

TORONTO (CP) — Two all-time senior Canadian football records and one Big Four mark were broken Saturday when the Big Four and the Ontario Rugby Football Union completed their regular schedule.

Billy Graham, brilliant halfback with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen of the ORFU, scored 24 points in his team's 42-20 victory over Toronto Beavers to bring his 1956 point total to an all-time Canadian high of 157.

Montreal's Pat Abbruzzi of the Big Four ran his season's touchdown total to 20, an all-time record, and his points to 120—a Big Four high. The previous record was 108 set by Edgar Jones of Hamilton-Tiger-Cats in 1950.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show Abbruzzi's touchdowns were scored over 14 games and he ended the regular schedule 42 points ahead of team-mate Hal Patterson who ended with 78 points on 13 touchdowns.

Don St. John of the Ottawa Rough Riders was third in the Big Four scoring, with 59 points on nine touchdowns and five converts. Ron Stewart of Queen's Golden Gaels held onto his No. 1 spot in the intercollegiate scoring race with 30 points on five touchdowns.

Chuck Holdaway Traded To Troy

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (CP)—Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A southern group Monday announced they have traded right winger Chuck Holdaway to Troy, N. Y., Bruins of the International Hockey League.

In return the Indians acquired Joe Malo, 22-year-old left winger from Fort William who has played two seasons with the Bruins.

Holdaway, 24-year-old Regina native, played in the Western Hockey League for Vancouver and Saskatoon and in the Maritimes for Charlottetown.

DROWNS WHILE FISHING

PUGWASH, N.S. (CP) — The body of longshoreman Lawrence MacPherson, 45, of Pugwash Bay, was found by RCMP washed up on the mud banks near here. Police said he apparently drowned while smelt fishing in a small outboard motorboat.

ONLY UNANIMOUS CHOICES

Etcheverry, Hal Patterson Head List Of All-Stars

By WILF GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The peerless combination of quarterback Sam Etcheverry and end Hal Patterson, the one-two punch of Montreal Alouettes' quick-striking attack, tonight head the list of players named to the 1956 Canadian Press Big Four all-star football teams.

Etcheverry, "The Rifle" of the Alouettes' aerial offence, and Patterson, labelled "Mr. Wonderful" for his superb pass-catching and running, were the only unanimous choices for the offensive team and Patterson came closest to being picked by all selectors for the defensive squad.

They were two of the five Montreal players picked for the offensive team. Patterson also joined two other Alouettes on the defensive outfit.

OTHER SELECTIONS

Ottawa Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts each landed three men and Hamilton Tiger-Cats one on the offensive team. The Riders nabbed three places on the defensive lineup, the Tiger-Cats four and the Argonauts two.

The football writers, sportscasters and coaches in each league cities who picked the dream teams for CP, saluted the power-packed AIs by choosing a total of eight players from that club. The AIs, who have played at least five players on the offensive team four straight years, have made a runaway of the regular campaign the last three seasons and again are heavily favored to represent the East in the Grey Cup final Nov. 24.

Votes were weighted to give equal balloting strength to each league city.

Offensive team selections include two Canadians, the first time in four years that more than one homebrew has gained All-star rating. The Canadians grabbed four berths in the defensive lineup for the third successive season.

SAM ETCHEVERRY

and as was the case last year, another spot went to a former American now ranked as a non-import.

THE OFFENSIVE TEAM
Flying wing — Joey Pal, Montreal
Half plunging — Pat Abbruzzi, Montreal
Tackle — Cookie Gilchrist, Hamilton
Tackle — Bill Albright, Toronto
Quarter — Sam Etcheverry, Montreal
Centre — Tom Hugo, Montreal
Guard — Larry Hayes, Ottawa
Guard — Francis Machinsky, Toronto

HAL PATTERSON

Guard — Vince Scott, Hamilton
Guard — Hardiman Cureton, Toronto
Tackle — Kaye Vaughan, Ottawa
Tackle — Bill Albright, Toronto
End — Pete Neumann, Hamilton
End — Jim Miller, Montreal.

STARS OF ATTACK

The Canadians named to the offensive team were flying wing Joey Pal of the Alouettes and end Bobby Simpson of the Riders. Pal, a favorite target for Etcheverry's passes, was the only homebrew on the same squad in 1955 and 1954.

The selection of Simpson, whose pass-catching was a big factor in Ottawa making the playoffs this season for the first time since 1951, marked his return to All-star rating. He missed out in 1955 and 1954 after having been chosen three straight seasons.

