

The Crushed Masher.

A bright young Cincinnati lady, on her way from Columbus to this city recently, was greatly annoyed by the actions of a train masher. She tried to avoid him, but he finally succeeded in thrusting himself upon her, and opened a conversation. "You will excuse me, I hope," he said, "but if I can render any service I shall be glad to do so."

Two Opinions.

A rich old fellow died, and when his estate was being settled up his widow was called in to give some testimony regarding the will. "Mrs. Miller," said the attorney, handing her the will, "will you be kind enough to look at that document and tell me if it is correct as far as you know?"

The Chinese Minister.

If the Chinese minister to Washington is half so successful in the demands he is said to be about to prefer for indemnity for outrages perpetrated on his countrymen in America as have been the representatives of "civilized" powers in their claims upon the Chinese treasury for offences by Celestial hoodlums on the persons of white people taking up their residence in the Flowery Kingdom in pursuit of the wealth that their yellow skinned fellow creatures seek in the United States, that country will have a good sized bill to pay.

A Generous Man.

Philip D. Armour, the Chicago pork king, is a very generous man. A clergyman in whom he had confidence one day asked him for $30 to relieve a poor woman whose new-born baby was lying naked in her one room where there was neither fire nor food. The money was at once handed to the parson, who afterwards returned it with a note saying that he had "discovered that the woman was of ill-repute and the child the result of sin."

Couldn't See It.

A Pine Bluff lady subscriber has written a novel in nine chapters, entitled: "What shall we do with the men?" and desires us to publish it. No, darling, no; let the men alone honey; that's the way. Let all women go to heaven, where they belong, and leave the earth entirely to the men, sweetness, who want it all to themselves. No, sugar, we can't publish your novel.

A Strange Dream.

One morning a drinking man told his family of a strange dream he had. In it he saw three cats—one fat, one lean, and one blind. He was anxious to know what it meant. His boy answered promptly; "I know what it means. The fat cat is the landlady who sells you the drink; the lean cat is mother; and the blind cat is you."

MANHOOD

How Lost, How Restored. We have recently published a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the medical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cts or two postage stamps. The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically. This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land. Address: THE CULVERWELL MEDICAL CO. 41 Ann St., New York. Post Office Box 450.
