AN ISLANDER IN THE KLONDIKE. Michael Connolly Seeking His Fortune There - Interesting Extracts From Letters. A day or two ago Mrs. John J. Grimes, of No 47 Mary street, received a letter from her brother, Mr. Michael Connolly, who is seeking his fortune in the gold fields of Alaska. Along with the letter was some fine bits of gold, all amounting to thirty-two grams. Mr. Connolly went to Alaska from Seattle last April a year ago, since which time he has occasionally written to his sister, Mrs. Grimes.

Yesterday a reporter for the Sunday News called upon Mrs. Grimes, at her home at No 47 Mary street, and obtained several letters, which she had recently received from her brother. Seventeen years ago Mr. and Mrs. John Grimes moved to Charleston from Prince Edward Island, Canada. For some time past Mr. Grimes has been employed at the Charleston Iron Works, he being a skillful machinist.

Mrs. Grimes said that three years ago her brother Mike, then a strong, robust young fellow of 30 years of age, left his father's home on Prince Edward Island and went to Seattle, Washington, where he remained until April 1896. Then he decided to seek his fortune in the gold fields of Alaska.

It generally requires from four to six weeks for a letter to reach Charleston from Alaska. Mr. Connolly is at Sunrise City, in the celebrated Cook's Inlet. Mrs. Grimes received the following letter from her brother some weeks ago, dated May 5 from Sunrise City:

"I received your kind and welcome letter and was glad to hear that you were all well, as I am at present. Now, I suppose that I will have to tell you how I got along this last winter in Alaska. We have been shut from the world for about six months, if I may say so, but we had some magazines and novels to read. We would exchange with each other at first and finally started a library society and a few entertainments and so enjoyed ourselves very much, considering. We had just as fine a winter as we ever had at home, for we could work out every day. We were here just closed up in a box, surrounded by mountains. Two of us went up through the mountains, and were gone two weeks. We took a tent, snow shoes and sleigh along, and though we were mainly on a prospecting tour, we failed to locate anything. Then we came down again and put up about fifty cords of wood for different parties. That helped us to pass away the time. Our days are very short, but now they are long, being very short in winter we get about one hour's sun each day. We can see the sun as it passes the canyon in the distance. Some men live in their tents all winter, so you can judge what severe winters we have. We have from five to ten feet of snow all the winter. Some time ago an old miner was cutting off a stick of giant powder, when it exploded and blew off one of his hands, and blew out one of his eyes. About a month ago three men started out with the mail to meet the train Prince William's Sound. They had to cross over a glacier about ten miles long. They have not been heard of since. A party has been looking for them, but we think the glacier broke and buried them. A glacier, you know, is a large mountain of ice, and one full of deep holes and crevices.

"The boats are coming in now with the miners that went out last fall. The town is now beginning to look lively and people are pecking up their goods, getting ready to go mining up the creek. I am working a little myself and preparing for the summer.

"I met a man named John Bollen, who has been here over thirty years. He used to live on Prince Edward Island. He was glad to meet me. He is now working about thirty miles up the river.

"One of the most interesting letters that the reporter obtained was written from Sunrise City, October 4, 1897, and was received about the middle of last November:

"I am now in the cold north (Alaska), and am here to stay. Since I wrote to you last I have had an awful experience fighting against this fearful weather. I can't find space and words to tell you what I went through with. Our lives were in danger at every turn and death stared us in the face. We have been lost several times. We lost one member of our party up the Sunshine river. I am now in Sunrise City and expect to stay here all this winter. I am a property holder and will look after my interests. I struck here almost penniless, but today I own three claims, all of which I bought with gold I dug up. I have taken out a great deal of gold, and think that I have a good thing. I will remain here all winter and start to work on my claims next summer. This is my last letter this year, as the last boat leaves tomorrow, and we will not have any mail till next spring. We will hear nothing of the outside world, not even of the election. The weather is getting cold. I am building a log cabin with another young fellow, and we expect to have a big time eating, reading and sleeping. Wish you a merry Christmas, I must say goodbye.

