

The Daily Examiner, August 26, 1881.

A Knitting Factory.

In Georgetown, Sir Leonard Tilley suggested the establishment of a knitting factory. It strikes us that the suggestion is worthy of serious consideration.

Wages here are at least as moderate as elsewhere; and every good citizen who receives employment benefits the community at large.

To sum up: it is clear that the establishment of a knitting factory would benefit the sheep raising interest; it is at least probable that it would benefit the mercantile interest; purchasers could be no worse off, and an opening would be made for the profitable employment of some capital and some labor.

The Ministers.

The Ministers, accompanied by Senator Boyd and Thomas White, M. P., arrived at Digby, N. S., on Wednesday. They were enthusiastically welcomed, being heartily cheered and saluted by artillery.

The reception tendered to the Ministers and their friends at Yarmouth on the 24th, was most magnificent. An immense crowd met them at the Railway Depot, and cheered Sir Leonard and his friends to the echo.

Failure of the British Harvest.

The "Mark Lane Express" says:—"The past week's weather has damaged and jeopardized the harvest. Mildew is rapidly developing in the standing grain, and the cold nights and hot days are causing the grain that is in sheaves to sprout.

The "Standard" says:—"Since the harvest there has been a general rainfall almost daily up to Monday, and there is no longer any hope of a superior quality or condition of our crops."

Dissensions Among the Boers.

It is reported that dissensions have already broken out amongst the factions in Boer politics. The most important of the difficulties which have arisen have occurred at Potchefstroom. Such of the Boers as had been installed in office succeeded in taking possession of the Landroos, and refused to allow that official to take charge.

News of the Jeannette.

Captain Hooper, of the Arctic steamer Corwin, writes from St. Michael's, July 7th that he had learned from the natives definitely that nothing had been heard of anyone belonging to the Jeannette on the Siberian coast. The natives of Cape Serdze saw the Jeannette on her way north, and a party of Walrus hunters boarded her.

Speculation

ON ARTHUR'S ACCESSION TO THE PRESIDENCY.

There is a great deal of speculation in the United States, especially on the part of what are known as Administration Republicans, caused by the presence at Vice-President Arthur's house for the past few days, of a number of conspicuous adherents of the third term, including Grant, Cook, Logan, Cameron, Dimesy, Bismarck, Jones and Bliss.

Canada Pacific Railway Matters.

The Canada Pacific Railway Syndicate have disposed of ten million dollars of their bonds taken up at 82 1/2 by the Syndicate formed for the purpose, of which the Bank of Montreal is the leading member.

It is claimed that Maud S. has trotted in 2:08 at a private trial at Hartford, and Col. Stone is sure she will make 2:09 at the approaching meeting if the day is good.

LAUNCHED from the Shipyard of J. R. Bourke, Esq., Mount Stewart, on Tuesday last, a well-finished barkentine of 280 tons, copper fastened, to class 9 years in English Lloyd's. She is called the Elcho, and arrived in this city to-day, and will proceed to Point du Chene to load deals for Great Britain.

The Dynamite Council Announce its Fall Programme.

The Dynamite Council, at its meeting Tuesday afternoon in Third Avenue, drew up and approved a proclamation setting forth its attitude as a Council of Irish nationalists, and its intentions in the way of blowing up British merchant vessels after Sept. 1st.

"On the main question of Irish nationality and a manly stand-up fight in Ireland for national independence, it was decided that it was the Irish in Ireland that had to decide that question. If they decided they would have no fight, and if they showed the world that the slavery had so far entered their souls that they aimed at nothing but the attainment of what could be got by Parliamentary agitation, then it was proper for the exiled Irish to do anything they thought proper to strike down the enemy of Ireland.

"The one patent fact that can be met with in Castle Garden any day of the year—of Irish girls of from 16 to 20 years of age coming to a foreign land, alone and unprotected, to earn money to help a father and mother at home to pay rent to a landlord—is a thing that should arouse the Irish race to return that 'vengeance' to England that brings such destruction upon the young women of Ireland in foreign lands; and that not alone should Irishmen grasp the fires of hell, but that they should drag down the lightning of heaven if they could, and hurl them into the face of the enemy of their country.

"It is a question of certainty that England aims at depriving the Irish people of all means of fighting her successfully in Ireland; and it is a question of doubt if the Irish people are able to fight England successfully in Ireland at the present day. But there is no question whatever about the Irish race all over the world being able to fight England, and it is to this manner of fighting that this convention, after due deliberation, has determined to direct the attention of the Irish race.

