

Social Credit Leader Is Opposed To Culture Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Low Friday opposed establishment of a Canada Council to promote a $100,000,000 aid-to-culture program at a time when he believes money is needed to increase pensions of Canadians living on the borderline of poverty.

However, the government's proposal received the full support of C.F. Leader Caldwell and was endorsed by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, although the latter had reservations about government plans on how the council should operate.

Prime Minister St. Laurent disclosed during Commons debate on a resolution to set up the council that it will pay only half the cost of approved programs for expansion of university buildings. He said grants to universities would go only towards projects for the advancement of the arts, humanities and social sciences.

NOT RIGHT TIME

Mr. Low said he is reserving judgment on the legislation, which will be introduced following approval of the resolution. But his present view was that this is not the time to establish the council.

Under the government's proposal, the council would be granted $50,000,000 an endowment. Revenue from this investment would be used to advance the arts, humanities and social sciences.

An additional $50,000,000 would be granted to the council to distribute to universities to help them expand buildings and equipment over a 10-year period.

Mr. St. Laurent said capital grants to universities would be made as a contribution toward the financing of specific building projects approved by the council. Amount of the grant would not be more than half of the projects' cost.

PROVINCES MUST HELP

"Although these two financial provisions will help to meet our most immediate needs, they will not meet, and are not intended to meet, all our requirements," he said.

"The federal government does not feel that it should be the sole patron of the arts, the humanities and the social sciences or the only source of capital for the universities.

"Provincial governments have clear and important responsibilities in those fields, and I am sure they will want to assume an increasing share of the financial assistance which is required. I also feel that private industry and private persons of means will feel that they have definite financial responsibilities in this respect in compensation for the advantages which will have accrued to them from the Canadian economy."

Mr. Low said Canada is a young country with plenty of time to develop. He did not mean Canada was lagging behind other countries in development of its arts but that there were other priorities for the use of public funds.

Old age pensioners and veterans forced to live below the poverty line had a prior claim for consideration. Money also was needed to find a cure for cancer.

RETURNS NOT GREAT

Mr. Low agreed with the proposal to assist university building programs but thought the funds could be made available to the provinces without the proposed council.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government's plans for the council represent a disavowal of recommendations of the Massey royal commission in 1951. There was no indication the council would be a national body dealing with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the usual 3 1/2 per cent return on endowment investment would provide only $1,750,000 annually, not enough to meet the needs of students. Many potential leaders would be denied university training.

Mr. Caldwell said his only criticism of the resolution is that it will come a couple of years earlier.

Dr. Pierre Gauthier (LePorteur) said he has no fear of political interference with the work of the council. There would be no encroachment on provincial rights in education but "I do not have that fear."

of leaders which have emerged from its portals of learning. So it is with great satisfaction and approval that St. Dunstan's welcomes the innovation of a Normal Training program for its college undergraduates.

Under next week, greetings from S. D. U. And remember science too has its drawbacks. Scientific investigation has brought out the idea that you can learn while asleep, this shattering the last hope of those who claim they can't learn while awake.

Since a university degree is required for teachers in grades 11 and 12, the situation at present in Senior High School for teachers The Normal Training program at S.D.U. should alleviate this condition somewhat and should also succeed in raising the academic standards the progress of which has due to the acute shortage of teachers. Salisbury's Status In Cabinet Discussed

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan's further list of Conservative government ministers announced Wednesday night renewed speculation that the Marquess of Salisbury will eventually be appointed foreign secretary.

Some politicians regard it as highly significant that in the list of changes, the two ministers of state who will assist Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd have been chosen from the House of Commons.

In the previous Eden administration, the House of Lords had its own minister of state at the foreign office — the Marquess of Reading, who has been dropped from the government.

The prime minister has still to appoint two junior foreign ministers — parliamentary undersecretaries — one of whom will presumably be in the House of Lords. But it is accepted from the choice of two Commons ministers of state that the 63-year-old Lord Salisbury will in future be the government's chief foreign policy spokesman in the House of Lords.

SUM-HI-NOTES

A "rep" or all star basketball team has been formed in the school consisting of players from grades ten to twelve. The team, coached by Chuck Monaghan, will represent the school in the S.H.S. interscholastic competition and will play a team from the Town League at Civic Stadium on Saturday afternoon. This will be the boys' first appearance in their smart, new blue and white uniforms and if they play as well as they look they will certainly come out on top. Players on the team are, Ned Hentton (Captain), grade twelve (B), Dick Costain, grade eleven (B), David Campbell grade eleven (B), Mike Scott grade ten (C), Eddie Boates, grade eleven (B), Don MacEachern, grade eleven (C) and Charles Hickey, grade twelve (A).

At the regular Thursday morning assembly program, two students of grade eight musically entertained the students assembled in the auditorium as well as the listening radio audience. Alan Hubley sang "O Danny Boy" and Donald Schurman gave a piano selection "Sonatina" both of which made very enjoyable listening.

The guest speaker was Mr. Lloyd Miller, chief meteorologist of R.C.A.F. Station Summerside. Mr. Miller, a native of Montreal has previously been the chief meteorologist at various stations in Canada. He gave the definition of "weather" as atmospheric condition at one place at one time and went on to tell of the 250 stations all across Canada which report weather conditions at each place every hour of the day by means of teletype and facsimile (wire photo). He extended the invitation to grades studying weather conditions to visit the airport weather station.

Mr. Mercer accepted the invitation and said that a certain grade would visit the station at a later date when the roads are in better condition.

Next week the guest speaker will be Dr. Frank MacKinnon, principal of Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown.

During the past week Mr. Mercer has been interviewing students of the High School with averages lower than sixty per cent in the Christmas examinations. It is hoped that these students, if it is within their ability, will raise their marks in the next set of exams in March.

The Students Council will hold a "hockey dance" in the auditorium on Saturday, Jan. 26th. Lowell Huestis and his orchestra will supply the music for the occasion and the admission is fifty cents a person. Everybody is welcome, so come along and enjoy yourself at this dance which will no doubt be an excellent one.

For girls, curling seems to be the vogue at S.H.S. these past few weeks. The members of the teams who have been coached by members of the Curling Club are coming along well in the game. Any other girls interested in learning to curl or to join may do so by going to the rink on Saturday morning at 10 a.m. where they will be most welcome.
