

Lord Nelson's Daughter.

Mrs. Horatia Nelson Ward has just died in England in the eighty-first year of her age. The London Times says that the deceased was Lady Hamilton's little daughter Horatia, the same whom her reputed father, Lord Nelson, bequeathed with his dying breath to the care of his country, she spent her infancy and childhood at Merton. In the garden of Lady Hamilton's villa there was a little streamlet (which she called "the Nile"), and the pond, dammed up and crossed by a rustic bridge. The banks of this pond were the little child's play-ground. Lady Hamilton continued to live at Merton for three years after Nelson's death, when pecuniary difficulties overtook her, and she went abroad, and ultimately died in poverty. Her daughter Horatia married the Rev. Philip Ward, sometime vicar of Tottenham, Kent, but was left his widow about twenty years ago.

Great Expectations.

The Government at Ottawa is being hauled over the coals because the N. P. has not implemented all the fine promises made in its name by enthusiastic advocates. Fault is being found with it because seven half penny loaves are not being sold for a penny, the three-hooped pot has not ten hoops and it has not been a felony to drink small beer. But this is not the fault of the N. P. People must be reasonable. Native industry has been given a fair chance to compete with foreign industry and is rapidly putting itself in a position to hold its own, while no one can deny that the country is in a more prosperous and contented state now than it was before the N. P. was adopted. If all the young ladies imagined that they would be instantly married, if school boys expected that current tarts would come down in price, if civil service employees expected to get double pay, if bad poets looked for a demand for their poems, as soon as the N. P. became law, and every man that was hungry felt sure of seeing roast pigs running about the street with forks in their sides, waiting for people to eat them, it was inevitable that there would be disappointment. There is such a thing as expecting too much, and this seems to have been the case in regard to the N. P.

Having His Money's Worth.

They had just the loveliest sleighing in Philadelphia all last week, says an exchange, and a young Keatup was out enjoying it all one afternoon. When he drove into the stable, oh! but the man was mad. He conveyed when he looked at the horse, and danced around, and as Uncle Remus says, "he cut, he did." "Look at that boss!" he wailed. "Look at that boss! Ain't a dry hair on him, an' he's high ready to drop. That's a pretty lookin' way to bring in a boss. Nee man you are to let a good horse to!" Young Keatup was fairly astonished. "Man alive!" he yelled, picturing his amazement in his voice, "and what did you expect when I hired him? When a horse is costing me an even $5 an hour, he's got to keep moving, you understand. When I'm paying out more than 8 cents every minute, I can't afford to let a horse jump up against a fence while he figures up the cost of the United States for 1880. I did my level best to keep my whip warm, and then I couldn't get more than $4.25 an hour out of him. I didn't hire the horse to rest him. Now, if you had only charged 15 cents an hour, I would have had the horse fed every thirty minutes while I was out, and I would have rocked him to sleep in my arms, wrapped him up in blankets, and laid him in the sleigh and hauled him back to the stable myself. That is the difference, you see, Mr. Silkracker. Here's your money, and I want the same horse, or a better one, next Saturday afternoon, if the snow holds on."

And There the Case Dropped.

Not even a lawyer, however skilful in cross examination, can make a witness tell the truth, providing the witness wishes to evade it. It is impossible to put a question in such exact language that it will demand the desired answer. Indeed, nothing is more true than the statement of Telleysraad, that language is intended to cover up one's thoughts, and no one ever practiced the principle contained in the statement more than Telleysraad himself. It was necessary on a certain occasion in court to compel a witness to testify as to the way in which a Mr. Smith treated his horse. "Well, sir," said a lawyer with a sweet and winning smile—a smile intended to draw all suspicions as to ulterior purposes—how does Smith generally ride a horse? The witness looked up innocently and said: "Generally a-saddle, sir, I believe." "But, sir, what gate does he ride?" The importunate witness answered: "He never rides a gate at all, sir, but I've seen the boy's ride every gait on the farm." The lawyer saw he was on the track of a Tartar, and his question was very insinuating. "How does Mr. Smith ride when he is in company with others? I demand a clear answer." "Well, sir," said the witness, "he keeps up with the rest if his horse is able to." The lawyer was by this time almost beside himself, and asked: "And how does he ride when he is alone?" "I never know," was the reply; "I was never with him when he was alone." And there the case dropped.

