On Saturday evening last a certain sportsman returned to the city with a bag of game, and a certain "sonny," who resides in the neighborhood of North River Bridge, sooty appropriated said bag immediately upon its delivery. The storm drum was ordered up yesterday evening for a moderate gale from the east, shifting through south to south-west. Owing to the telegraph office being closed on Sunday, the warning, which was despatched from Toronto at 5 o'clock last evening, was not received here until the office opened at nine o'clock this morning, too late to notify outgoing steamers.

It is thought probable that Rev. Charles A. Berry, of Wolverhampton, England, will be the successor to Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, of Plymouth Church. He is said to have more of Mr. Beecher's broad Catholic spirit, and more of his characteristics than any one who preached since the late pastor's death. A sermon recently delivered by Mr. Berry in Plymouth Church, most favorably impressed the congregation.

YESTERDAY morning a large congregation greeted their former pastor, Rev. Dr. Lathern, in the Methodist Brick Church. The Doctor, after an absence of several years, seemed very much pleased to meet so many of his old friends again. After the opening exercises he announced his text from the 3rd chapter of Philippians and the 10th verse: "That I may know him and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his suffering." His sermon was the eloquent, powerful and affectionate appeal of a loving heart to those endeared to him by old associations and kindly relations. One could see by a glance at the earnest and attentive faces of the congregation that they fully appreciated the gentle and kindly words of their former pastor. During the service Dr. Lathern referred to the singing of the hymns of the Church, and told how he appreciated those grand old tunes which so appropriately and fully interpret the words and meaning of the standard hymns of the Methodist Church. He complimented the choir on the tunes chosen, and remarked that it was well worth a trip across the Gulf to listen again to the singing of those fine old English tunes, some of which he had not heard since he left

A LECTURE was recently delivered in Montreal, showing that consumption is often caused by drinking milk from diseased cows. Said the lecturer: "The imparting of consumption from animal to man has been so clearly proven that the theory is now scarcely ever called in question. THE barque Eliza Bars, which arrived here on Sunday, the 16th inst., sailed yesterday morning for Bermuda with a cargo consisting of 3,000 bushels oats, 1,200 barrels potatoes, and a quantity of barley and other produce. She carried on deck 12 horses, 8 head of cattle and 20 sheep, and a number of geese and turkeys. The cattle shipped were very fine; among the best ever exported from the Island, and were bought from Hon. D. Feignson, H. Longworth, Esq., and other well known breeders. The barque was loaded by Mr. Horace Hazard, of this city, for the firm of Peatman, Watlington & Co., of Hamilton, Bermuda, who are also the owners of the vessel. A San Francisco, Cal., exchange contains the following despatch: "New York, Oct. 11.—J. E. Grant, who has returned from Prince Edward Island, reports progress in the work of connecting the Island with the mainland. A submarine railway is being constructed by a well known New York engineer, through which in all seasons of the year, freight and passenger trains will pass between New Brunswick and the Island. The subway will be nine miles in length, and soundings have been made by the Dominion Government, the route fixed, and wharves constructed on the New Brunswick side. The only means of communication between the Island and the mainland during the winter time has been by means of boats, fitted upon runners. The New York engineer has guaranteed to build the submarine railway for $5,000,000, and will allow the Dominion Government twenty years in which to pay its cost, he furnishing the necessary capital for carrying out the work."

How true it is that it is sometimes necessary to go abroad to learn what is happening at home! Mr. Grant's intentions may have been good enough, but he is just a "little off" with reference to the progress of the subway.
