DENTISTRY.

THE cry of "Hard times" and "No money" is universal. Yet people lose their teeth, and in consequence their health. Again, recent improvements have cheapened the cost of Dental material;—considering which I have decided to reduce my prices, and for three months from the date of this I will make a set of teeth for Ten Dollars. Parts of sets correspondingly cheap. More than this—I will use good material and guarantee, in every case, a perfect fit.

A notification is to be addressed to the sessional clerks residing in various parts of the country that they need not attend at Ottawa, as is usual, before the session, until they receive special instruction.

LONDON, Jan. 12.
The library of Birmingham and the Midland Institution at Birmingham, containing 80,000 volumes, was burned Saturday. It contained the most complete Shakespearian collection in the world, numbering 8000 volumes; comparatively few books saved.
The Malabar Iron and Coal Company discharged 1,500 men on Saturday, because of the depression in trade.

LONDON, Jan. 11.
It is stated that Count Schouvaloff had an interview with Lord Salisbury on Friday, and that the latter immediately afterwards wrote to Lord Beaconsfield and Cranbrook.

Cable specials report continued gales on the coasts of England, Ireland and Scotland, and very low temperature. The Thames and Upper Mersey are filled with floating ice. Loch Lomond is frozen over. All vessels arriving report terrible weather in the Atlantic and Channel.

LONDON, Jan. 12.
A correspondent with the Quetta column telegraphs from Tifedoin, Tuesday, that 140 British cavalry yesterday defeated a body of Afghans, killing twenty-four and capturing nine. Twelve hundred Afghan cavalry were subsequently forced to abandon the heights by a cannonade, in which seven of the British were wounded. It is thought that this skirmish will cause the Afghans to decide not to defend Candahar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 11.
The Journal de St. Petersburg to-day says the Ameer of Afghanistan entered Russian territory, not in consequence of the success of the British, but in order to invoke the mediation of Russia. The Ameer will receive sympathetic hospitality, but the idea of mediation is an illusion, upon the clearing up of which will probably depend a continuation of his journey.

LONDON, Jan. 11.
The Viceroy of India telegraphs to-day that General Stewart, on the 8th inst., received news that the Governor of Candahar, with most of the Cabul officials, fled toward Herat and the garrison disbanded. The Deputy Governor sent, offering submission, and the British troops will march through Candahar to-day.

A Berlin dispatch says that some persons believe the bill giving the Reichstag power to punish its own members for improper utterances has been introduced so that rejection may give Bismarck an excuse for dissolution. The bill is exceedingly unpopular. The National (Liberal organ) suggests that it would be better to establish a dictatorship at once. It is generally believed that the bill will be passed in a modified form.

A Berlin dispatch says the negotiations relative to the prevention of collisions at sea resulted in the compilation of a code of regulations, which have been approved by the majority of the Powers interested, and which, it is expected, will very shortly be embodied in an international convention.

LONDON, Jan. 12.
The "Times" leading editorial says: "We have every reason to believe that Yakoob Khan has already been officially informed of the terms on which we are prepared to make peace. Doubtless they are such as he can honorably accept. The "Times" Lahore despatch states there are strong rumors of Yakoob Khan's being quite disposed to make friendly arrangements."
The London Daily News Berlin despatch says: The proposed bill practically abolished all guarantees of freedom of debate, and while it is in the power of a majority to turn over any offending member to the courts, it makes a penal offence for the press to publish any speech censured by the president of the Diet. This is nominally aimed at socialist deputies. The law could be applied or misapplied to any objectionable member. The bill was wholly unexpected and seems to alarm even national liberals; but they will probably reconcile themselves to it before it comes to a vote in the Diet.

Dunker, member of the Prussian Parliament, prosecuted by the Prussian Minister, for writing an article in the Volks Zeitung on the 15th of August last, criticising the anti-Socialist Bill, has been fined 200 marks.

A Rome encyclical letter of the Pope appeals to the Governments to restore to the church a degree of liberty which would enable her to efficaciously employ her influence in favor of society. The Italia says the encyclical letter is the commencement of a crusade against modern institutions.

LONDON, Jan. 11.
The reported statement of the forthcoming programme of the French Ministry is confirmed, with the additional fact that the Government proposes to grant individual pardons to all Communists, except four hundred ringleaders and participants in the massacres. It is also announced that at a recent meeting of delegates of the Left M. Dufaure, President of the Ministry, favored entrusting the great military commands to generals favorable to the Republic. He acknowledged that modifications in the magistracy were necessary, but objected to the wholesale change.

Correspondence.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the statements or opinions of our correspondents.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir—It appears to have now become generally known that Mr. Carvell is about to enter upon a tour of inspection in connection with the P. E. I. Railway; and the interested inhabitants of Charlottetown have reason to congratulate themselves on finding a gentleman so well qualified to carry out this difficult task appointed to the office. It is to be hoped that in the performance of this duty he will be the means of thoroughly unravelling several matters that are at present mysteries in the eyes of many persons in town and elsewhere. Among these mysteries I may mention the repairs going on on board the steamer Alpha, where Mr. Carvell may possibly be able to trace tools and material belonging to the Railway being freely used. It is to be hoped, too, that no Government wood may be forthcoming, as there are large quantities from some (at present) unknown source being worked up in the P. E. I. R. carpenter shop, in making tanks, black walnut desks, pine candlesticks (artistically gilt), picture frames, pine sills, &c., which articles have been and are being distributed.

It is a matter of some surprise to me that the Mechanical Superintendent is not the recipient of a handsome token of respect this Christmas, as he was last. Can it be that former admirers are only waiting to see if he will receive a general public recognition of his valuable services; or do not they appreciate his gigantic efforts for the good of a few favorite employees, now in the machine shop, as much as they were wont to do? A labourer from Shediac is considered deserving of more pay, as a tradesman in the machine shop, than a man who has served his time at the same trade on the Clyde, and who is now working in the same shop for much less wages. The latter thought it better to head the fund for the support of a sick fellow-workman than subscribe toward a token of respect to his able Superintendent! Perhaps if other employees had followed the same example and had not been influenced by the fear of the withdrawal of the various benefits and favours which are in the power of the Mechanical Superintendent to bestow, the presentation list might not have reached so high a figure, and the sick workmen might have received more material benefit, whether the most deserved by or not, remains to be seen.

There are several matters of more or less consequence that could be pointed out to Mr. Carvell which would help him in his difficult researches. But we can fully trust to his own well-known personal ability and uprightness to thoroughly and impartially investigate affairs; and trust he may be able, in a short time, to use a terse though comprehensive phrase, slightly altered, namely: "I came, I saw, I exposed."

I am, dear Sir,
Yours, etc.,
"WANDERER."

Wiggins says,—"They have a good deal to say about this 'new game of lacrosse.' New game? Fudge! It's old's the hills. I used to play it when I was a little chap no bigger than a pint of cider." He refers to the time when he used to lacrosse the knee of his nearest maternal relative and get beaten.

"Two mouths with but a single stew, two spoons that dip as one," as the young man remarked to his dearly beloved after giving his economical order of "one stew, two spoons."
