MR. AND MRS. W. E. MURPHY

A Pretty Spring Wedding Performed At Georgetown

St. James Church, Georgetown was the scene of a pretty spring wedding on May 2nd, when, Gertrude Lillian, R.N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fitzgerald, Georgetown became the bride of LAC. William Eugene, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Murphy of Georgetown.

Reverend Denis Gallant celebrated the nuptial Mass and performed the double ring ceremony. Reverend O. Kiggins was present in the sanctuary. Acolytes were: Charles Fitzgerald and Mark Murphy, brothers of the bride and groom. Miss Janie Batchilder played the wedding march and appropriate hymns were beautifully sung by the Girl's Choir.

The altar was adorned with pink and white snapdragons and white chrysanthemums. Guest pews were marked with pink and white rosettes. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a cocktail length gown of white peau de soie, featuring a Sabrina neckline and fitted bodice with lace trim and full hooped skirt of imported French lace. The long sleeves came to points over the wrists.

The fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by an open crowned tulle bonnet. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of red sweetheart roses and white carnations and wore cultured pearl earrings, gift of the groom.

Mrs. Albert Burke, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a waltz length gown of mauve nylon with matching satin cummerbund and headdress. She carried a nosegay of mauve and white carnations.

Miss Mary Lou Conohan, niece of the bride, was flowergirl. She wore a gown of embroidered white nylon organza over pale yellow taffeta with headdress to match and carried a nosegay of yellow and white carnations.

The groom was attended by his brother, LAC., Earl Murphy.

Ushers were LAC., Leroy Doiron and LAC., Art Hughes, friends of the groom.

The mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding a sheath dress of royal blue figured silk with matching accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother wore a Queen's blue crepe dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held for sixty guests at the Rainbow Room of the Bison Restaurant in Montague. The table was beautifully decorated, the bride's table being centered with a three tiered wedding cake, adorned with miniature white wedding bells under an arch of tiny white rosebuds. Mrs. J. W. Lavers, aunt of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

Mr. J. W. Lavers acted as toastmaster for the occasion and called upon Const, Ron Pettitt, R.C.M.P., who proposed the toast to the Queen. Rev. Denis Gallant very fittingly proposed the toast to the bride and groom. This was responded to by the groom.

The young couple then left on a short motor trip through the Maritime Provinces.

For travelling the bride chose a looped wool suit of aqua, with white accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations. The couple will reside in Cold Lake, Alberta, where the groom is stationed with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Many tleegrams of congratulatory and best wishes were received from relatives and friends of the bride and groom. Prior to her wedding the bride was entertained at a shower held at the home of Miss Peggy Johnson, Georgetown. (Proto by Craswell)

HAPPENINGS

"Prince Edward Island's Castle Builder" is the heading of an article by Michael F. Hennessey in the April issue of the Atlantic Advocate. Col. Johnstone is shown by Glamis Castle, the first replica of famous places which he completed in 1946. Pictures are shown of other replicas: Shakespeare's birthplace at Stratford-on-Avon, the home of William Penn and his sons at Stoke Poges.

The beautiful name "Woodleigh" which Col. Johnstone has called his interesting homestead is taken from his ancestors' old home in Scotland.

At present Col. Johnstone is working on his most ambitious project, York Minster. This castle building is a costly hobby but Col. and Mrs. Johnstone derive much pleasure from it. In fact it is their formula for keeping young.

Recent visitors to Wolfville, Nova Scotia were the Hon. J. George MacKay and Mrs. MacKay, Albany, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hogg, Bedeque, and Mr. and Mrs. Colin Waugh, Wilmot Valley. Mr. and Mrs. Hogg and Mr. and Mrs. Waugh attended sessions of the G. D. of The Sons of Temperance of Nova Scotia which were held there during the week-end.

Mrs. Dora Campbell has returned from Halifax, Nova Scotia, where she was visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Campbell, and new grandson. Mrs. Parker Henderson of Darlington, Maryland, arrived by plane in Halifax and after a visit there came with her mother to Prince Edward Island where they are in residence at Mrs. Campbell's apartment, Dundas Terrace.

Miss Jeanie Gillis, home economic student at St. Francis Xavier University, is home for the holiday weekend.