Considerable discussion takes place atated periods relative to disarmament in Europe, but the manufacture of life-destroying weapons goes on with as much vigor as ever. At the present moment Krupp's great factory is inundated with orders, and the workmen are kept busy night and day, and as quick as they complete old orders new ones pour in. Today the king of cannon-builders has on hand the making of a hundred large guns for Roumania, seven hundred for Greece, fifty for Sweden, a hundred and twenty for Holland, four hundred for Italy, and five hundred for Turkey. There is certainly no sign of disarmament discernible here.

The public debt of the United States is $98 per head; of Spain, $154; of France, $136; of England, 117; of Holland, $114; of Mexico, $69; of Switzerland, $2.

A Plea for Simple Weddings.

In all ceremonies there is a great deal in fashion; and it occurs to us that if a few people of consequence would set the fashion of simplicity in marriage ceremonies, they would be doing a great service to the community. In many memorable instances the higher classes have instructed a noble example by leaving instructions that their funerals should take place without pomp or parade, and already we see the good results which have followed, funerals among the middle class being as a rule much more simple than formerly, and consequently to our minds, much more solemn. Births, deaths and marriages, are three events in human life usually classed together, and which the statistician records, and the politician notes; but marriage is the only one of the three in which the chief actors are voluntary and conscious agents. Surely it is the most solemn act of man or woman, and properly considered, is little allied to pomp and festivity. Think what it is to assume, in a large measure, the responsibility of another's happiness and well-being! And this is really what in marriage we may be said to do. Surely a solemn, impressive ceremony with simplicity of attire is more in harmony with the occasion than such pageantry and festivity.—Chambers' Journal.

We can all appreciate the feelings of Sidney Smith in the following story: When he called on a certain great personage he was ushered into a room which had mirrors on all sides. Wherever he went he saw himself reflected, and when he came away he said he had spent an hour in the company of about a dozen of the best clergymen of the Church of England.

The Rev. H. B. Cook became more popular in two minutes at Slaterville, N. Y. by jumping into a swollen river stream and rescuing a drowning boy than by his two years of preaching in the town.

Articles for the Astley belt contest have been signed, and it is definitely settled that the race shall take place in England. Rowell, holder of the belt, and Weston, the challenger, have signed articles.

At the recent ball at the Elysée in Paris, President Gravy scandalized society by wearing no decorations, and shaking hands freely, after the fashion of the President of the United States.

The bill imposing a penalty for refusing to admit colored children to the public schools has become law in New Jersey.

George Stevenson, the inventor of the locomotive, was born June 9, 1781, and it is proposed in England formally to celebrate his next birthday.

Correspondence.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—I clip from the Patriot newspaper, which accidentally came into my hand, under the head of "A Mistaken Notion," the following:

"The measure under consideration is a bad one. I believe that, if it becomes law it will do harm and no good. I am glad to see hon. gentlemen speaking and voting against it, but as the City Council, which is supposed to represent a majority of my constituents ask for it, I must do violence to my convictions, and support it."

Now Sir, I distinctly deny that any such words were ever uttered by me. Every line in the clipping is in inverted commas, thus attempting to make the public believe that it is a true verbatim quotation of what I said, whereas, I am convinced that twenty-five members of the House of Assembly, at least, will say that it is the reverse of fact.

On the Income Tax Bill, or rather a Bill to amend a Bill that passed last year to make the Income Tax clause and others workable, I spoke to the effect that personally I was opposed to an Income Tax of any kind, but that as those of my constituents who would, undoubtedly, come under its operation, had pronounced themselves in favor of it, and, as the City Council, their representatives, were also in its favor, and as no petition had been presented to me as one of their representatives against it, I was prepared to sustain the chief objects of the Bill. That I had not come into the Assembly to be the representative of the views of George W. DeBolis, but of the views of a majority of those who made me their representative in the Assembly.