"P. S.—You need not answer this letter until next March, as I will not be able to get it before then."

Yesterday little Miss Rosalie Grimes, a daughter of Mrs. Grimes, received the following letter from her "big Uncle Mike," as he calls himself. She has never seen her big uncle but she loves him just the same: "Dear Little Niece: I was very glad to receive a letter from you and was surprised to see how well you can write. I received the papers from you and was very glad indeed to get them, as reading matter is very scarce out here. There don't seem to be any newspapers coming or else no one is subscribing for them. I have not worked any at my claims this summer, as I am keeping a hotel for a friend, who has gone prospecting. He asked me if I would run his hotel until he returned. He has been gone over six weeks and I expect him back every day. You know he is looking out for me as well as himself. I am getting good wages but am anxious to go to mining again. Enclosed is some gold dust. I have sent it coarser than I intended. We get the gold so fine that it requires a glass to see it. This is just one dollar's worth, according to our prices. You can get more for it in Charleston."

Here is another received by Mrs. Grimes from her brother, the first of this month. The letter was written from Cook's Inlet on June 18.

"As we are at anchor in Cook's Inlet waiting for the incoming tide, I decided to write you a letter just to let you know that I am still alive. We are about twenty miles from home and expect to reach there tonight. I have no material to write more."—Charleston, S. C. Sunday News.

The Michael Connolly above referred to is a son of Joan Connolly, of this city. He left here about five years ago for Seattle and then went to Alaska. Mr. Connolly has received several letters from his son and also some gold nuggets.]

The London Times publishes a long letter on the financial situation in China. Among other things, the writer says the fresh fall in silver has wiped out the margin for hypothecation which remained out of the custom revenue. Continuing the letter says: "But China is raising a new loan in order to pay the balance of the Japanese indemnity before 1898."

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labor and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. A FORTUNATE ISLANDER.—An ex-sergeant of police in Vancouver named Haywood, a native of the western section of this province, who is said to have made a fortune in the Klondike is in Ottawa. Asked as to the chances of getting into the Klondike country this year, Mr. Haywood said: "The food supply is already pretty bad and should the boats now en route be unable to reach their destination the suffering will be intense. The stores were out of supplies before I left and coming down we passed two of the vessel stuck on bars. People are very foolish in making the attempt to get into the country at this season of the year, and it will be impossible to get in sufficient provisions to feed all now there through the winter."

Y. M. C. A.—The evangelistic meeting in Zion Church last night was well attended notwithstanding the counter attractions elsewhere. The song service led by Mr. Greenwood was enjoyed by all present. His solos were good especially the one "I shall know my Saviour by the print of the nails in His hands." Mr. Gale's text was from 2nd Cor 5-20. Now then we are ambassadors for Christ. His address sparkled with thoughts for the church member and professing christian. He said that no christian should ever be heard again saying to anyone "Do not look to me but look to Christ." People have a right to look to the man or the woman who professes to be a Christian and expect to find something of the likeness of Christ. If we are ambassadors we must live among the people to whom we are sent, we must fly the flag of the country to which we belong, we must go where we are sent, we must deliver the message as it has been given to us. Meeting again tonight in Zion Church at 7.30.

High Sounding Self Praise and posing as Philanthropists, are two things that have no place in our business system. We are in business to make money, and we have recognized and practiced from the start the principle that to attain this object the best way was to give satisfaction both in the quality of the goods sold, and the prices asked for them, for the public buys where it gets the best goods for the least money, and our constantly increasing business proves that we are able to meet this requirement. If there is any other house in this city that can show a larger or better assortment of New Fall and Winter Goods, or at lower prices than we are exhibiting in any of our departments, we don't know of it. All we ask is an inspection to help you draw your own conclusions; the goods and prices will do the rest.