Simpson became the first Canadian in five years to win one of the offensive end positions. It was a particularly fine tribute to the 26-year-old, seven-year Ottawa veteran who beat out such outstanding imports as Red O'Quinn of Montreal and Al Pfeifer and Bucky Curtis of Argonauts. It was the first time in five years that O'Quinn had failed to make the team.

The four homebrews who gained all-star ranking defensively are safety Don Pinney of Ottawa, halfback Ray Truant of Hamilton and ends Jim Miller of Montreal and Pete Neumann of Hamilton. Vince Scott of the Tiger-Cats, no longer considered an import since he became a Canadian citizen, was picked for one of the defensive guard positions, the fifth straight year he has earned an all-star berth.

The big surprise was the failure of either Tex Coulter or Billy Shipp, Montreal tackles, to be selected on either team with year both made each team with Coulter a unanimous choice for the offensive squad. The former New York Giants lineman was dropped after having been named three successive years.

ON BOTH TEAMS

Besides Patterson, the league's leading pass receiver and a crack defensive halfback, the only players to be selected for both teams were Tom Hugo of Montreal, Kaye Vaughan of Ottawa and Bill Albright of Toronto. Hugo grabbed the offensive centre position and along with Ken Vargo of the Riders was picked for the two line-backer spots. Vaughan and Albright took the tackle positions.

This is the fourth year in a row that Etcheverry, former University of Denver quarter, has been named as the Big Four's all-star quarter. He joined the Alouettes in 1952, the only year he was passed up by the selectors.

Patterson's selection as an offensive end marked the first time he had made that squad. Previously he had been named in 1954 and 1955 to the defensive team.

The offensive backfield is loaded with running and plunging power, with Pat Abbruzzi of Montreal, the Big Four's scoring champion, making the team for the second year in a row and Dick Shatto of Argonauts and Cookie Gilchrist of the Tiger-Cats for the first time.

Gilchrist and guards Larry Hayes of Ottawa and Francis Machinsky of Toronto were the only first-year men to make the grade on the offensive squad. Those playing their first season of Canadian football who earned all-star ranking on defence were halfback Ralph Goldston of Hamilton, linebacker Ken Vargo of Ottawa and Hardiman Cureton of Toronto.

As in the case of Etcheverry, the selection of Hugo and Neumann marked the fourth successive season that they have gained Big Four all-star honours.

Remember When

Jack Chesbro, one of baseball's great spitball pitchers in the old days, died at Conway, Mass., 25 years ago today. He led National League pitchers while with Pittsburgh in 1901 and 1902, and in 1904 he won 41 games for the New York Yankees.

Dodgers' Wives On Japanese Spending Spree

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers' wives are on a spending spree in Japan — and their husbands don't seem to mind it a bit.

Mrs. Jackie Robinson, back from a sightseeing and buying trip in Kyoto, reported she had acquired a load of silks, pearls, brocades and lacquer ware along with dolls for her six-year-old daughter and carved whalebone figures for her two boys.

"I don't mind what she spends," said Jackie, "as long as she enjoys the trip and she seems to be doing that."

Mrs. Carl Erskine said she is homesick for her three children in Anderson, Ind., but added, "I would not have missed the trip for anything."

Mrs. Erskine said she was buying binoculars and bamboo fishing rods for her two boys and Japanese dolls for her one-year-old daughter.

Manager Walt Alston said his wife was enjoying the trip but smiled and said "no comment" when asked if his wife was spending too much money.

No Political Talk For Red Athletes

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MELBOURNE (AP)—A contingent of Russian athletes settled down in Heidelberg Olympic Village Monday, talked confidently of their chances in the forthcoming games, but froze like stone at the mention of politics.

The centre of attraction among the 63 Soviet team members and officials who flew in from Burma was a seven-foot-one Latvian woodchopper named Jan Kruminsh, who plays centre on the basketball team.

Towering above even the tallest of his teammates, Kruminsh submitted to a lunch time interview through a boy scout interpreter and predicted Russia would beat the United States for the basketball title.

"We have a fine team and the Americans will not have the advantage of height which they had at Helsinki," Jan said. "Russia and America will be in the finals again, but this time we will win."

Russia brought 12 basketball players, of whom nine are so tall they require special beds. The average height is six-foot-four.

One of the Soviet weightlifters showed his prowess by picking up a boy scout in each hand and easily lofting them in the air for photographers.

The first group of the vast Russian delegation, largest in the Olympic Games, were large, hardened athletes who appeared pleasant but who talked apprehensively with furtive glances in the direction of team officials.

WON'T TALK POLITICS

Constantine Andrianov, who is president of the Soviet Olympic Committee, held a brief press conference and parried questions concerning the rebellion in Hungary.

