THE MISSIONARIES.
 They leave the land, by nameless ties Around their hearts entwined, Their souls with questions zeal to light The heathen's darkened mind.
 They turn from friends, from home and all,
 And cross the surging wave,
 To guide the idol worshippers,
 To him who died to save.
 Yes, oceans vast they fearless cross, Salvation to proclaim,
 And lives afar have caught the sound,
 That speaks a Saviour's name.
 And Africa's frowning wastes they tread,
 Of Jew's name to tell,
 And hark! the lips of Africa's sons, His praise loudly swell.

They came under the burning rays,
 Of India's tropic skies,
 To plant the banner of the cross, Where Pagan temples rise.
 And to the sons of India now Their idol Gods forsake, And at the glorious gospel sound,
 From error's night awake.
 Who thus to them are all the ties,
 Of home or native land have fled,
 And thus to toil in foreign climes, Are called by Christ's command.
 What heed they, though all hearts should frown, If he on them should smile?
 What heed they though their lot is cast,
 In ocean's darkest fold.

What heed they, for they know that here, When all their toils are o'er,
 A crown of glory shall be theirs,
 In Canaan's peaceful shore.
 Oh! I doubtly bright will be that crown, For all their labours here,
 The souls and sufferings here will add,
 But jewels to their crown.

MISCELLANEOUS.
CURE FOR A CANCER.—Having heard of the following cure of this most afflicting disease, on such authority as leaves no doubt of its truth, we will do our duty to lay before the public—A lady who for several years had been afflicted with a cancer extending all over her breast and stomach, all other means having failed, was advised to try the effect of a poultice of what is termed carrot dock, a small long-rooted variety which grows with a long small root and also to drink a tea made from it to be sweetened with the syrup of sarsaparilla, she did so, and in a very short time, the whole surface of the skin with the cancerous ulcers assumed an appearance, indicative of healing, except a small deep spot on the ribs of her left side and in a few weeks, was with that exception covered with a skin—having before that for a long time been in a condition of the most painful excoriation.
 In about two months after, all the rest of the skin healed, and she is at all appearance well. In taking of the poultice from the deep spot above alluded to, the cure came out accompanied by a report similar that made by the uncuring of a battle of porrie. From this period but a few weeks elapsed before that part also was healed over. It has now been two years since this cure was effected, and no symptoms as yet have manifested, nor any apprehension of the return of the cancer. The tea made from the dock was continued to be drunk some time after the cure.

"We know two varieties of small-leaved dock, the one has a short root with many lateral ones—the other a long slender one without laterals—the latter is the kind to be used.—American Farmer." POLITICAL PARADOX.—Acts of Parliament will afford increased provisions, but not food.

THE DUELLO.—The following mysterious account appears in the Constitutionnel:
 "The lie du Roi, a part of the domain of Neuilly, was last week the theatre of a mysterious event. At about ten o'clock in the morning, a boatman, in a state of great excitement, presented himself to the Commissary of Police of the quarter, and made the following deposition: About an hour ago, as I was standing on the bank of the river near my boat, a carriage drove up, from which there alighted six gentlemen, remarkably well dressed, of whom three wore the decoration of the Legion of Honour. They appeared very gay. 'My friend,' said one of them to me, 'will you row us over to the Island?' I certainly, said I, and ten minutes afterwards they all landed there. They then began to look more serious, I wanted to retire, but they desired me to stay, and while two of them remained behind to watch me, the others walked on to a group of trees, on the other side of which they stood. I then found that they had come to fight a duel. A revolver was covered, and the chick of them one against the other while the fight lasted, which was but for a very short time. Presently the dead body of one of the parties was brought down to my boat. He had received a sword-thrust right through his breast, and was covered with blood. According to the little I could gather from the conversation I heard, the duel arose out of a quarrel which occurred at the last masquerade ball at the Opera.
 The accident had the appearance of military men executing their orders. I took them back across the Seine. They placed the corpse in their carriage, and drove off to Paris. The Commissary of Police immediately instituted an inquiry, but hitherto he has not had the appearance of any investigation. His inquiries have been without result."

INTERPRETATION OF DREAMS.—There is a new guide to the interpretation of dreams. An English paper thus puts it:—"To dream of a million ston your neck is what you may expect, you get an extravagant wife. To see a pile in a dream betoken a wedding, because where you find apples, you may reasonably expect to find pears. To dream that you are lame is a token that you will get into a lubbie. When a young lady dreams of a coffin, it betokens that she should instantly discontinue lacing her stays tightly, and always wear her neck and head in wet weather. If you dream of a clock, it is a token that you will gain credit—that is, a tick. To dream of fire is a sign that if you are wise, you will see the lights in your house are out before you go to bed. To dream that your nose is inflamed, that you had better leave off brandy and beer. The great sign of a walking bear denotes a journey that will make you bootless."

A most astonishing cure of a Bad Breast by Holloway's Ointment and Pills—Mrs. Holt, of Quebec, was for a long time afflicted with a bad breast, every thing medical aid could do to cure her was unavailing; indeed, it became much worse, and she finally gave up, feeling resigned that the only hope of saving her life consisted in having the breast cut off. She determined to wait a short time to consider, and a sister of the sufferer who called in brought a quantity of Holloway's Ointment and Pills, which she insisted on using, but soon after this was continued for one and a half months, first she so much improved, she was induced to return home, and at the expiration of six weeks, her breast was completely cured, and has remained well ever since.
