United Church Women Hold Annual Rally At Cornwall

Rev. C. R. Webber, DD of Trinity United Church, Summerside, spoke at a rally of United Church Women held at Cornwall United Church, P.E.I. on Saturday, Nov 14th. His subject was the General Council held this year in Newfoundland. He especially stressed the increasing number of women delegates to Council, and the importance of their contribution to the discussions.

The president of the Presbyterial UCW of the Island, Mrs Henry Moyse, Summerside, presided, and Mrs. W. E. Creed opened the session with a devotional service. Mrs. T.W. Howard, speaking for the UCW of Cornwall welcomed the members from all sections of the Island.

Among the long list of reports from secretaries and committee chairmen, Mrs. John Myers reported on improvements to Camp Abegweit during 1964. Mrs. L. Johnston, Parkdale, reported an important contribution to home and foreign Missions of layettes and used clothing.

A panel of executive officers, Mrs. A Jenkins, Mrs. Heber Jones, Mrs. E. Anderson and Mrs. Bryer Jones answered questions regarding the new report forms. A representative of the archives committee, advised sending old and valuable church records to Mount Allison University for safe-keeping. Two members of the literature committee received new study books—"Meeting of Faiths," and "This is Brazil." Mrs. L. M. Murray and Mrs. R. Shaw presented two, year-long programs suggested at the school for UCW held at Berwick.

Mrs. Balir Andrew thanked Dr. Webber, the guest speaker, and the president expressed appreciation to the Cornwall unit for the hospitality of their church. The meeting was ended with an inspirational poem, and prayer.

Montague Rink Has Been Iced

The Montague Curling rink was the scene of much activity and interest over the weekend as ice making for the current season got underway. A fairly good sheet of ice already covers the sand base and the process of levelling continues.

Ice committee chairman George Nicholson reports that the work is going smoothly and that the freezing plant is performing in an excellent manner after a complete overhaul this fall. Painting of the ice surface will begin early this week and curling is expected to start at the latest by next Saturday.

Harold McHerron, the genial and capable manager for the past four seasons, is back with the club again and is presently in charge of the ice making. He predicts that there will be two excellent sheets of ice when curling gets underway this week.

Montague Guides Hold Enrollment, Presentation

An impressive Fly-up ceremony, conducted by Tawny Owl, Hilda Hilchey, took place Thursday, Nov. 12th at the Montague Elementary School when Beth Clarkson, Annabelle Hilchey and Beth Brehaut received their Golden Wings. They followed the Golden Ribbon held by Brownie Dawn Fraser and Guide Debbie Sinclair and were introduced into Guideland by Blanche Moyaert. Beth Clarkson, Beth Brehaut and Glenda Campbell were then enrolled and presented with their Tenderfoot pins.

Brown Owl Hal Inman called the following Sixes into the Fairy Ring. Fairies, Elves, Sprites, Little People and Pixies, each singing their own little song and dancing around the toadstool and Brown Owl. The Tweenies, the new Brownies, were then called and they formed an inner circle.

The following Tweenies were enrolled and presented with their pins by Commissioner Mrs. Inman: Cathy Boehner, Janice Clements, Nancy Ferguson, Janice Clarkson, Cheryl Bryand, Heather Peardon, Vera Peardon, Debbie Beaton, Beatrice Graham, Florence O'Connor and Meridee Pepler. The older Brownies welcomed the new Brownies with a lusty Grand Howl.

The Guides entered the auditorium singing the Guide song led by Captain Phyllis Warner and Lieutenant Leah MacDonald. Mrs. Inman, District Commissioner for Kings, presented Mrs. MacDonald with her Lieutenant's Warrant, after which the Guides sang "Bravissimo".

Mrs. Inman, presented badges to the following Guides, Campers: Gillian Cudmore, Carol Ferguson. Child Care: Anne McGowan, Judy Hughes. Cooks: Lorraine Fraser, Alinda Carpenter. Elenor Reddin. Health: Gillian Cudmore, Carol Ferguson, Lorraine Fraser, Barbara Ballem, Alinda Carpenter, Judy Hughes, Eleanor Reddin, Leona J. Sinclair, Barbara Ballum, Blanche Moyaert, Anne McGowan and Kathleen Stuart. Homemaker: Kathleen Stuart, Lorraine Fraser, Alinda Carpenter, Judy Hughes, Eleanor Reddin, Leona J. Sinclair, Barbara Ballum, Blanche Moyaert, Anne McGowan and Kathleen Stuart. Hostess: Kathleen Stuart, Lorraine Fraser, Alinda Carpenter, Laundress: Kathleen Stuart, Lorraine Fraser, Alinda Carpenter, Judy Hughes, Eleanor Reddin, Debbie Sinclair, Barbara Ballum, Little House Emblem: Kathleen Stuart. Needlewoman: Ieeen Stuart. Pioneer: Eleanor Reddin, Kathleen Stuart, Debbie Sinclair, Barbara Ballum. Skaters: Anne McGowan, Alinda Carpenter, Lorraine Fraser. Swimmers: Anne McGowan, Judy Hughes, Eleanor Reddin. Toymaker: Kathleen Stuart. Woodman (Tree): Debbie Sinclair.