"England, even in her late legislation, has shown a desire to see the Irish people rooted out of Ireland, for she has a clause in that sham Land Bill which gives legal encouragement to the people to quit the country. That desire has ever predominated in the English mind, and it leaves the Irish to day in a position to bring England to her knees if they are manly enough to act like men. The Irish race are scattered all over the world. England's flag floats in every harbor of the world. The Irish people could destroy it wherever it floats, and thus pay back that 'vengeance' with which England thanked God she had rooted the Irish people out of Ireland. Take for example this port of New York. The Irish of New York could, in any one night, take every ship floating that English flag and burn it into the deep; the Irish could do the same in Halifax, in Quebec, in Melbourne, in Sydney, in Cape Town, in San Francisco, and in every other place. The men of the convention in speaking this way are not entering into the question of international law; they have only before them the question of freeing Ireland, independent of all laws and all questions that bind them to any other duty. Whenever the question arises in any country of the duty of the Irish people to live in it if they are able to answer that duty with their lives in its defense. The convention has decided that belligerents do not generally commence their campaign by attacking the strongest and best fortified places of the enemy, and while it would be a grand thing for the Irish people to commence by destroying the warships of England, it is not at all incumbent on them to commence that way. It is thought just as well to commence at the work that is most easy to accomplish, and by the time a few hundred English merchant ships will be destroyed, the world may witness the beneficent sight of all the shipping merchants and insurance companies of England presenting a petition to Gladstone to reconsider the Irish question.

"The convention regrets that at present the existing constitutions of Irish societies throughout America bind the bodies so that they cannot act in union in any work for Ireland. While the individual members are nobly inclined for union for Ireland they are tied down by rules and regulations that prevent any kind of united action. This convention will assist the Irishmen in Ireland and England to work, and will for the present depend on the good will and assistance of the individuals belonging to the several societies to promote work and promote union. A union gathering will take place at Jones' Wood on Monday, the 29th of August. This is to be held under the auspices of the I. R. B. (Irish Revolutionary Brotherhood) where the proceedings of this convention will be publicly ratified by the I. R. B., the Fenian Brotherhood, the Skirmishers, and all the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick.

"The convention express the opinion that after the 1st September it will be well for all peaceable people to avoid patronizing ships that sail under the protection of the English flag. As the work of the future will be necessarily secret, it is deemed well to avoid giving the names of the officers, and parties wishing to assist in the work, or wishing to form arches, clubs or camps, will address either the Secretary of the Fenian Brotherhood, Post Office Box 3,821, the Secretary of the I. R. B., Post Office Box 3,587, or the Secretary of United Irishmen, Post Office Box 3,849."

O'Donovan Rossa reported this proclamation to a meeting of the I. R. B., which was held later in the day at Academy Hall, and it was ratified. The work of the Dynamite Council is now ended, and the members have dispersed all over the country.

A second-class car on the Canada Pacific Railway was left standing on a down grade with brakes down, at Carleton Place, where the balance of the train was being shunted. The car contained some seventy shantymen returning to the city from up the river. A freight car was standing some 100 yards off on the same track. One of the occupants of the second class car unwittingly let go the brake, the car as a result starting at a swift pace down the grade and colliding with the freight car; it made a loud crash, damaging the latter car considerably. The shantymen, who were all more or less shook up by the collision, blamed it on the train hands and were going to clear out the station when it was discovered that it was one of their own number who had perpetrated the act.

MISSING—We have been informed by T. Adams, of New London, that his brother—Captain Edward Adams—sailed from St. John's, Newfoundland, with the schooner "Hopefield," on the 1st day of February last, bound for the West Indies, together with the owner and four of a crew, who have not since been heard of. It is feared that the vessel foundered and that all hands perished.

"SCOTT ACT"—We learn that a horse called "Scott Act" was to be for at the Kensington Scrap Races yesterday, taking the two first heats and the money in the trotting race. "Scott Act" trotted the second mile in three minutes, odd seconds. This is a "coming" horse, owned by Ben Bunting, Esq., and has been coming for these last nine years. The Charlottetown horses had better look well to their heels at the Upton Park races on the 8th September next, as "Scott Act" will be the order of the day.

THE LASH—Blackburn, who was sentenced to four months imprisonment and forty lashes for an attempted outrage on a little girl at Bra'ford, received his twenty lashes on the 22nd. There were very few spectators allowed inside the jail yard. The prisoner, who is a fine-looking man, was fastened to a frame, and bared to the waist. Richard Wendell, an old soldier of the 7th, applied the lash. The prisoner appeared perfectly calm, but his pulse showed 120. The word "Ready" was given, and the lash was applied with ten lashes were given, when the doctor made a hasty examination, and said, "Proceed" when the remaining ten lashes were applied. The prisoner's flesh changed color some, and a little blood appeared. He received twenty lashes without a murmur.

THE steamer Carroll, Capt. Wright, sailed for Boston yesterday evening with freight and the following passengers:—John B. Kenny, G. H. Ellis, B. THE KENSINGTON RACES.—A correspondent at Kensington says:—"The races advertised by Mr. Hinde, to take place at the Kensington Trotting Park on Aug. 25th, were a fizzle from the word 'go.' There was a good crowd of people congregated to witness 'the sport,' and an orderly and patient crowd they were. They remained on the ground from 1 until 5 without witnessing a race of any description, and then it was only through the kindness of 'outsiders' that a running and trotting race was inaugurated for the enjoyment of the long-suffering crowd. Hinde, Esq., contributed the magnificent sum of '50c.' towards 'his own' races. Prodigious generosity on the part of Hinde, Esq. Does he imagine he can run a track at all without the assistance of good sporting men about him, whom the public can trust? From this outfit the Kensington track, under Hinde's management, is a dead letter, and he had better 'summer fallow' the track for winter wheat, and thus blot out his record as a 'sporting man'."