I now tell you, Mr. Editor, and through you, the people of this Province in general, that I would not remain the Representative of any constituency for twenty-four hours, who would introduce any Bill or measure of Legislation that I considered unconstitutional or contrary, in any way, to strict justice: The Income Tax is a legitimate tax, and, if honestly carried out, a very proper one, but like so called Free Trade, it cannot, in my opinion, be properly carried out. Had I been asked specially to become a member of the Assembly, to impose an Income Tax upon the people of Charlottetown, I would have said No, positively!

As I would have said had I been asked to represent any constituency as a "Free Trader." The first, however, is strictly legitimate, the other is not, either in Canada or England, in the latter of which countries, although called a "Free Trade country, a coast guard is kept at an enormous expense to obliterate the really Free Traders of the kingdom.

In the interests of principle and of our common country I have abandoned friends, as well as a salary of sixteen hundred dollars per annum. I therefore think that I can hardly be looked upon as a man who lightly esteems that which he conceives to be just and right.

I am, Your obedient servant, G. W. DEBOLIS. Ch'town, March 31st, 1881.

A Warning.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—Permit me to suggest to the Post Office Inspector, that when the foreign mail arrives at Cape Traverse before noon, it be sent to County Line a distance of only eleven miles, so that it may be brought in by the train, which passes there about three o'clock. The mail would be ready for delivery there about six o'clock, instead of the following morning, as it often is. This is brought over partly by roads to town.

Mr. Gladstone, says Labouchere, in the London Times, now bears a black skull cap in the House of Commons. This somewhat ages him, but, I think, improves his appearance. I am afraid, however, that his recent accident greatly shook him, for his voice does not seem to me so strong as it was.

Local and Other Items.

RUMOR SWARMY, of St. John, has gone to Rome.

Two tons of boots and shoes were received by a Montreal Great West.

Snow was from three to four feet deep in New York State on the 28th of March.

HON. J. C. POPE, Minister of Marine and Fisheries left Ottawa on Saturday for New York.

The brig, Florence and Isabella owned by R. F. Quirk, Esq. sailed from Liverpool for this port on Saturday.

They are to have a Driving Park at Montserrat; $3,000 is the amount required for it, and $16,000 was secured in one day.

A ST. JOHN SPORT had a narrow escape from death by poisoning on Thursday. He took an overdose of laudanum to contract the effects of liquor.

A SOCIETY for the prevention of cruelty to animals has been established in St. John. N. S. Mr. Sears is president and R. Chipman Smith is secretary.

A SPREE storm raged in New York and New Jersey on the 30th inst. The streets in several towns were flooded and great damage was done along the coast.

The people of Sussex, N. B., are considering the question of taking stock in a cotton mill, to be situated in the city of Miramichi. The mill will shortly be started at Windsor, N. S.

HAY.—Advice of the 20th, from Boston, give the following quotations:—Choice Eastern or Canada at $1.50 to $2.25; strong but not so fine, at $1.10 to $1.90; and swale at $1.20 to $1.60.

His Excellency the Governor General attended divine service at St. Andrew's Sunday morning, afterwards calling on the Hon. J. C. Pope, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who has been appointed "High Commissioner of late—Ottawa Free Press, 25th ult.

A FALL in milk occurred on King-st. Monday. In turning the corner of Great George and King streets, a wheel broke, and the express wagon, and several of the cans fell to the ground. A was at the spot. There will result a case of water seeking its own level.

The Quebec Mercury mentions a report that David Kennedy, the well-known Scotch Vocalist, together with his wife and two daughters, were in the Opera House, on the 28th inst. They were seen in the music under Signor Lamperti, and frequented the Opera House.

A GENEROUS ACT.—It is said that before the Dynamite Bill was introduced, and while a general election was in prospect, the hon. member for West River sent one barrel of herring to be distributed among the poor of his district. The bait has, however, been thrown away.

