Ill Effects of Unusual Births Described To Island Ass'n

A strong representation of citizens from key points in the province heard Dr. J.K.L. Irwin deal with the major causes of unusual births which develop defects in later life, as he addressed the P. E. Island Retarded Children's Association at their annual dinner last night. The dinner, which was opened with grace by Rev. Francis Corcoran, was presided over by the president Leo Berrigan, with 60 persons in attendance. Dr. Irwin described the causes of premature births, stressing the ill effects and pointing out the preventive measures. Also speaking briefly, Dr. Gencheff said, "The time is long past when retarded children should be kept at home. They have a certain illness just as others have, which should not be hidden, but rather treated properly and overcome." "Their condition can be improved regardless of age and degree of disability," he said. He urged that all hidden cases be brought to light and treated. SURMOUNT HUMP "We have surmounted the first hump in our thinking as we reach forward to rehabilitation and education retarded persons of all ages," Sister Mary Henry said. "It is no longer enough to keep them occupied and thus happy. It is up to us to make the best of our population and deal with the three per cent under discussion from a positive rather than a negative angle." "I am convinced that through

Interment in the church cemetery.

Weekend Briefs

KURT MEYER WAS A STAR PRISONER at Dorchester Penitentiary, N. B. However, it seemed like inviting trouble to imprison the notorious Nazi general in the heart of the area where many Canadian victims of his war crimes had lived. In the second of two articles in The Patriot's Weekend Magazine, ex-Warden George T. Goad, who administered the penitentiary for over 30 years, tells about Dorchester's most controversial prisoner, and how he was able to convince a dyed-in-the-wool Nazi that "a man is more than a number."

GOSSIP IN MOVIELAND has it that Dina Merrill is "a girl who can out-Kelly Grace Kelly." Weekend Magazine features the pictorial story of a lovely lady whose main problem is that she originated on the right side of the tracks, and happens to be heiress to $200 million. Film fans seem to resent moneyed socialites climbing to stardom. How is Dina facing her fortune?

GOING AROUND THE WORLD at 80 miles to the gallon is an adventurous way to take your doctor's advice and get away from it all—so Montrealer Jim Williams discovered. When this ex-pilot for T. C. A. heard he was "grounded" due to diabetes, he promptly bought a motor scooter built for two and a map and carried his lovely wife off on a 35,000-mile tour—by ship and scooter.

CANADIAN UNIVERSITIES are losing many of their top-notch professors to the world of industry. Why? Dr. Colin B. Mackay, the youngest university president in Canada, analyzes the shocking plight of our colleges in Weekend Magazine for the answer. If universities cannot train engineers, chemists, physicists and other skilled people Canada needs, Dr. Mackay feels "the real bogey is the danger of our country losing its status as a nation."

A RICH FEAST OF FEATURES for the whole family is assured in tomorrow's Evening Patriot, complete with Weekend Magazine and 16 pages of color comics.

scholarships, trained persons would soon be available to correct this situation," Sister Mary Henry said. President Leo Berrigan announced the purchase of a splendid site at Oyster Bed Bridge and paid tribute to Roy Smallman and Wendell Cudmore for their untiring and successful effort in the matter. "We are going to have something there which will reflect much credit to the province as 'one of the first.' "Our job is to reach out and help" was the admonition given by Mrs. Stewart Pierce in concluding a run-down of the activities of National organization which meets here in September. She urged wholehearted support of the local activities which will culminate in the presence of many Canadian, American and possibly European experts in the various phases of assistance to the retarded.

FINANCIAL DRIVE The acceptance of Clive Cudmore of leadership in an early financial drive was announced by the president and heard with general satisfaction. Mr. Cudmore has a thorough understanding of such matters and will undoubtedly receive the necessary support throughout the province to assure success. Introduced by the president, the head table guests were: Al Horne, representing Kiwanis Club, R. E. Scler, Rotary, Dr. Irwin, Dr. Gencheff, Mrs. S. Pierce, Lloyd Matthews, Sister Mary Henry, Mrs. Horace Fraser, Dr. Malcolm Beck and J. M. Murley. Advisory Board members present were: Rev. Father Corcoran, Rev. W. A. Patterson, Ian Rankin, Reg. MacNutt, Sister Mary Henry, Mrs. Lloyd Matthews, and K. M. Martin.