First Class Pins were presented to Carol Ferguson and Gillian Cudmore.

Mrs. Inman congratulated Carel and Gillian for planning the program and also congratulated the new Brownies and Guides.

Mrs. George Warner announced that Mrs. George Inman has been appointed Divisional Commissioner for Kings County and that Mrs. John Hughes will be our new District Commissioner for Kings.

The meeting closed with taps.

MARY HAWORTH

Professional Help Needed For Solution To Problem

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Speaking from personal experience (without exaggeration) I am prompted to give my own answer to the mother who is concerned about her young daughter's embarrassing problem of facial hair.

The child is age 8, and schoolmates tease her about her "mustache." You advised the mother to consult a good doctor, cosmetician or druggist about the efficacy of a cream depilatory, as a possible remedy.

In my experience, depilatory is only a temporary remedy at best, and tends to make the facial fuzz more of a problem, progressively.

In my case it wasn't much of a problem, (the hair being light and fine), until I entered the teens, when the growth began to darken and I fought back with a tweezer. But the growth was wiry, due to tweezing damaging the roots (as a specialist told me years later).

About that time a friend in the cosmetics trade suggested a depilatory (just as you have). I took her advice and lived to regret it a million times over. I began with a lotion applied every 10 days, on a small area just under the chin. But each application expanded the area. Soon I was working on half my face and, eventually, on all of it. Within three years I was using the stuff every other day.

I was 19 when I started with the lotion. At 23, I left the United States for two years, to work overseas. There I was so embarrassed about my face (using the lotion every other day) that I never got close to people physically.

Imagine having a man touch your face and tell you that you need a shave! Well, that happened to me, and it wasn't exactly rewarding (Did I forget to say that the depilatory I used lent a continuing after-growth of stubble?)

Now, here I am, a few years older, a wad of money poorer and finally, thank heaven, in control of the problem. The only real solution is to get professional help from a specialist in electrolysis (which dissolves the roots of the stubble).

It isn't too expensive; depending, of course on the size of your bankroll, the urgency of your need and the extent of the problem. And it is a permanent cure. I don't have a beard any more. I hope you will transmit these notes to the child's mother.

The girl will grow up happier in all her relationships if she can have the facial hair permanently erased. Sincerely, E.G.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: A while back you answered a question concerning an 8-year-old girl's "mustache" by suggesting that a depilatory might solve the problem (if her doctor approves).

Because both my mother and I experienced many years of discomfort due to heavier-than-normal facial "down" (so-called), I am putting the facts at your disposal, for what they may be worth.

We both tried several depilatories, products of the best known cosmetics manufacturers. True, they removed the hair, but only superficially, meanwhile stimulating a coarser regrowth, it seemed. Also, some skins seem allergic to such applications. I, for example, suffered a long period of serious of serious skin rash due to this cause.

Later we heard of electrolysis, and after consulting our doctor, we both had electrolysis treatments. With each treatment, the growth was appreciably lessened, until finally we were entirely free of the difficulty.

If you can transmit this information to the child's mother, she may be spared grave psychological damage as she matures into womanhood. Abnormal hair growth on a girl's face can warp her whole life.

P.S.: Use care in selecting the specialist in electrolysis. Find an authorized, trained person. There are some who practise a "gyp" game. Very truly yours, S.R.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I would like to have information concerning the cause of falling hair in a male. What can be done to halt or slow down this condition? What is the best type of tonic or treatment? I would appreciate hearing from you through your column. T.D

DEAR T.D.: Your questions call for specialist answers, which you may find in Dr. Irwin I. Lubowe's book "New Hope for Your Hair" (E P. Dutton and Co., Inc., publishers). This book came out in 1960 (price $3.95). Dr. Lubowe is associate dermotologist with the Metropolitan Hospital center in New York City. M.H.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Oldsters Took Outings By Horse And Wagon

"I wouldn't say, Ellen, this is the best work for a farmer to be at this day of the year" James, husband of ours commented this morning. He was lifting with a shovel the earth left in the cellar in the wake of the mangel harvest, the same we had been wishing to have moved of late to add substance to the lawn border. Now a favorable twist of circumstance had given us the use of Jerry, a quiet horse of Rob's, to cart it to the exact spot... We smiled happily. What blessomings we should have come the spring! When dandelions came to the orchard, and cowslips opened down by the stream, we would also have red tulips, colorful hyacinths, and crocusi to feed our very "soul."

Peter appeared in the wide doorway of the "run."

"What are you doing?" he inquired curiously, peering into the shadows... The morning was sunny behind him, and the sky a winsome morning-blue. A little wind was whimpering in the garden.

