Hamilton Girl Attends German Y. W. C. A. Camp - TORONTO (CP) - Eggs cost 86 cents a dozen in West Germany, says Reta E. Horner of Hamilton, who has just returned from a summer in Europe where she attended an International Y. W. C. A. camp at Bruckhardtshaus, West German Y. W. C. A. Headquarters in Gelnhausen.

Bradley Sees - Continued from page 1. atomic bomb as an excuse for not increasing their mutual defence forces to the originally contemplated strength. He added also that "There has been some little indication that some people in our country want to depend on the A-bomb." But Bradley added "I don't believe that is sound. You must have ground troops to compel an enemy to concentrate and make a profitable target."

Tea and coffee are luxuries as the cost is four times what it is in Canada, said Miss Horner. "And when we consider that the German salary is about one-quarter of ours we realize that tea and coffee cannot be a regular commodity in an average home."

Eggs are 86 cents a dozen," she said. An orange costs 15 cents. A German housewife must be diligent with her clothing budget as well as with the food, "because prices are high here too."

Miss Horner found that many Germans wear national costume. Leather shorts, or "ledershosens," worn by men and boys were interesting. "Even tiny boys wear them and we thought that here the German mother has it a little easier than is no washing," said Miss Horner. No ironing, no mending either. "They need only be hung out to air," she wrote.

Economical Too - Lederhosens cost $8 to $10 for small sizes. One youth had had only four pairs in his 18 years and when he outgrew them they were handed down to his younger brothers. Camp delegates discussed ten-

Saturday Was "Wilf Carter Day" In Summerside

It was said by a host of admirers that Saturday was "Wilf Carter Day" in Summerside, and in every respect events of the day added weight to this claim. Making his last public appearance in Canada for sometime and his first appearance in Summerside, Wilf and his party concluded a 90-day tour in which they were booked for all but two days.

By coincidence, Wilf and his party of entertainers arrived in Summerside just as one of his recordings was being played over the Summerside radio station CJRW. Proving themselves to be real trouper they immediately entered into a busy round of activities which included a radio broadcast, and official welcome from Mayor Henry W. Wedge, a street parade in gaily decorated green convertibles, and a 2-1/2 hour matinee show, followed by two evening performances of equal length.

The shows which were staged in the Canadian Legion auditorium on Water Street, drew only half to three-quarter capacity attendance at the afternoon matinee, but both evening performances filled the auditorium to capacity and many people had to be turned away.

In an interview on Saturday evening between shows, a Guardian representative noted that this tall, soft-spoken, friendly singer unintentionally reveals one of the qualities that make him Canada's number one recording artist. Speaking with quiet conviction, he is able to impart the feeling of genuine sincerity and "down-to-earth" qualities that have perhaps inspired many of his finest recordings and aroused in the affection of thousands of his fans who have never had the opportunity to meet him in his 21 years as a recording artist.

It was this feeling of genuine sincerity that was also felt and on which comment was heard from hundreds who attended his shows at Summerside on Saturday.

While still facing trial on the jail breaking charge he disappeared a second time, and was recaptured in Saint John eleven days later, and brought back to Summerside yesterday.

Austin Smith who accompanied MacDonald on his jail breaks was originally serving 15 days on a minor charge. He was given six months for his first jail breaking offence, and now having also escaped for the second time is still at Red Cross, although police expect that he too will soon, as a result of police co-operation, rejoin MacDonald in Prince County Jail. It is known that he accompanied MacDonald to New Brunswick, and police expressed confidence that he would soon be re-captured.

New Potato Combine Seen In Action

Seen above in action on a farm near Summerside is the Dahman 2-row potato combine being demonstrated for the first time in the Maritimes. This machine, drawn by a tractor, digs, picks, and loads two rows of potatoes at a time.

The potatoes are loaded into specially designed bins that fit on any truck body. These bins will hold 6 tons of potatoes.

The truck bins are mechanically unloaded at the storage centre by motor power operating a conveyor belt on the bottom of the truck bin.

It is said that 12-15 acres per day can be harvested with one of these two row machines.

This combine has been purchased by Driscoll and MacFarlane, Summerside, but a few other prominent potato growers have placed orders for 2-row or single row machines which are expected to arrive in time for this season's harvesting.

The machine seen above attracted much interest on its first appearance on P. E. I. and hundreds of potato growers came from many parts of the Province to see this potato combine in action.

Red Cross. The secretary was asked to send for more work to be sent from the Red Cross before the next meeting.

Reports of the committees were then heard, and new ones appointed as follows: Sick and program, Mrs. James Murray and Mrs. Brenton Clark; lunch, Mrs. Myrtle Peters, Mrs. Bryce Clarke, Mrs. Elphaltee Clarke and Mrs. Eric Robinson.

Mrs. Eric Robinson very kindly invited members to her home for the October meeting, when roll call is to be answered with 25 cents for the A. C. W. W.

The meeting closed with "The Queen", after which a dainty lunch was served by hostess assisted by committee in charge. The collection amounted to $1.45.

Well Known Continued from page 1. his home the last 25 years. A year ago a reporter asked him whether he was happy.

"I am not happy," he replied. "I am content. To say I'm lonely is ridiculous. I live alone but I have everything I need. In solitude I'm in my natural state."

The famed philosopher was born in Madrid Dec. 16, 1863. Although a Spanish subject to the end, he was considered by many to be an American since he lived in the United States from the time he was nine until 1911.

Santayana was probably the only philosopher to write a best-selling novel. He did that in 1935 when he turned out "The Last Puritan."

It was perhaps this book, about life in New England, rather than his many poems and philosophical works, that brought his name to the mass of North American readers.

He once was asked why he never wrote another novel and he replied: "I do not need money. I have no greed. I have everything I need. And I wrote all I had to say in 'The Last Puritan,' the memoirs of my time. My period was 1880, and after that it has been a survival period."

As a child, Santayana led the life of a young scholar, and he showed "The Life and the Next Eight Decades." He never used a typewriter, never drove a car and never danced. As a boy he played no games, but stayed at home afternoons and evenings reading and drawing.

He did not marry. After 22 years at Harvard Santayana received an inheritance and returned to Europe as a lecturer at Oxford in England and the Sorbonne in France.

The list of his works, which deals with every phase of life, includes "The Life of Reason," "Realms of Being" and "Persons and Places," his autobiography which was published during the Second World War. He also published numerous volumes of verse. It was his belief that there were no great world leaders in his time.

The General said that in giving a few, selected top leaders, like Marshal Alphonse Juin of France, certain atomic information for their guidance. It would be unnecessary to disclose the size of the U. S. A-bomb stockpile, one of the deepest of the U. S. military secrets.

Instead, he said, they would need only some indication of whether they could expect 10 or 1,000 atomic weapons to be available in support of ground forces. When reporters asked the General if he thought the possibility of war with Russia was less than a year ago, he thought for a moment and then replied slowly: "Yes, I think so."

"We've increased our security forces (the N.A.T.O. forces in Europe). We've gained more in the atomic field than Russia.
