ROAD TO CELEBRATE First Anniversary Here

The 91st anniversary of the formation of the force which has become famous as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will be celebrated here with the fifth annual church parade this coming Sunday. A. S. McNeill, last night.

The police branch first came into being in 1873. The salute will be taken at 12:30 in front of the new Memorial Building by His Honor Lieutenant Governor W. J. Macdonald. Accompanying him will be his aides, Sheriff Walter R. Shaw and Commander Mitchell, DFC, representing the H.P.E.I. Regiment Band under Lieut. Charles McGregor. Route of the parade will be down Grafton to Prince Street and south to Richmond Street. Members of the force will give an "eyes right" as they pass the monument on Grafton Street.

On Richmond Street the Protestant party will turn on St. Paul's Church. The Land will continue on Richmond leading the Roman Catholic party to services at the Basilica. OFFICIALS TAKING SALUTE Following services the parade will reform on Church Street and the band leading will retrace its route. The salute will be taken at 12:30 in front of the new Memorial Building by His Honor Lieutenant Governor W. J. Macdonald. Accompanying him will be his aides, Sheriff Walter R. Shaw and Commander Mitchell, DFC, representing the H.P.E.I. Regiment Band under Lieut. Charles McGregor. Route of the parade will be down Grafton to Prince Street and south to Richmond Street. Members of the force will give an "eyes right" as they pass the monument on Grafton Street.

No Separation, Pearson Says

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Wednesday that an inquiry into the effect of Quebec independence on the rest of Canada would be entirely academic because "no such separation is going to take place."

His reply to his report (NIP Toronto Daily Star) was greeted with long applause by Liberal backbenchers.

Mr. Scott noted that a special committee of the Quebec legislature has commissioned studies of the social, economic and cultural effects of separation on Quebec.

going on between senior and opposed forces.

But after it was all over most of the audience seemed to agree with the final verdict rendered by the adjudicator.
