

MRS. R. S. MACDONALD & MRS MAURICE CLARKE

Dr. & Mrs. Fisher's Home Is Setting For CVMA Tea

Guests from the three counties attended the lovely tea held Saturday afternoon at Dr. and Mrs. George Fisher's residence, Pownall Street.

The tea was sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Prince Edward Island Veterinary Medical Association of Prince Edward Island. Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Eric Kay welcomed the guests. Mrs. Kay was the convener of the tea.

A cheery wood fire in the living-room and the attractive dining-table were much commented upon. The latter was covered with an ecru lace cloth. The table was centered with a crystal bowl of yellow, bronze and white chrysanthemums flanked on either side by tall hunter's green shade tapers in crystal candleholders.

Pouring tea was the president Mrs. Maurice Clarke, Kensington, and Mrs. R. S. MacDonald, Southport.

Members of the Auxiliary who served were: Mrs. Russell Furness, Kensington; Mrs. W. Freeburne, O'Leary; Mrs. H.H. Kelly, Southport; Mrs. J.J. Higgins, Charlottetown; Mrs. Jack Calcutt, Charlottetown.

Funds raised at the tea go to the National Student Loan Fund. In some cases students get as far as the third year but find it financially impossible to go on to the fourth and fifth years. Then it is that the loan comes into effect for these senior years.

The tea Saturday was a success financially and socially and the ladies Auxiliary were being heartily congratulated upon the results.

ELLEN'S DIARY

A farmer's Independence That Is His Hallmark!

Now the flock ranging the fields, the fleecy ewes and company of lambs comes at times to visit the front meadow, which dips down to the stream. Making an engaging pastoral scene, they drink and browse on the area about, before they make their way up the slope, to higher meadows there. And noting, we are reminded of those flocks and shepherds of ancient story

MR. AND MRS. CLIFFORD RYAN

Island Girl Is Married In Jamaica Plain, Mass.

St. Andrew, the Apostle Church, Jamaica Plain, Mass., was the scene of a pretty wedding when Miss Anita Trainor, daughter of Harry Trainor, and the late Mrs. Trainor, Baldwin's Road, Prince Edward Island, Canada, was united in holy wedlock with Clifford Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ryan, of Everett, Mass.

Rev. George Emerson performed the 9 a.m. double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass. Miss Gainey was in charge of the wedding music. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with baskets of white gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her traditional floor length gown of Alecon lace and satin with long sleeves ending in points over the hands and Sabrina neckline. Her only jewellery was a pair of pearl earrings. Her finger tip veil was of tulle illusion which fell from a seed pearl coronet. She carried a white Prayer Book covered with a white orchid, and stephanotis knotted in the satin streamers.

Miss Priscilla Trainor as her sister's maid of honor, Miss Patricia MacLaren as bridesmaid and Miss Mary Ellen Corcoran as junior bridesmaid, wore identical organza ballerina length gowns in colors of peacock blue, shellpink, and daffodil yellow, with flared skirts and matching boleros. They wore white shoes and matching elbow length gloves. Their shoulder length veils fell from a coronet of matching flowers. They wore pearl necklaces and earrings. Their crescent-shaped bouquets were of mixed flowers in contrasting shades.

Norman Ryan, of Everett, Mass., brother of the groom, was best man. William and Orvis Ryan, also brothers of the groom, were ushers.

Mrs. Frank Baldwin chose for her niece's wedding a black faille suit, with matching accessories and wore a corsage of pink orchids.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Ryan looked charming in a gown of teal blue, with matching accessories, and wore a corsage of white orchids.

Following the ceremony, a reception for seventy-five guests, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Boucher, 47 Sny Pond Lane, Arlington, Mass. The bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake and bouquets of fall flowers. The toast to the bride was proposed by Norman Ryan, best man, and responded to by the groom.

For going away the bride chose a pink lace dress with white top and accessories. The happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Prince Edward Island, Canada, former home of the bride, where they were tendered a reception at the home of the bride's father. About one hundred guests gathered to wish Anita and husband best wishes.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Ryan are residing in Jamaica Plain, Mass., where the groom is employed with Boston Aluminum Products and the bride with Robert's Hair Design.

who "kept their watch by night" on certain far-away hills. Did they light fires against the chill, and gathering about them at times, discuss soberly the legends and truths that they knew? Did they not scan the sky for a sign of that Coming, of which it was written?

And about them in the flickering light, the night-wind whispered along the pasture, through the grasses. And in the shadows beyond the range of firlight, the eyes of the sheep shone in the dark as they cuddled down to rest, or maybe stirred restlessly, while some sentinel-sheep too kept a night-watch.

The flock, the frost on the near-spillway of morning, the dusky evergreens, and the sparkling stars overhead bespeak now the solemn and beautiful Christmas Festival ahead.

And with us farm-folk, there is ever the farming.

"What do you think of this contract farming? They have a fancy name for it—'Vertical integration' they call it nowadays!" a farmer chuckled to James when the two talked shop this evening. James nodded. "O I believe it has its place," he replied. "Not so much I would say with the established farmer, who can handle his own affairs pretty well, but for the beginner it would have its advantages—if he was an industrious and careful fellow."

"Some have an idea that it more or less takes away a farmer's independence. That's our hall mark!" the visitor offered with a smile.

"That would depend on the farmer, I'd say. If he could appreciate that he stood to benefit in the long run, I'd think it would add to his independence. It would give him more capital to put toward his farming and build up his fields. It's no new thing in a way, this contract farming," James said.

"No, it's only that more farmers are becoming interested in it" the other farmer agreed. "As a matter of fact, I've been wondering about it myself, of late. As it is, I'm between two opinions about trying it."

"Well," James chuckled, "a farmer is his own boss! He knows better than anyone else what he stands to gain or lose in the venture. And if he can spare the time for the extra work. Whatever you do," James advised, "don't bite off more than you can chew." I've found one has less worry that way."

Our worries we shall leave presently on our pillows where "the night will kiss the lips" of all our cares.

Until tomorrow — — Diary, Good-night.
