MR. AND MRS. DARRELL WORTH

Pretty Autumn Wedding Held At Trinity Church

Trinity United Church, Charlottetown, was the setting for a very pretty wedding at 3 o'clock, Saturday, September the 20th, when Grace Myrtle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edison MacDonald, Covehead, became the bride of Darrell Edwin Worth, Charlottetown. Reverend A. Frank MacLean performed the double ring ceremony.

The church was very tastefully decorated with baskets of gladioli, dahlia and fern. The guest pews were marked with white tulle and pom-poms. Mr. Royston F. Mugford played the wedding music and accompanied Mr. J.B. Lewis as he sang, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden", preceding the ceremony and "O, Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor length gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin, fashioned with a Sabrina neckline and a fitted bodice, fastened in back with tiny covered buttons, extending below the waist. The hooped skirt fell in two tiers, each appliqued with a wide band of lace and all cascading over a final underskirt of nylon tulle. Her finger tip veil of nylon tulle was held in place with a tiara of rhinestones and sequins. Her only jewellery was small pearl earrings, a gift of the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Vivian MacDonald, sister of the bride wore a pink ballerina length gown of nylon lace and net with matching mitts and headdress. She carried a basket of mixed mums.

The bridesmaid, Miss Edna Ross, wore a blue ballerina length gown of nylon chiffon with matching mitts and headdress. She carried a basket of mixed mums.

The flowergirl, little Miss Peggy Chandler, wore a short frock of yellow nylon chiffon with matching mitts and bandeau. She carried a basket of red baby-roses.

Mrs. MacDonald chose for her daughter's wedding a trapeze dress of sapphire blue, embossed taffeta with navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The groom's mother was attired in a light grey suit with pink accessories and a corsage of roses.

The groom was attended by Mr. Lowell Watts. The ushers were Mr. Clayton MacDonald, and Mr. David Lee.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for 80 guests at the Queen Hotel. The bride's table was decorated with mixed flowers, centered with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Ira Lewis and responded to by the groom. Miss Lillian Warren was in charge of the guest book.

For travelling the bride chose a grey chemise dress and black duster with white and black accessories. She wore a wrist corsage of red carnations.

HAPPENINGS

One of the highlights in the 75th anniversary celebration of the founding of Dalhousie Law School which was held last week in Halifax, was the unveiling of a portrait of the late Donald A. MacRae, Q.C., Ph.D., L.L.D., (Dean of Dalhousie Law Faculty, 1914-1924) by his son, Mr. Donald MacRae, professor of Astronomy, Toronto University.

Doctor MacRae will be remembered for many outstanding achievements, one of which was the posting of Sidney E. Smith (now the Secretary of State for External Affairs in the Dominion Cabinet) to Harvard University for the purpose of what is called the "case method" of teaching law. The following year this method was introduced at Dalhousie and today the "case method" introduced and administered by Dr. MacRae is used throughout the common law schools in Canada. Thus many courses were strengthened and standards raised.

Charlottetown Rotarians will recall Doctor MacRae's name with the organization of the Charlottetown Club in September 1917 and the drafting of the present constitution of Rotary International. Dr. MacRae was a native of Canoe Cove, Prince Edward Island, a sister Mrs. Ellen MacKinnon lives at York Lane, Charlottetown.

Mr. Sterling Cantelo, Burlington, Ontario, is spending an enjoyable fall vacation on Prince Edward Island. Mr. Cantelo will visit in various parts of the province, including Hampshire, Eldon, and Murray Harbour. At present he is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson MacDonald, of Johnston's River.

Miss Dinah Diamond, Canoe Cove, has left for Ontario to visit her parents who live in St. Catharines.

L.A.C William J. MacNeill, R.C.A.F. Station, Parent, Quebec and OSS Frederick O MacNeill, H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, N.S. have returned to their duties after spending a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar MacNeill, St. Eleanors, and attending the funeral of their grandfather, Mr. John W. Palmer, of Freeland.

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"Many thanks to you and the Chef for helping me solve many of my menu problems through your column," writes a young homemaker.

"My husband is a movie actor, not regularly employed. Even when he makes good money, we have to stay on a budget so as to have some left over to live on when he's between engagements.

