THE PIRATE.

By Sir Walter Scott.

CHAPTER XXIX.

"Why, that is well," said Magnus; "and so being the case, I will not complain of my own appetite, though it is sharper than convenient. And the rascal, Nicholas Strumpfer,—what a leer the villain gave me as he started the good Nantz into the salt water! He grinned, the knave, like a seal on a skerry. Had it not been for vexing my poor kinswoman Norna, I would have sent his misbegotten body, and mishapen jolterhead, after my bonny flask as sure as St. Magnus lies at Kirkwall."

By this time the servant returned with the ponies, which they had very soon caught—these sensible animals finding nothing so captivating in the pastures where they had been suffered to stray, as inclined them to resist the invitation again to subject themselves to saddle and bridle. The prospects of the party were also considerably improved by learning that the contents of their sumpter-ponies' burden had not been entirely exhausted, a small basket having fortunately escaped the rage of Norna and Palcolet, by the rapidity with which one of the servants had caught up and removed it. The same domestic, an alert and ready witted fellow, had observed upon the beach, not above three miles distant from the Burgh, and about a quarter of a mile off their straight path, a deserted Skio, or fisherman's hut, and suggested that they should occupy it for the rest of the night, in order that the ponies might be refreshed and the young ladies spend the night under cover from the raw evening air.

When we are delivered from great and serious danger, our mood is, or ought to be, grave, in proportion to the peril we have escaped, and the gratitude due to protecting Providence. But few things raise the spirits more naturally, or more harmlessly, than when means of extrication from any of the lesser embarrassments of life are suddenly presented to us; and such was the case in the present instance. The Udaller, relieved from the apprehensions for his daughter's suffering from fatigue, and himself from too much appetite and too little food, carolled Norse ditties, as he spurred Bergen through the twilight, with as much glee and gallantry as if the night-ride had been entirely a matter of his own free choice. Brenda lent her voice to some of his choruses, which were echoed in ruder notes by the servants, who, in that simple state of society, were not considered as guilty of any breach of respect by mingling their voices with the song. Minna, indeed, was as yet unequal to such an effort; but she compelled herself to assume some share in the general hilarity of the meeting; and, contrary to her conduct since the fatal morning which concluded the Festival of Saint John, she seemed to take her usual interest in what was going on around her, and answered with kindness and readiness the repeated inquiries concerning her health, with which the Udaller every now and then interrupted his carol. And thus they proceeded by night, a happier party by far than they had been when they traced the same route on the preceeding morning, making light of the difficulties of the way, and promising themselves shelter and a comfortable night's rest in the deserted hut which they were now about to approach, and which they expected to find in a state of darkness and solitude.

But it was the lot of the Udaller that day to be deceived more than once in his calculations.

"And which way lies this cabin of yours, Laurie?" said the Udaller addressing the intelligent domestic of whom we just spoke.

"Yonder it should be," said Laurence Scholey, "at the head of the voe—but, by my faith, if it be the place, there are folk there before us—God and St. Ronan send that they be canny company!"

In truth there was a light in the deserted hut, strong enough to glimmer through every chink of the shingles and wreck-wood of which it was constructed, and to give the whole cabin the appearance of a smithy seen by night. The universal superstition of the Zetlanders seized upon Magnus and his escort.

"They are trows," said one voice.

"They are witches," murmured another.

"They are mermaids," muttered a third; "only hear their wild singing."

All stopped; and, in effect, some notes of music were audible, which Brenda, with a voice that quivered a little, but yet had a turn of arch ridicule in its tone, pronounced to be the sound of a fiddle.

"Fiddle or fiend," said the Udaller, who, if he believed in such nightly apparitions as had struck terror into his retinue, certainly feared them not—"fiddle or fiend, may the devil fetch me if a witch cheats me out of supper to-night, for the second time!"

So saying, he dismounted, clenched his trusty truncheon in his hand, and advanced towards the hut, followed by Laurence alone; the rest of his retinue continuing stationary on the beach, beside his daughters and his ponies.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind mar17 eod & wky

Marine Mishaps.

HALIFAX, Jan. 23.—On December 28th last a little schooner of about 38 tons register, named the Mikado, commanded by Captain Heather, put in here in distress, while on a voyage from Crapaud, P. E. I., to Boston, laden with produce. She cleared again on the 30th of that month, but as she has not yet been reported at her destination it is thought that she has been blown off the coast by the recent heavy gales.

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 16.—Barque Isabel foundered at sea. All hands saved and landed here. (Barque Isabel, Vance, left New York Nov. 20th for Antwerp, and arrived safe at Antwerp yesterday morning, Jan. 23. The vessel reported to be lost must be the barque Isabel, Capt. McClure, of P. E. I., bound from Jamaica to the English Channel.)

GLOUCESTER, Jan. 23.—Schooner Edward P. Boynton, of this port, at Boston on Friday from Georges, reports the loss of one of her crew, Mr. John McPhee, who was knocked overboard by the main boom on Friday, about 55 miles E. S. E. from Cape Ann, on the passage home, and drowned. He was a native of Little Harbor, Prince Edward Island, about 24 years of age, and unmarried.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—Steamer Hudson, from Carthagena, arrived at this port to-day and reports that on Jan. 9th she passed the abandoned British brig Warren W., off Bermuda, with fore and maintopmast gone and foreyard standing. The foresail and mainstaysail were blowing to pieces, and a red flag was in the main rigging. The brig was of and from Charlotttetown, P. E. Island, for New York, with a general cargo. (Before reported passed Dec. 22nd, disabled and bound to Bermuda.)

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The crew of the British brig Warren W., Capt. Buchanan, from Charlottetown for New York, abandoned at sea on the 27th ult., have arrived at Falmouth.

E. M. CASWELL, Grand Union Hotel, N. Y., says: Adamson's Cough Balsam has cured coughs and colds for me repeatedly. I have used it in my family fifteen years, and at every trial we have found it successful. We are never without it. Trial bottles 10 cents; large, 35 cents. dy wy 1w
