Wide Application Is Seen For Unusual New Substance

OTTAWA (CP)—An unusual new chemical substance has been discovered by the National Research Council and may lead to new methods to produce non-flaming detergents, plastics and nylon-like materials.

The key to the production of the new substance is a yeast found in ordinary garden flowers. The yeast is added to waste fat and oil products and through a process of fermentation large quantities of hydroxy fatty acids are produced. Surprisingly, petroleum hydrocarbons also can be converted to hydroxy fatty acids.

Production of the new substance is extremely simple since it forms a heavy oil which settles to the bottom of the fermentation tank. The process also is inexpensive.

TWO REMAINED
BELLEVILLE (CP) — Two Belleville men charged with armed robbery and theft Thursday were remanded in custody for use as witnesses in a $400,000 safe and the $1,000 in cash and cheques it contained were stolen from a Belleville radio and television store last Saturday night. A third man is being sought.

OCEAN PREDATORS
North Atlantic dogfish, destroyers of smaller fish, are a small type of shark three or four feet in length.
