Approximately 30 men sat down to supper at the March meeting of the Men's Club, St. David's United Church. The business session opened with a hymn. A group of visitors from the Montague Club were introduced, also new members for Georgetown. The Georgetown Club received its charter from the Moderator. The Rev. The president, Mr. Harry Yorton, also addressed the newly-formed Men's Club, gave a special vote of thanks to the men for the splendid showing they made on their initial appearance as a choir, on Sunday, March 1st. This choir shows great promise, and its future progress will be watched with keen interest and pride. Gratitude was expressed to Mr. Guy Hemphill, a member of the club, who built a large table and presented it to the Church Hall. The meeting closed with a hymn, followed by the Mizpah Benediction.

Education Week Observed At St. Theresa's School

Education week offers another opportunity to awaken a greater educational interest in the public mind, and to focus the attention of all citizens on the important business of education. On Wednesday afternoon, March 4th, St. Theresa's School had "open house" and a large number of parents and ratepayers took advantage of this invitation to visit their school, to examine their educational system and help in its development. When the visitors came to the Senior classroom, they were reminded again that "Education is Everybody's Business", as this motto was displayed at the front of the classroom on a neat poster, the work of Marie Kickham, grade VIII. The first class work to be observed was Public Speaking Gerard Trainor, grade IX, presided, and after extending a cordial welcome to the priests, Sisters and other guests, he announced that the topic for this week's Public Speaking class was Rural Life. He called upon the boys of the grade X class — Merlin Gormley, Brendon Dunphy and Frankie Shreanan, who spoke on the place the rural population holds in any country, and the ill effects of the exodus of so many rural people to urban centres. Other speakers from grade IX and X were — Anna Evans, Brenda Fraught, Mary Curran and Jeanette Kenny. After the speeches on rural life, every member of the class took part in a Pageant which was very instructive. While the boys of grade VI were getting dressed in their costumes for their Canadian History playette, George Smith and Jane Curran recited a poem together. A Canadian history lesson on the explorations of (Sir) Alexander MacKenzie was next presented. The teacher questioned the class on the life and work of this great explorer, and traced the routes followed on a large map of Canada which was drawn on the chalk board on the side wall of the classroom. When the class had followed Alexander MacKenzie to the Bella Coola River in British Columbia, two Indian chiefs with Alexander MacKenzie and his men entered and presented the playette on the last part of his journey. Edward Smith played the part of Alexander MacKenzie. Other Playettes were: Gavan Kenny MacKay; John Curran one of MacKenzie's men; Indian chiefs, Tom Kenny and Gerald Campbell. Along the side of the classroom there was a mural on Life in Holland painted by the pupils of grades VI and VII. On the display board there were a number of drawings by grades VI, VII and VIII, and Composition work of grades IX and X. In the primary room, the art work of the pupils gave the room a cheerful appearance. A gay blackboard border together with spring flowers window decorations added much color to the room. At the back of the class there was a display of pupils' handwriting and language work. On the same board the grade IV pupils had built up a picture showing different land and water forms. The grade I pupils read and explained the story "Little Quack" from their reader. Our New Friends. A dramatization of the story "Three Little Pigs" by the grade II class very readily held the attention of the visitors. ## Stresses Importance Of Balanced Farm Economy

The only way to farm in this country is to grow a lot of everything," stated Mr. Harvey Douglas, Liberal member for Second Kings in advocating a program of balanced farming during his speech on the Draft Address Thursday night. Mr. Douglas was speaking about a proposal made a year ago by the Leader of the Opposition concerning the establishment of a Government sponsored big hatchery and the resulting embarrassment that would have been felt had the scheme been followed. "The farmer can raise his own pig and feed and make a profit," continued Mr. Douglas and he suggested that instead of talking about vacant farms the farmers should buy the land to grow feed. "The land can be purchased at a low price," he stated and he said that last year he purchased 219 acres at $10.00 an acre. Mr. Douglas pointed out that in a program of balanced farming the farmer can always be in a comfortable position. "Divine Providence sees to it that there is always a demand for some farm products," he stated as he recalled the booming pulp wood industry of two years ago when potatoes were selling at rock bottom prices. He recalled the advice of a wealthy farmer who said, "Stand still while every body else runs." "The time to buy is when things are cheap," said Mr. Douglas as he pointed out that the pig industry is coming back strong as the result of a great many farmers giving up when prices were poor last year.