"Candidly, I'm wasting my time" James grinned wryly.

"We're moving this earth, Dear, to put more cover on those bulbs we planted" we explained.

"For flowers" Peter commented.

"Yes. And the turnips not all gathered up yet. And this nice day slipping away from us!" James remarked drily.

"Well, there's your clay, Ellen — and good luck to you!" he smiled to us, when the last shovelful had been spread over the border. Smartly then the cart was returned to the cellar, and Jerry let to a near pasture. And the little truck drew away from the yard, bearing the farmers off to the fieldwork.

"Everybody's gone!" Peter said soberly. "Alex to school, and Mack... and everybody. Just mother and you and me left."

"And the kittens, and Seampie!" we reminded him.

We smoothed down the earth.

N.B. Couple's Anniversary Is Celebrated On P.E.I.

Some 40 guests assembled at the home of Mrs. J.A. Douglas, Norboro, to honor her daughter, Elma and her husband Albany Palmer of Lancaster, N.B., on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The family enjoyed a hot turkey dinner prepared and served by Mrs. Alex Douglas, Mrs. George Douglas, Mrs. Ray Douglas and Arlene Douglas. The wedding cake was made and decorated by Mrs. George and Mrs. Alex Douglas.

Eleanor, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Douglas, asked the Blessing. Pink and white streamers and autumn leaves were used in decorating.

Mrs. William Hayes played wedding music as the couple were escorted to a seat of honor by their attendants of 25 years ago, Miss Gladys Arthur of Summerside and Alex Douglas of Norboro.

Nancy and Debra Douglas carried in the gifts and the cards were read by Wendell Douglas.

During the evening the couple received a phone call from Mrs. Palmer's sister, Mrs. Elmer Barbour of Toronto, Ont.

Guests included their son Grant, of Lancaster, their son Barry, a student at Mt. Allison University, and his friend Elaine Campbell, a nurse in training at the Saint John General Hospital.

And then with his help went on to transplant some California Poppies. Garden comforts, we have found these to be, flowering demurely in sunny shades from the springtime throughout the summer, and on into the autumn, and continuing, with little attention on the part of the gardener, to appear year after year. The day warmed toward the noontide. A pretty blue haze shimmered over the far fields. So lovely it was, and summer-like. But a crow cawed from beyond the hilltop. It was a lor ly call. Had the last robins gone, we wondered?

Farm - folks of once, now city - dwellers came by to visit with us this evening. A companionable pair and interesting, who look back happily to those younger years spent on the farm. Warm their hearth was, and the home most hospitable. And busy days were theirs. But always they found time for a holiday - brief to be sure, but different and enjoyable. Perhaps when a seasonal work was ended in those young days, they would take an outing by horse and wagon, not to follow familiar paths, but to explore.

"Now I wonder what's at the end of this byroad?" he would say of a strange one, entering it at a fancy, learning thus to know the lie of the land of our Province, of other communities, of farms and the farming, to give them precious memories to review in this restless machine age we now know.

And the day passed by the sunset shades, and on into a night brightly moon - lighted.

"I wonder what weather tomorrow will bring?" James queries now from the old armchair

Until tomorrow — Diary — Good - night..... 5

Vows Exchanged In City Church

Vases of gold and mauve chrysanthemums adorned the altar of The Church of the Most Holy Redeemer recently, for the marriage of Agnes Irene Scully daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alam French of Panmure Island and Thomas Michael Sullivan son of Mrs. Sullivan, and the late Thomas Sullivan, of Roseneath.

The double ring ceremony was performed and the nuptial mass celebrated by Very Reverend F.J. Maloney, C.S.S.R.

During the ceremony appropriate hymns were rendered by Donna Nicholson Dix accompanied by Mrs. William Campbell.

The bride's dress was of pink brushed cotton lace over taffeta, her hat of white rayon velvet was a hand fashioned shirred cloche, her corsage an arrangement of white roses and she carried a mother of pearl prayer book a gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid was her sister Mrs. Guy Graham of Sturgeon, who wore a blue lace over taffeta fashioned in the same style as the brides.

Best man was William Sullivan of Halifax, N.S. nephew of the groom. Ushers were Gary and Tammy Scully.

Following the nuptial mass the bridal party, with relatives and friends attended a wedding breakfast at the Queen Hotel. The decorated bridal table, was centered with a three tier cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Toasts to the bride were proposed by William Sullivan to which the groom responded. William Sullivan also opened and read the various telegrams. Congratulatory telephone messages were received from relatives in California, Montreal and Sudsbury, Ont.

For a wedding trip to Nova Scotia and around the Cabot Trail the bride chose a forest green knitted suit. While in Halifax the couple were tendered a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sullivan, 3196 Veith Street attended by thirty five guests who presented them with gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan will reside at 32 Bayfield Street, Charlottetown. Mr. Sullivan is employed with the Department of Highways, and Mrs. Sullivan with the Dept. of Health and Welfare.
