

CHARLOTTETOWN Business College Writing Academy

Let the searchlight of practice illuminate the dark places of Theory.

A THOROUGHLY Progressive Practical Institution, in which young men and women are not only taught Book-keeping (in all its applications to commerce) both by single and double entry, but are trained how to do business, by actual business transactions. The students act as buyers, sellers, traders, bankers, book-keepers and accountants, in actual business operations, and the currency issued by the College Bank and the misc. issued from the Emorium, are used in bona fide business transactions, just the same as in mercantile and banking houses. Book-keeping in itself may be learned at home, but a knowledge of how to transact business, cannot be thus acquired. That our course system of training is eminently practical write for testimonials from business men, and from students who are now holding lucrative and responsible positions.

SUBJECTS:
Book-keeping by single and double entry (theoretical and practical.) Actual Business Practice, Business Penmanship, Business Correspondence, Commercial Arithmetic, Commercial Law, Railroadings, Steamboatings, Banking, (actual practice in the College Bank.) Typewriting, Shorthand and Navigation.

FACULTY:
L. B. Miller, Principal, Teacher of Book-keeping, Arithmetic, Business Practice, Business Correspondence, Typewriting and Navigation.
J. W. Conson, (Vice Principal), Teacher of Railroadings, Steamboatings, Banking, Accounting and Actual Business Practice.
J. Harry Williams, Teacher of Business Penmanship.
Wm. Moran (licensed), Teacher of Shorthand.
George S. Inman Esq., (Law Firm McDonald & Inman) Lecturer on Commercial Law.
For circulars and full information, write or apply to

L. B. MILLER, Principal.
All interested are cordially invited to call at the college and inspect our system of writing, and work in general.

ALMONT WILKES, 2.31 1/2

The well known stallion, "Almont Wilkes" by "Hernando," 2.37 1/2, dam "Olive Wilkes," 2.39 1/4, dam of "Gracie Wilkes," 2.39 and "Almont Wilkes," 2.31 1/2, by Geo. Wilkes, jr., will stand the season of 1898 at Nicholson's Training Stables, Grafton St., opp. Court House, Ch'town.

Almont Wilkes is a big, stylish, carriage horse; he stands over 16 hands high and weighs 1200 lbs. He is the sire of Montrose, 2.20 3/4, and West Wilkes, 2.39 1/4. Montrose was the horse that put up such a gallant fight in the free-for-all at Ch'town track last fall, and there is no doubt that only for the concerted action of the other drivers, he would have won with ease. He trotted 13 heats, winning 4 first places and 5 seconds.

West Wilkes started in the 2.40 class at Summerside last fall, a green horse right off the pasture, getting a mark of 2.39 1/4 in a field of seasoned campaigners, and his owner expects him to get a mark of 2.23 this year. This proves that Almont Wilkes sires speed of a high order, and being a remarkable good looker, has always been a prize-winner in the show ring even when up against the best in the land.

THE SIAMESE GIRL.

From the moment of her birth a Siamese girl is treated with less consideration than a boy. For several years after quitting the realms of "babyland" she dresses very slightly indeed (I refer more particularly to the lower classes, though the rule applies more or less generally). Next she adopts the sarong, or waist cloth, and on top of this is placed a bright colored scarf of considerable length and breadth, which is customarily crossed and recrossed over the breast and under the arms. These two garments constitute the whole of a Siamese girl's wearing apparel unless she chance to wear a scanty vest of linen. Rings and bracelets are inevitable, provided she be of class enough to afford them, and in a few cases the costume is finished off with a flimsy pair of slippers, into which the stockingless feet are thrust.

The average Siamese girl is an inveterate smoker of cigarettes from a very tender age. When quite a baby, too, she, in common with the rest of the population, is taught to chew the leaf and nut of the betel palm—at least she does not require to be "taught" this unlovely but (if we may believe what we see) fascinating pastime. Since, however, she knows full well that she will be esteemed passe, not to say ancient, at the age of 30 she concentrates the whole of her intellect upon the serious business of either entering the palace or getting married. But if it be the latter, the marriage in Siamese middle and upper class life is the most elaborate function that an English girl could imagine. The negotiation—what we should term the "courting"—is generally conducted in the first instance through an old beldame. It is this old woman's business to discover among other things whether the "stars in their courses" are propitious toward the happy event and whether the respective birthdays of the bride and bridegroom fall suitably to the date fixed for their union, for in all such matters the Siamese would appear to be even more superstitious than their Buddhist belief might reasonably be expected to make them.—Gentleman's Magazine.

STARTERS OF RESTAURANTS.

"It may seem strange to say so," remarked a lawyer the other day, "but it is true, nevertheless, that there are men in the city who are getting rich by establishing restaurants that do not pay. This is the way they do it: A cheap shop is rented and fitted up as a restaurant at a cost, say, of $250. Food valued at about $100 is purchased, and some judicious advertising is done. More food is sold for the money than than customers can get anywhere else in the neighborhood. The result is a crowded restaurant, though the proprietor is losing money steadily. When he has a first class line of patrons and he appears to be doing a big business, he advertises the place for sale. Ill health or a desire to move south, east or west is one of the excuses. Customers appear promptly, and the proprietor usually sells his place for $1,200 or $1,500, half in cash. His investment has not been more than $400, so he clears from $800 to $1,000. Of course the place proves a failure, and the purchaser loses his money. The restaurant starter, however, moves to another portion of the city and repeats his enterprise."

The lawyer said that he recalled one man in particular who had started no less than ten restaurants in the last six months, all of which he sold. With two exceptions the places did not pay, and the men who bought them were compelled to close them.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

TALL BUILDINGS.

In the tall building it is emphatically "a condition, not a theory," that confronts us. The many storied office building is a necessary product of certain economic factors which have operated in spite of the architects, and more intensely in the United States than elsewhere. This is what has made it so peculiarly an American product. Of these economic factors the cost of land, so commonly alleged as the controlling one, has really been the least important. Land in parts of Paris and London is as costly as in New York and Chicago, but the 15 story office building has never come into vogue there, while, on the other hand, buildings of 10 or 12 stories are not uncommon in American cities of the second and third rank, where land is relatively cheap. The causa causans of the skyscraper monstrosity is to be sought in the drive and hurry of American business life, and in the accompanying American propensity to save time and labor. The skyscraper is a huge labor saving and time saving device.

Each building is almost a complete city, often comprising within its walls banks and insurance offices, postoffice and telegraph office, business exchanges, restaurants, clubrooms and shops. The business man can provide himself with clothes, shoes, cigars, stationery and baths; receive and dispatch his mail and his telegrams; speculate on 'change, consult his lawyer and his architect in their offices and transact his own business—all without leaving the building in which his office is located. The express elevator which shoots him up to the sixteenth story or drops him with breathless speed to the basement is a product of this same American haste and economy, and without the elevator the tall office building would be an impossibility. It is the triumphant success of the skyscraper as a time saving invention which has made it so conspicuous and insistent an element in our American architecture.—Engineering Magazine.
