by John A. McKeown of London, Ont., were typographical and will be corrected in the next printing.

He said the grammar cannot properly be criticized. The book is aimed at very young children and — as a Canadian Press review of the first edition said last May — is not intended to be a dictionary in the Oxford or Webster sense, not only because of the limited number of words it defines but also because the author has tried to make sure each word is fully explained in terms understandable to the young audience scarcely able to read.

The Canadian Press is pleased to give this additional information about the Canadian Teaching Dictionary to correct any misunderstanding conveyed by its Jan. 8 story.

Pulp, Paper Said Facing Challenge

MONTREAL (CP) — Technicians of Canada's pulp and paper industry are facing a "tremendous challenge" that must be met quickly, G. C. Brown, outgoing chairman of the technical section of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said here.

He told the section's annual meeting that the challenge consists of meeting customers' requirements and marketing conditions while maintaining a satisfactory profit level.

In the last year the industry operated in the face of tough competition, a surplus of manufacturing capacity, demands for better products, and higher costs for labor and materials.

Stronger competition could be expected from foreign countries where research was "very active."

DEVELOP SKILLS

"We must develop the skills, knowledge and abilities to the maximum potential of our members," Mr. Brown said. "We must attract the best students and scientists to our industry.

"We must adapt our processes and systems to realize the maximum benefit from the personnel available."

Mr. Brown, vice - president and general manager of Price Brothers and Company Limited, Quebec, will be succeeded as section chairman by E. T. Buchanan, assistant to the executive vice-president of Consolidated Paper Corporation Limited, Montreal.

Elected vice-chairman was Thomas Foulkes, chief plant engineer of the E. B. Eddy Company, Hull, Que.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♠	4♥	4♠

Opening lead—king of hearts.

A popular way of describing how badly someone plays bridge is to say that he trumps his partner's ace. This article is not intended to encourage those inclined to trump their partner's tricks, but it may afford solace to some addicted to the practice to know that there are times when it is not a cardinal sin.

South opened the bidding with a spade and West overcalled with four hearts. North, who couldn't very well know that a double would bring an 800-point penalty, made the natural bid of four spades, which everybody passed.

West led the king of hearts and continued with the ace. At this point, our hero, East, trumped his partner's ace. East then returned a club and West cashed the A-Q to defeat the contract one trick. If East had not ruffed the ace, South would have made four spades.

Of course, East's play was not really difficult, though it did violate the injunction against trumping partner's tricks. As with all general principles, the advice about what to do and what not to do is not meant to be followed blindly, and in a given case, where strict adherence seems likely to prove injurious, a player is supposed to branch out on his own.

This was clearly such a case. East can see from a survey of dummy that the defense cannot hope to win four tricks if West remaining on lead with the ace of hearts. West can hardly be expected to take two more tricks on his own if left on lead. Dummy's diamonds are practically sure to take care of at least some of South's club losers.

Furthermore, East knows that if West stays on lead to play still another heart, he (East) cannot overruff dummy. He therefore trumps his partner's trick in the hope that a club shift, through South, will produce the setting trick.

Note that West cannot afford to play a low heart at trick two to force East to ruff. West has no way of knowing that East has a singleton heart.

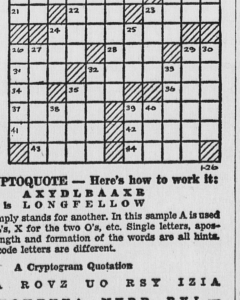
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