"Mr. Andrianov," one reporter asked, "will you tell us about reports that Russia will withdraw from the games?"

The Soviet official stiffened and replied coldly through an interpreter: "We are here. We came in to compete in the games. Does that answer your question?"

Andrianov was asked about a report that Holland was considering withdrawing its team from the games because of Russian participation and planned to push a general protest.

"I know of no grounds for a protest," Andrianov answered.

Newcombe Says Arm Still Hurts

OSAKA, Japan (AP)—Don Newcombe, the Brooklyn Dodgers' 27-game winning pitcher, said his throwing arm is better than a week ago but still hurts when he throws a curve ball.

Newcombe, knocked off the mound in the first appearance of his only start in Japan, said a decision on whether he will pitch again depends on the condition of his arm.

Transformed Hershey Bears Take Over 1st Place In A. L.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears, transformed into contenders with the help of players acquired from the defunct Pittsburgh Hornets, took over sole possession of first place in the American Hockey League during the weekend—in sharp contrast to their fifth-place finish of last season.

The weekend was also notable because it brought the first victory for Rochester Americans, the league's new entry and replacement of Pittsburgh.

At Hershey Saturday night, Arnie Kullman, Lorne Davis, Al Nicholson and Ed Panagabko scored for the Bears as they defeated Cleveland Barons 4-3. Gord Vejprava, Ron Morgan and Cal Stearns scored for the fourth-place Barons.

Sunday nights the Bears garbed a first-period 5-1 lead at Providence but lost it and finally settled for a 6-6 tie with the Reds.

Willie Marshall, one of the players acquired from Pittsburgh, scored two goals for Hershey with others scored by Bob Sollerger, Dunc Fisher, Davis and Kullman. Paul Larivee and Ed Davies got two goals apiece for Providence, Ray Cyr and Earl Joynson getting the others.

Rochester, after losing five and tying two in its first seven games, turned back Springfield Indians 2-1 Sunday night on goals by Joe Lund, Paul Masnick and Hee La-could get for managing them, K's open season for the guessers as to just which man will be hired.

We were going to say lucky many, but that's a matter of opinion. We don't believe that gentleman and scholar, Al Lopez, was swooning with happiness at all times during his six years as field boss of the Tribe.

If anything, we believe the general senior has jumped into an even hotter spot as manager of Chicago White Sox, although he might get solace in the thought that his club will be training in his home town of Tampa, and at a field bearing his name.

Who Will Manage Indians?

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that Hank Greenberg has fallen to interest Leo Durocher in the job of managing Cleveland Indians, or more probably in the money he

CHICAGO HOT SPOT

We believe it's a hotter spot because Marty Marion got as much mileage out of the club as anyone could, and that wasn't enough to satisfy Chuck Comiskey, the person in charge of hiring and firing.

Frankly, there wasn't a team in the American League which had even an outside chance of keeping the Yankees out of the world series this year. Casey Stengel just had too much of everything.

Obviously Greenberg and Comiskey thought Lopez and Marion, respectively, weren't producing as they expected them to produce, so it makes it rather an odd situation when Lopez, who wasn't good enough for Greenberg, is considered good enough for Comiskey.

To complete the cycle, Marion would have to take over Lopez's vacated Cleveland job, a possibility that may not be too remote.

Marion, we believe, wasn't given a fair shake when he was manager of the Cardinals. He had the club in contention until it was slugged by an epidemic of flu. Also, owner Fred Saigh wanted a combination after-dinner speaker and manager, and Marion was reluctant to double in brass. Strictly a clarinet man.

WEAK MATERIAL

He had nothing to work with when he managed the Browns, and when the club was shifted to Baltimore he wasn't tagged along with the rest of the equipment.

Frank Lane, who graded the White Sox out of the second division into a contender spot, and who is a difficult man to please when it comes to a manager, thinks highly of Marty, and when Paul Richards went to Baltimore Lane lost no time in naming the personable Marty his pilot.

The wildest rumor we have heard has Freddie Hutchinson, current Cardinal pilot, moving to Cleveland and Marion succeeding him at St. Louis.

The only reason you would give that a second thought is a suspicion that if Hutchinson left the Cards for any reason Lane quite probably would give the job to Marty.

Anyway you look at it, though, it seems to be a game of musical chairs.

U. S. BASE DELAYED

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (Delayed) — (AP) — South Polar temperatures of 58 below zero prompted Admiral George Dufek to call a temporary halt to attempts to set up a United States base at the bottom of the world. The landing at the pole enabled man to make the first accurate ground check of the temperature this early in the season. Dufek was the first man to step on the south polar plateau since the ill-fated Scott Expedition 44 years ago.