Mr. Douglas urged support of the Farm Marketing Board. "This Board is a step in the right direction," he stated, "and the people who realize that the money comes from the farmer and the fishermen should support it," he added. He spoke about the efforts of the dealers to destroy the Marketing Board and recalled an instance last fall when potatoes were shipping for $2.10 that a dealer came out in a newspaper story and said the farmer should be getting $1.25. Mr. H. W. Clay, Senior Livestock Fieldman for the Dominion Department of Agriculture came in for glowing praise from Mr. Douglas. "Mr. Clay has been giving good sound advice and if the world had listened to him they would be a lot better off," he stated. "Mr. Clay is seldom astray in his advice," he added. "He told us last fall that pigs would come back and I am glad I listened to him."

Mr. Douglas also spoke of the contributions of pioneer breeders like the Boswells and the Stewarts along with the Dominion Trophy winners towards the development of the swine industry in the Province. "There should be a road constructed from the Trans-Canada Highway to the Cold Storage buildings at Charlottetown," he stated. He added that he didn't think the City streets were constructed to carry loads of twenty tons. With regard to roads he congratulated the Minister of Public Works for laying down a hard surface road across St. Peter's Bay bridge. "We have our share of good roads in the Second District," he added. "Each District is given so much money for roads and it all depends how you spend it. We spent most of ours in building 66-foot wide clay roads and we get much more benefit than if we had spent all our money in a few miles of pavement."

He spoke about the benefits of Children's Allowances to small farmers and how difficult many people would find it to get along without this support. "Now it is possible for most kids to go to school until they are 15 or 16," he stated. With regard to education suggested that the requirements for a girl to enter hospital and train for a nurse be cut down. He felt that it was too much to expect a girl to spend two years in College and three more years in training before she could become an R.N. He suggested that a girl could spend another two years in College and become a doctor but on this point he was refuted by Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan.

During his address Mr. Douglas paid eloquent tribute to Dr. Roderick MacDonald of St. Peter's Bay who is now in his 96th year and still a practicing physician. The state of Bamba in the republic of India has a population of more than 35,000,000. The various types of hawks are identified by their sharp curved talons and strongly-hooked beaks.

Pioneers Of The East

(Dedicated to our Forebears) From Bridgetown's wharf where sails were furled, they slogged the muddy way. As Northward bound, they trudged along, the road to Peter's Bay. They paused upon the road's left turn, to overlook the hill. And trail that lead, along the brook and moss to Forest Hill. The time of year was early Spring, in Eighteen Sixty One.—When Dan and Ellen Reilly walked, along with their two sons; The one was six young months of age; the other's years were three.—As all filed down the moss-bog trail, towards yonder hill and trees. Their hearts were young, and spirits brave, and soul with love intoned. As they set out, strong and devout, to pioneer a home.—Out of the forest on the hill, with timbers stout and tall, That bowed to cracks, of sharpened axe, and natives homing call. Young Peter N. tho' three years old, watched o'er his brother Dave. While their fond parents labored hard, to feed, and clothe, and brave The hazards of the wooded land, beyond the bog and rill.—To build the home, from which we roamed, on Prince's Forest Hill. Eight other children blessed their life; and, eight, of Peter's own.—Were reared upon the homestead farm, of our Old Island Home; These generations saw the scenes, and felt the throbs and call.—To love and learn, and to improve, the living loil of all. As churches, schools, and homes improved, and social life enthralled.—From dances on the cabin logs, to breakdowns in the halls; And hogs no longer plague the roads; no trees away toward the rill; As tractors till the fertile soil, and cars race o'er the hill. While calmly sleep the pioneers, in their secluded crest; Close by the spire, of their desire, in labor ended rest; Where sleep dear ones, beneath God's Arc, and canopy of blue.—As bright beams shine, from domes divine,—to light the way for you. —Peter A. Reilly. Arlington, Mass. March 1, 1953. (*The author's parents who died in 1952).