Mrs. George Carson and Mrs. Miller Beairsto left Monday morning for Wolfville where they will attend graduation exercises at Acadia University. At that time Benjamin Douglas Carson will receive his B. A. degree majoring in history and business economics.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Praught of Grand River (West) were visitors to Charlottetown last week to pick up their son Leonard Praught who distinguished himself in engineering studies at St. Dunstan's University.

Mr. and Mrs. Power, Belle Isle, Newfoundland, have been in the province to attend their son Richard's graduation at St. Dunstan's University. This week they are attending their daughter's graduation at St. Fr. Xavier.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Caseley and Mr. and Mrs. James MacLean, Summerside entertained at a mixed party on Tuesday evening for Constable and Mrs. Eric Tedford who will shortly be leaving to reside in Charlottetown.

During the evening a gift of an electric coffee percolator was presented to the guests of honor by Mrs. MacLean while the address was read by Ralph Caseley. The Tedfords will be greatly missed by their host of friends in Summerside.

ELLEN'S DIARY

"Billy, The Kid" Is A Cute Pet At Alderlea

Is there anywhere we wonder a more engaging sight of season than a row of first swallows perched placidly along a telephone wire. . .smiling we fancy and as Mack said "More than happy to be again home?" There they were this afternoon in the sunshine quietly come, and quietly "viewing the landscape o'er" at Alderlea.

"We've had them about our yards for a few days" Gage reported later when he chanced to catch sight of a cleft-tail and burnished wings lifting above the near meadow.

Gage had come in one of those quick and sudden trips which appear on these farms to summon the farmers to one place in the event of some crisis in the farming. This evening it was to assist "a really fine heifer calf" so word had it, safe and sound to the world.

"Come!" Mack invited Gage in his greeting, leading off across a yard "I'd like you to pass your opinion on our new pet-'Billy, the Kid.' " He chuckled at the name.

"My opinion?" Gage echoed with a smile of anticipation. "I'll bet he's real cute."

"Cute!" Mack exclaimed proudly "he's all of that!"

"Can he jump?"

"Can he!" Mack nodded. "And climb too! Yes sir. I guess soon there won't be a fence on the farm that will hold him. He's smart. He knows me already."

A pleased bleat (Alex finds it a lonely one when he hears it at times through his day) from the kid in his pen hailed their approach. Now he would be allowed his freedom for a while to run and play, and crop the green of the yards.

It was a day for our farmers to welcome several new-comers to herd and flock, this day we had been hoping for, indeed longing for, when cool winds blew of late. So balmy was the air, and the light sunny wind warm on the new of blade and coaxing smilingly each unfolding leafbud.

"I guess," James commented "it will soon be time to think of the cultivating, won't it?" A lambkin under either arm he was taking them and their ewe then from the wide meadow to the sun of the orchard and the company of other little new-borns there. "But" he shook his head "it will be a while yet before we can get around to it. Besides there'll be a spell of spreading manure first."

And another day fresh and new at morning is leaving now. There is no staying them-these lovely days of May. But their memories we may keep.

Until tomorrow— — —Diary— Good-night... .

Get rid of burned-out fluorescent light tubes promptly if there are children in your house. They may be tempted to play with them. This is dangerous, not only because the glass tends to shatter easily, but also because some of these tubes have an inside coating of a substance which, if it gets into cuts, prevents them from healing.

Highest Bid Received For Work Of A Living Artist

The Picasso Picnic Tea sponsored last year by the Art Society of Prince Edward Island was a very popular event. From London comes news of Picasso painting which has just brouught the highest bid ever made anywhere for the work of a living artist.

The painting is that of a nude Dutch girl, said to have been first sold in 1905 to help pay a hotel bill that Pablo Picasso was unable to meet. It was auctioned off in London recently for 55,000 pounds ($154,000).

"La Belle Hollandaise" described as a product of Pablo Picasso's famous blue period was being offered for two thousand pounds ($5,600) according to London Art reporters in the pre-war years.

The story about the hotel bill is that Picasso and Paco Durio, a fellow Spanish artist, went to the Netherlands for a holiday in 1905. Picasso was unable to meet his part of the hotel bill. He is said to have handed the picture to Durio to whom it is inscribed as "My Dear Friend." Durio managed to raise 800 francs for it. (Since 1795 the franc has been worth about ten pence).