Within the past year fifteen hundred residences have been built in the city of Denver, Colorado, and all are in demand, with rents so high that real estate is rapidly advancing. Many of the residents are wealthy. There is a general prosperity, and there is an expectation that this year will result in one hundred thousand within ten years.—Boston Traveller.

The butter business between America and Great Britain has proved a failure. Recently, large quantities of unsalable butter has been shipped to New York from Liverpool, and is said the English consumer prefers German butter to American or Canadian butter of inferior quality. This proves conclusively that Canadian dairymen should adopt the creamery system.

The Patriot says the following compliment to the new Chief Clerk in the Railway Superintendent's office:—Personally, I have nothing but good to say of Mr. McDonald. Our intercourse with him as a fellow-journalist has been peculiarly pleasant. We respected him for the intelligence and ability he displayed in conducting the Argus, and for his fidelity to the interests of his employer. He was a strong party man, but he was a fair party man, and as long as they fight fair we never complain of their hard hitting. We wish Mr. McDonald every success in his new career.

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

What About Those Boots?—It appears that last year the hon. member for West River was so often absent from his place in the Assembly that the messenger for the House were a pair of boots, and we may suggest to the committee which will be appointed for the purpose, that they not only "search the Journals of the Legislative Council," but that they also "sweep the floor diligently until they find it."

Local and Other Items.

LARGE cattle shipments are being made via Halifax.

SENATOR AND MRS. HOWLAK are in Kingston, Ont.

A $100,000 University is being planned in Montreal.

HON. MR. BLAKE was banqueted at Montreal on the 29th ult.

The James Duncan, owned by R. F. Quirk, Esq., arrived at Port Eads on the 28th ult.

The barque Caleno, owned by R. F. Quirk, Esq., sailed from Cardiff on the 14th ult. for Java.

A FALLING vessel at Jordan River, N. S., crossed two men—one fatally and the other seriously.

The dog nuisance is again complained of at the West End. There are no less than 20 specimens of the "canine persuasion" between the Drill Shed and the shore.

The "Factories Bill" has survived the attacks of its enemies; it will be liable to amend in a future bill at any moment to amendments and rain.

WALLACE ROUS has challenged Warren Smith to a single wall contest for $1,000 a side. He also extends similar offers to Hosmer, Riley and Courtney.

GOOSE-SHOOTING EXTRAORDINARY.—A celebrated sportsman, who has been in the country recently shot, in Trandrie Bay, seven wild geese out of a flock of nine with one discharge of a No. 12 breech-loader. This is held on the big guns. Transatlantic, best this if you can.

The Legislature of Wisconsin has passed a bill prohibiting treating. It provides that any person who shall hereafter ask another to drink at his expense, or any person consenting to drink at another's expense, shall be liable to arrest and punishment. When the bill was introduced, it was referred to as a senseless and impracticable idea, and nobody thought it would become law. It has only attracted attention since it has passed.

A PAPER by R. W. Emerson, on his personal impressions of Thomas Carlyle, made up from his unpublished letters written at the time of his first visit to England, will appear in "Scribner" for May. The publication is made by special arrangement with Mr. Emerson and the Massachusetts Historical Society, before which the paper was read, and in the minutes of which it is to be printed after its appearance in "Scribner."

The market for the last week, was fair. Prices as follows: Best No. 6 to 12 cents; No. 8 to 10 cents; Lamb, 5 to 9 cents; Goose, each, 30 to 60 cents; Turkey each $0 to $1.50; Ducks 25 to 30 cents; Butter, fresh, 24 cents; Butter, salt 16 to 18; Eggs 9 to 11 cents; Hay 35 to 40 cents; Oats 43 to 45 cents; Seed, 50 to 60 cents; Potatoes 14 to 16 cents; Flour $2.50 to $3.00; Canned, $3.25 to $3.50; Pork, 20 to 30 cents; Pork (canned) 5 to 6; do (small), 7 to 10 cents.

The Boston Silver Plating Company is now prepared to do all kinds of Gold and Silver Plating, such as knives, forks, spoons, cake tins, fruit stands, tea sets, watches and jewelry of every description. The company's instruments of every description. All plated ware repaired in the best manner.