"One of the dishes we have found a lifesaver is your chopped beef stew. It's not only quick, easy and thrifty but tasty, too. Sometimes I serve it with curried dumplings, sometimes on toast.

WOODINGTON—GLENNIE WEDDING

At Charlottetown on October the 4th., a quiet but pretty double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. A. F. MacLean, when he united in marriage, Velda Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Glennie, Southport, and Everett Reginald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Woodington, Charlottetown.

The young bride looked lovely in a dress of blue imported English flannel, with a white feather hat and white mitts, she wore a corsage of pink and white carnations.

The bride was attended by her friend, Mrs. Carl Crosby, who was attractively gowned in rose wool, white feather hat and white gloves. Her corsage was white carnations.

Mr. Claude Woodington, brother of the groom was best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, in Southport. The bride's table was attractively decorated with flowers and centered with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Immediately following the reception the happy young couple left on a honeymoon trip to Halifax and other points in the Maritimes. Mr. and Mrs. Woodington will reside in Charlottetown where the groom is on the staff of Guardian-Patriot, and bride with Mr. F. A. Large, Q. C.

Shower — The bride was guest of honour, recently, at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hardy, Gordon Drive. Many of her former neighbors from Suffolk, and other friends attended. Velda was the recipient of many valuable and useful gifts, including several sums of money.

The bride in a few well-chosen words thanked all for their kindness and good wishes, and invited all to visit her in her new home.

A social hour followed in which games and contests were enjoyed by all. Lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. George Rattray.

GAS INSPECTION

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario fuel board has decided to inspect all homes where natural gas service once was installed and where unused service pipe has been left in foundation walls. A. R. Crozier, board chairman, made the announcement after an all-day inspection of a gas explosion at Palermo, Ont., which killed a mother and her infant son in the flaming wreckage of their home.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Welcome Small Visitor— From Across The Lane

Here it was, a little cloudy at the outset, a bit cool too, nevertheless a brand new Monday, fresh from the presses of Time... Given to the housewife on the heels of her Sunday to remind her that cleanliness is akin to Godliness as she gathered up the pieces which later washed and clean, she spread on the line to dry. Or in this marvellous modern age with its magic machines perhaps she has no need to seek the favor of sun and wind to dry her washed pieces. If not, we think it a pity. There is so much loveliness to be enjoyed with the spreading.

"There!" we once heard a housewife say with relief one Monday when a last bit of her wash was pinned in place. "It's good to get that over with" she remarked picking up the empty basket and turning away smartly to the house. . .That was a Spring day, blessed with bright sunshine and a happy little breeze. The new greens had spread along the countryside, indeed now blade and leaf had come to that lushness which attends the first of the Summer. We recall still the satin of the new grain covering the red of the grainlands and in the orchards first petals were drifting. Robins sang their age-old refrains,swallows dipped and soared and excursioned to and from the eaves of the barns. Never was a Spring-day more appealingly beautiful nor, sad thing but true, would it remain long as it was. We felt some regret for that housewife upon whom so much loveliness was wasted.

No robins sang their love songs this morning. . .but other engaging incidentals to our spreading there were. In a heart-warming sight, just across the dip of our valley, there in the meadow by the house on the hill, we saw the pasturing mare pause in her grazing lift her head and point ears inquiringly at the sound of her master's approach. Then she came to him, nibbled at the bait of grain he carried and apparently in nice accord with his wishes, followed as might a kitten at his heels to the stable to be harnessed for some work of their day. We saw too—and after an old habit, our thoughts went with them, children, children along the road-hill off to the district school.

The yonger son of the house across the lane can now find his way unattended, though not unwatched, to our door where he calls in his strange new voice for admittance.

"Nan-nie, Nan-nie!" he will call softly. And laugh happily when we open the door to him and the kitten he has found on the way.

All about us at Alderlea these days, over the fields of the farmlands are the dark velvet of evergreens, the copper of last clinging laves, the gray of bare branches, the browns and greens of the November meadows coming up now to their rest.

"I never was much taken up with the Winter," James offers coming in on the work-boots that have carried him along more than one drill of turnips today. "But I have a feeling I'm not going to mind that ahead. They're not like they used to be. There's really not much last to Winters nowadays."
