Acting UN Secretary-General Denies Charges By Landlord

UNITED NATIONS (AP) —U Thant, Acting United Nations Secretary - General has accused his landlord of lying about goings-on in the fashionable eastside apartment where Thant has lived since 1959.

William Wholey, who sublet the apartment to Thant, charged in court papers that the UN chief executive permitted guests to sleep on the floor. The papers also asserted the place had to be fumigated to get rid of undesirable odors.

In a statement, Thant called the allegations absurd and false. He said documents on file in New York Supreme Court would refute the charges, which he described as fabrication.

The exchange between Thant and Wholey were offshots of a court action filed by state rent commissioner Robert E. Herman charging Wholey and three other defendants with rent overcharging.

The rent administrator filed the $51,000 suit last spring after Thant declined to press charges.

CLAIMS DAMAGES

Wholey claims misuse of the apartment by Thant resulted in $6,447 in damages to the furnishings.

The misuse, he said, consisted of "entertaining great numbers of guests, at which functions a great amount of liquor, food and tobacco was dropped on said property; permitting upwards of 20 persons to sleep on the floor and elsewhere on the premises; permitting food to be thrown about and from windows of said premises, permitting such undesirable odors to permeate the premises that they had to be fumigated; permitting animals to sit and sleep on and rip, tear and soil said furnishings and to leave droppings on the carpets and floor and otherwise permitting said furnishings to be damaged and destroyed."

Thant said he had agreed to an increase in rent last year after his two - year lease expired. At that time, he said, he had asked the landlord to replace some items of furnishings which he said were worn and in poor condition. He stated that Wholey had accepted $1,070.80 "in full settlement" for furniture repair costs.

USED BY FAMILY

The Secretary - General declared the apartment had been used only by his family and for small personal and diplomatic gatherings seldom exceeding 20 persons. He had acknowledged earlier that his son, since killed in a bus accident in Burma, had owned a cat which had been kept in the apartment.

The rent control commission suit claims Thant was grossly overcharged for the seven-room apartment rent controlled at $402.50 a month.

The suit said that for two years beginning June 1, 1959, Thant's rent was $12,600 a year and increased to $14,400 in the second lease.

Wholey denied overcharging then. He said he himself was overcharged by the owners of the building, and has filed a suit in state supreme court for $23,070 in treble damages for the claimed overcharges against him.

Entire Canadian Economy Is Called Little In Dumps

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP)—Prof. A. K. Cairncross, the Scottish economist who conducted an economic survey of the Atlantic provinces two years ago said it is difficult to separate the problems of the region from those of the country as a whole.

"The entire Canadian economy is a little in the dumps," the economic adviser to the British government said.

"It is difficult to disentangle the troubles of this particular area from those of the whole country."

He said the Atlantic region shouldn't be "too depressed by conditions today." Prof. Cairncross was speaking in a panel discussion at Mount Allison University's summer institute on Britain's proposed entry into the European Common Market.

Other panelists were D. W. Gallagher, secretary of the New Brunswick treasury board; A. Watson Jamer, agent - general in London for the Atlantic provinces; and W. J. Woodfine, associate professor of economics at St. Francis Xavier University.

CITES FOUR VIEWS

Mr. Jamer said there are four different types of opinion on Britain's proposed move. The first was that of the national press, which he said "is not particularly well informed." The second was that of big industry which has set its course towards the market; the third, the small manufacturers, are confused, while the man on the street has "wavered with the press."

Mr. Jamer said that Canada needs good salesmen abroad and must lose its fear of selling in competitive markets.

Prof Woodfine said that if Britain enters the Common Market and Canada continues its policy of high protection the Atlantic provinces will become "the worst of all possible worlds."

He said Canada will suffer chronic unemployment and this would be ever worse in the Atlantic region.

Mr. Gallagher said Canada's national policy will be important, the country has to increase productivity, and it should be able to continue selling raw materials and goods from secondary manufacturers in the common market.

Commission Gets Story Of Thuggery

By ROBERT RICE

TORONTO (CP) — Evidence of thuggery, violence and shootings—as well as obscene telephone calls—was placed before the federal commission investigating labor strife and shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes.

The testimony went into the record of Mr. Justice T. G. Norris as he again served notice that he will tolerate no nonsense in his inquiry.

Mrs. Thelma Palmer, switchboard operator at Upper Lakes Shipping Company here, was called as a surprise witness to testify under oath that she had received four "unusual" calls Wednesday from a mysterious person.

The caller asked how to join the Seafarers International Union, talked about "scabs," and used obscene words that Mrs. Palmer repeated in a hushed voice to Mr. Justice Norris.

BRINGS WARNING

Her testimony brought an angry warning from Mr. Justice Norris against any attempt to intimidate or frustrate his investigations.

He aimed his remarks at SIU counsel John Ahearn and SIU president Hal C. Banks but later explained that he meant no personal reflection on Mr. Ahern and intended his statement as notice to all parties—not just the SIU.

SIU lawyer Ahern agreed with the judge that the phone calls were irresponsible.

Chief witness throughout the day-long hearing was Thomas J. Houtman, personnel manager for the Upper Lakes line and a one-time officer of the Communist - dominated Canadian Seamen's Union, now defunct.

Mr. Houtman testified about incidents of harrassment that delayed ships of the Upper Lakes line at various American and Canadian ports—incidents he blamed on the SIU or its union allies in the United States.

Under cross - examination by Maurice Wright, lawyer for the CLC and four affiliated unions, Mr. Houtman said that Upper Lakes had agreements at the same time with two unions both claiming to represent its marine engineers — the licensed division of the SIU and its rival, the National Association of Marine Engineers.

He said the agreement with the SIU was signed in 1959 to make sure the Upper Lakes fleet was not tied up by a walkout of its seamen, then members of the SIU unlicensed division.

Opening lead—king of hearts.

Some hands you hear about are pretty far out. At least, they would seem that way to most players. Here is a hand of that class.

The deal was played in a team match. At the first table, nothing spectacular happened. West led a heart. Declarer took it and led a spade to the ace (guarding against the possibility West might have the singleton king).

He then entered dummy with a diamond and played a spade to the queen. West took the king and the defense later won two club tricks, South making exactly four spades.

At the second table, against the same contract, West's opening lead was a club. East cashed the A-K and returned a club for West to ruff. West (Benny Ignatz of Sacramento, Cal.) ruffed all right, but with the king! He then returned the king of hearts.

Declarer took it with the ace and led the eight of spades from dummy. East played the three. Declarer now assumed that West would not have trumped the third round of clubs with the king if he had either the ten or jack. He therefore credited East with an original spade holding of J- 10- 3, and, accordingly, finessed the eight. Ignatz then produced the ten to defeat the contract a trick.

Ruffing with the king was a real cool play. Ignatz reasoned that declarer already knew where the king of spades was located, and that ruffing with the ten would later force South to cash the ace in the hope of catching the blank king.

Ignatz knew that South was a good enough player to realize that East would have done more than raise to two hearts if he had held the king of spades in addition to the A- K of clubs he had shown up with.

Maybe South should have guessed the actual situation anyhow, but West certainly did his share to make things difficult for the declarer.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