Straw work handles, dashers, etc., at N. B.—Every job warranted to give entire satisfaction or no charge made. Shop opposite the A. House.

P. O. Box 219, Charlottetown, (ap 1 wk 3m)

With regard to the statement recently put forth by a city contemporary, and repeated with malicious intent by the Sunmeride Journal, to the effect that the EXAMINER PUBLISHING COMPANY shouldered a debt of $4,000 due by Mr. J. H. Fletcher, we have to say that we are in possession of the smallest particle of truth. We have the best of reasons for knowing that any statement of this kind, in regard to Mr. Fletcher's financial standing in this community, at the time he gave up control of the paper, is wickedly and maliciously untrue.

The city companies, together with the 52nd Battalion Band, paraded last Thursday night for inspection by the Brigade Major. They turned out strong and looked remarkably well. The Brigade Major made a complimentary speech, praising and commending the band and the companies, with which he seemed quite satisfied. He addressed the men on the matter of drill and discipline, and stated that there was a likelihood of a camp being called later during the coming summer. After inspection he presented the prizes won by Major Morris' Battery in shifting ordinance and big gun competition, via

In Big Gun Competition. Gunner Officer, 1st Prize—Silver Cross Gunz and gold embroidered Badge. Capt. Irving—Gold embroidered Badge. Gunner Palmer—Gold embroidered Badge. Shifting Ordnance Competition. $1 each to the Detachment of 20 men.

STRANGE CONDUCT OF A P. E. MEN.—Yesterday afternoon, as the train on the intercolonial was leaving St. Ignace, a passenger from Prince Edward Island, giving the name of H. C. Corbett, suddenly sprang from one of the cars, making a complete somersault in the air, and fell into the snow alongside the track. The conductor, Mr. McKenna, immediately left the train, and returned in search of the man, but although the marks of where he struck were visible in the snow, the man himself was nowhere to be found. People from the train followed up and down the track a distance of over two miles, but without seeing any signs of the missing passenger. At the time the man jumped the train was going at the rate of thirty miles an hour, and it was determined that he was not instantly killed. Corbett was on his way to Manitoba, and is said to have had a large sum of money on his person. His baggage is now in the care of the baggage men at South Quebec.—Quebec Chronicle, March 20.

Corbett has since turned up all right.

ABOUT 8 a. m., on Friday, a prominent agricultural agent residing at one of our principal hotels, was awakened from sleep and informed that Mr. Holman, of Summerside, wished to see him. He dressed quickly, and going downstairs, learned that Mr. H. had left to catch the train for Charlottetown at 8.15. The agent hurried after him, arriving at the station just as the conductor was calling "all aboard." He jumped into the train, and, after a short stay, returned to "Holman" at "Holman" which the passenger mistook for a cry of "Holla me!" "Holla me!" After knocking the above down, "Holla me!" a woman came running up upon the box of an elderly gentleman with a large nose, our agent reached the baggage car, where he was brought to a standstill by a daily wassup upon the agent's stomach, which day it was, and he jumped off in time to take a back street for the hotel, where he remained for an hour and three quarters, until, driven forth by the passing of a new lady, he hastily merged and sought the breakfast room, muttering curses on the heads of bank clerks, postal officials, and the whole legal fraternity.

A RATHER good joke, says the Pioneer, was last week got off on a professional pedestrian from of the neighboring provinces, who has been on the island a good while trying to get up a match. Some days he wrote a challenge to him in Charlottetown, signed "P. Doyle," and standing on the beach (Doyle) was willing to walk against him from 12 to 72 hours, and at any time and place for any sum that may be agreed upon. The pedestrian, who was a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst. in reference to a cornet, and training up to the game of the game, and the apparent good fortune, and at the unexpected maturing of his plans, telling his friends in Charlottetown that he had "struck it at last." He immediately wrote back to his supposed rival to refer to Charlottetown to have the necessary arrangements completed, while he inserted a notice in the EXAMINER of the 23rd inst